HOOVER WARNS BUREAU CHIEFS TO CUT BUDGETS

Charges Some Seek Larger Sums.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—In a personal letter to the heads of all departments and independent executive establishments, President Hoover charges that some of these officials are busy preparing budget estimates actually larger than their expenditures for the present fiscal year, instead of heeding his advice to pare expenses to the bone.

The letter, written July 17, came to light today.

The President's order is that all activities, except those of vital interest to the public welfare, are to be eliminated or indefinitely postponed.

Says Some Want More.

"The July 1 estimates of expenditures for the fiscal year 1932 furnished by the departments and establishments to the bureau of the budget," the letter says, "indicate that in spite of all efforts for economy, the expenditures as now contemplated by the departments and establishments will be in excess of those allowed as of June 1 and also in excess of those actually made during the fiscal year 1931.

"In view of the fact that our revenues are falling off materially from the amount estimated at the time of the preparation of the budget for 1932 and of the consequent large deficit estimated for the current fiscal year, I plead again to bring to your attention the seriousness of our financial situation and desire that you assure yourself that all those in your department are impressed with the vital need for economies and postponements in view of this emergency. The situation is a serious one and demands that we all make the most earnest efforts to eliminate or postpone all such activities as may be so without serious detriment to the public welfare.

Wants Estimates Aug. 17.

"You have been requested to furnish to the bureau of the budget for the information not later than Aug. 17 a statement of appropriations available for expenditure during the current and subsequent fiscal years with an indication of the amounts expected to be obligated therefrom and the contemplated ultimate savings.

"Pending the compilation and analysis of this statement I wish to suggest that you refrain from actually obligating money available for expenditure during the current fiscal year except in those cases where such postponement or elimination will clearly be to the detriment of the public welfare.

"In a number of officials the President, it is said, descended with crushing effect.

War, Navy Cuts Likely.

Most concerned of all departments are the departments of war and the navy, for it is generally agreed that they will be the hardest hit.

Many officials are gloomily confident that the building program on which they have been working for weeks and which, it is expected, will entail an appropriation of approximately 100 million dollars, will never see the light of day.

The war department appropriation for the current fiscal year is $445,765,-[illegible], of which $234,795,985 is for military and $111,969,770 is for nonmilitary activities. Since 90 millions of the latter sum are for rivers and harbor projects and 25 millions for Mississippi river flood control work, any cuts in the army quota must, it is assumed, come out of the appropriations for military activities.

Farm Fund Appears Safe.

The department of agriculture, which received $215,578,962 from the last session of congress, will be immune from the knife, it is expected, since the farmers already politically powerful. It is not supposed that either the administration or congress will seek to economize much at their expense.

When a good deal of cutting is expected to take place is in the independent offices, many of them recently created, some at the behest of Mr. Hoover himself. Thanks largely to the veterans' bureau with its appropriation of $668,912,732, the independent offices received $1,052,777,910 to spend during the present fiscal year.

The Jolly Safeblower Will Have His Joke!

Druggan-Lake Plea Hinges on Verdict.

The government's income tax campaign against hoodlums and politicians passed the final test of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday when the conviction of Ralph J. Capone, brother of Scarface Al, was affirmed. Capone was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth and fined $10,000.

RALPH CAPONE.

Importance was attached to the Capone appeal by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson and his assistants because its result leaves not a single proposition of law in the income tax campaign that has not been upheld by the Appellate court. Moreover, the pleas of guilty entered by Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, former beer barons, were contingent in part on the outcome of the Capone appeal. These gangsters also conditioned their pleas on the appeal of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien, which has been decided in favor of the government.

Pin Hope on Supreme Court.

Druggan and Lake are now clutching at their last straw, the chance that the Supreme court might reverse the O'Brien conviction, a chance which their lawyers regard as strong because of an opinion in the O'Brien case written by Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler of the Circuit court. There was no dissenting opinion in the Capone decision to encourage an appeal to the Supreme court.

The conviction and sentence of Capone on one misdemeanor count, that of concealing assets in connection with an offer of compromise of his tax liability, was reversed by the Appellate court. Prosecutors Jacob Grossman and Dwight H. Green, however, regarded this as of no importance, because no pending cases were contingent upon its outcome and the sentence on this count was only a year in the county jail, to run concurrently with the prison sentence.

Charge Attempts to Cheat U. S.

The chief point of interest in Capone's case was his conviction on two felony counts charging willful attempts to "cheat, swindle and defraud the United States," for in that respect the prosecution was unprecedented. Never before had a man been charged under a general statute of the criminal code in connection with his income taxes. Druggan and Lake have entered conditional pleas of guilty to the same charge, and the Circuit court sustained the legality of the indictment.

Capone failed to file income tax returns or to pay any taxes for the years 1922, 1923, 1924, and 1925. In November, 1926, he was called in by the collector of internal revenue, and, after being questioned, admitted that he owed $5,082.18 in taxes, interest and penalties, and filed delinquent returns. But instead of paying the tax, which would have saved him all his subsequent trouble, he filed, on Oct. 3, 1927, an offer in compromise, contending that he was a poor man, his only assets being a half interest in two race horses, and seeking to settle for $1,000, which he said he would have to borrow. For this offer he was charged with trying to cheat the government.

The Court's Opinion.

In connection with Capone's attempt to deceive the collector, the Appellate court's opinion, written by Judge Evan A. Evans and concurred in by Judge Alschuler and Judge Will M. Sparks, states:

"It appeared that he deposited his money in various banks under fictitious names and conducted his business under various false or feigned names, frequently changing the deposits or the names in which the deposits were made. It further appeared that he thus deposited, during a period of five years and four months next preceding April 22, 1929, sums aggregating $1,851,940.08."

One of the assignments of error relied upon by the appellant was the admission by Judge James H. Wilkerson of evidence showing the sale of beer at $55 a barrel by Capone, the defense contending that he was not

White River, Ariz., July 24.—(AP)—Searchers found the body of Miss Henrietta Schmerler, 23 year old Columbia university student, in a canyon on the White River Apache reservation this afternoon and a superficial examination indicated she had been slain.

The ground in the vicinity showed evidences of a struggle.

Miss Schmerler, who had been sent to Arizona by the university to observe Indian conditions and modes of life, was last reported seen Saturday.

She had been living alone for a month in a shack four miles from White River. Acquaintances said the young woman told them Saturday she was going to a dance that night at Fort Apache, five miles distant. She was not seen at the dance.

The body was found after a search of more than two days through the rough country of the Apache reservation. White river is in the midst of an isolated section lying generally between Phoenix and Holbrook.

Indian Women Jealous.

Shortly after the search got under way, a 25 year old Apache, Claude Gilbert, was taken into custody. Friends of the woman said she had planned to attend a dance with him. She did not appear at the dance and Gilbert denied he had taken her or had seen her after a casual meeting Saturday afternoon.

Talk has been heard of ill feeling among the Indian women of the reservation over the attractive young white woman's presence.

Sheriff L. D. Divelbess of Navajo county went to White River Apache reservation at the request of Gov. George W. P. Hunt to take charge of the search for the girl.

Twenty Indian searchers who explored several caves in the vicinity yesterday were augmented by thirty more today.

Gov. Hunt's aid in solving the young woman's disappearance was requested by Frank D. Fackenthal secretary of Columbia university.

Was Brilliant Student.

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Henrietta Schmerler, whose body was found in an Arizona ravine, was described tonight by associates here as one of the most brilliant students in Columbia university's department of anthropology.

She entered Columbia last year for work in ethnology and anthropology. At the June commencement she was rewarded for her work with a summer fellowship entitling her to a field trip among Arizona Indian reservations. She obtained her bachelor of science degree in 1928 from New York university.

At Columbia her work was directed toward the degree of bachelor of philosophy in anthropology. When she left New York in the early part of June, Miss Schmerler said she expected to be gone a year.

Alfonso Gives Spain's Crown to Third Son

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 24.—Alfonso XIII. of the House of Bourbon and the House of Hapsburg is no longer king of Spain, even in his own eyes.

He abdicated last Monday at a family council in Fontainebleau, France, where he is living with his family in exile, in favor of his third son, Prince Don Juan de Bourbon, who is 18 years old, a student at the English naval academy at Dartmouth, and, what is more important, a healthy lad.

This information came to The Tribune today from a witness to the renunciation of the crown by the fallen monarch, a minister of the crown under the dictatorship.

Alfonso Heeds "Sentence."

Alfonso, king from birth "by the grace of God," constitutional monarch after his fashion from 1902 to 1923, absolute monarch by grace of dictator from 1923 to 1931, thus recognizes the sentence that overtook him on the night of April 14. Spain's two elections and her clamor he also finally interprets.

He transfers the "crown" to young Juan Carlos Teresa Silverio Alfonso, now King Juan. His number has yet to be decided and he becomes a member of that curious little band of pretenders marking time in Europe.

Alfonso sticks to his theories that he himself and not the monarchy was voted down. He stepped out in favor of Juan to make possible an eventual revival of the monarchist cause.

Family Gathers in Hotel.

Former King Alfonso's retirement in favor of King Juan was accomplished with extreme legality and practically no ceremony. The family gathered in the salon of the royal apartment of their hotel. It rained all day.

Those of the old ministers who are still loyal were convoked to witness the solemn act. There were four abdications in all, one of which was a sensation.

There was Alfonso's. There was that of Alfonso, the prince of the Asturias, a 24 year old boy, too weak ever to rule because of the hemophilia curse of his mother's family. After him came the deaf and dumb brother, Don Jaime. Both formally signed away their claims.

The fourth and unexpected abdication was that of old Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender, great-grandson of Don Carlos, brother of Ferdinand VII.

Juan will play the Bourbon cards, such as they are.

Veteran Found Shot to Death in North Side Alley

A man, identified by army discharge papers in his pocket as M. Dobbins, 147 West Huron street, was found slain in an alley at the rear of 648 North Clark street early this morning. He had been shot to death, and his clothing gave evidence of a terrific struggle.

Other papers indicated he once lived in Danville, Ill., and at the Broadway hotel, 918 Edgcomb place.

Bomb Damages Fruit Store at Broadway and Argyle

A bomb was exploded early this morning at the entrance of the North Town Fruit Market, 4955 Broadway, and blew in the door and smashed windows in the place. The store was opened only recently, and it was said in the neighborhood that the proprietor, whose name police were unable to learn, had been underselling other fruit merchants in the vicinity.

Mystery Baby Gives Thrills to Two Cities

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Whoever she is, or wherever she came from, a flaxen haired 3 year old girl picked up on Thursday by the police in Rockford was the vortex last night of a whirlwind of drama. Complications rose, were exploded, and were succeeded by others with the breath snatching rapidity of the old fashioned movie serial. Bulletins flashed into and out of newspaper offices, and automobiles went tearing through the night to decide the problem of her identity.

Mrs. Kathryn Moroney of 2933 South Michigan avenue read an account in the newspapers of the white child who had been found at Rockford in the care of an old Indian woman. Hope that springs eternal sent Mrs. Moroney and her husband, Michael, to the Chicago detective bureau on an eager quest. The child, they believed, might be their own daughter, Mary Agnes, who was kidnaped more than a year ago from their home, then at 5200 Wentworth avenue.

Incidents of the Case.

In rapid succession yesterday and last night came these episodes in the life of the tanned and tranquil youngster around whom this hurricane of interest and speculation has risen:

1. Mrs. Martha Thompson, the Indian, declares the child is Betty Florence Louise Fuller of Chicago, who had been abandoned by her mother. The mother's name is Mrs. Florence Fuller and her address is Erie and Ohio streets, Mrs. Thompson says.

2. Juvenile Protective authorities in Chicago wired the Rockford police to send the child and the Indian woman to Chicago. The two streets of the address given parallel each other, it is pointed out.

3. Mrs. Moroney, reading of the case, appealed to the detective bureau here to get a description of the little girl.

4. Brief details telegraphed to the Chicago police are: "Three years old, plump, blond hair, snub nose, blue eyes." The Moroneys excitedly declare that this corresponds closely to the appearance of Mary Agnes, and ask whether a red mark appears on the right cheek of the baby.

Police Can't Find Mark.

5. The Rockford police report themselves unable to discern any mark, but it may be because the child is so tanned by wind and sun that it isn't easily seen. They are then asked to send the child to Chicago by automobile this morning in care of a welfare worker.

6. The child at Rockford disappears from the Volunteers of America home where she has been left for the night. Searching parties are organized to scour the neighborhood.

7. The Moroneys disappear from the detective bureau.

8. One of the Volunteers of America nurses returns from a walk, having taken the little girl along without mentioning her intention to others at the home.

9. Mrs. Moroney dashes to Rockford, accompanied by journalists, views the child, and declares it is not hers.

"That is not my baby," Mrs. Moroney said with finality. She examined the girl's teeth and other physical characteristics and repeated her statement. Obviously disappointed, the Moroney party started back for Chicago.

Kidnaping Stirs City.

All Chicago was startled when in May, 1930, Mary Agnes Moroney, then 2 years old, was led away from her home at 5200 Wentworth avenue by a chic young woman who called herself Julia Otis, and said she was a welfare worker.

Forty-eight hours later the distracted parents received a note purporting to be from the Otis woman, declaring she wanted to take Mary Agnes with her for a six month visit in California, and would return the baby at the expiration of that time, taking good care of her in the interim. She never returned.

The Indian woman arrested at Rockford when the white child drew the attention of the police, said she was en route west to join the Miller Brothers circus, but did not know its exact whereabouts. She was trundling the little girl in a cart, and at first claimed the child as her own. Later she begged to be permitted to keep her.

16th Child Born to Sit at Family Dinner Table

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bodoe of 1904 North Cicero avenue, claim one of the largest families in Chicago. Their claim is based on the arrival Thursday of their sixteenth child, a boy. The oldest child is 19 years old. All sixteen children are alive. Bodoe has a shoe repair shop at 3944 Fullerton avenue.

20 ARE MISSING WHEN INFIRMARY IS DESTROYED

Pittsburgh Catholic Asylum Razed.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 24.—[Special.]—Thirty residents of the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged at Penn and Aiken avenues were known to be dead in a fire that swept the building late tonight. Twenty others were missing and more than 100 injured were in hospitals.

All available police and fire companies were rushed to the blazing building when six alarms were turned in before 11 o'clock and rescuers were trying to save all survivors in the building as the fire blazed.

Battle 15,000 Spectators.

While police battled to keep a crowd of more than 15,000 spectators out of the danger area rescuers worked shoulder to shoulder on the lawn of the home over those brought out of the building.

Ladders that firemen raised against the windows of the building in an attempt to reach the sills where the screaming occupants of the home pleaded for rescue were burned away in many cases before firemen could scale them. One of the aged men was said to have leaped from a second story window to escape. He is in a serious condition at a hospital.

Nuns and brothers of a religious order nearby joined with firemen and police in entering the blazing structure and carrying out the helpless victims.

Blaze Spreads to 4th Floor.

The fire started in the men's infirmary, according to reports. It was impossible to learn its origin. The flames spread to the second, third and fourth floors, broke through the roof, and leaped sideways to all parts of the building.

Volunteer rescuers, rushing to the home, found the two heavy iron gates in the high wall surrounding the institution closed and locked. Men scaled the stone wall to enter the grounds. The firemen, arriving with their equipment, were forced to batter down the gate at the driveway.

Sister Agatha, the mother superior of the home, was taken forcibly from the burning building after she had rushed back in to lead the rescue of the trapped inmates. She was carried in a hysterical condition to the rectory of St. Lawrence's church, across the street from the home.

Holy Images by Their Sides.

Many of the slightly injured and overcome were treated at an emergency station hurriedly set up in the basement of the St. Lawrence school by city physicians and doctors from a dozen hospitals. Oxygen was administered to others on the lawn at the home. Beside them reposed holy images salvaged by the faithful at the risk of their lives.

The list of missing included six volunteers who entered the blazing building in search of bodies. The total number of inmates in the blazing wing was 256—145 men and 105 women, all more than 60, many bedridden and helpless from the infirmities of age.

It was Pittsburgh's most disastrous institutional fire. The old red brick building occupied almost an entire square. Upward of 200 were believed in the wing which caught fire. More than 100 inmates were at the dining table. Thirty-one men and a larger number of women were in the infirmary and 45 to 50 of the order and several monks also were in the building.

A Survivor's Story.

Mrs. Mary Kline, 82, and blind, who was trapped in a third floor room with several others, said:

"I just got down on my knees and prayed to God. And then I was rescued."

Mrs. Margaret Connell, 75, who tried to aid feeble and ill fellow inmates, told how women fought against suffocation and heat.

"We were almost suffocating," Mrs. Connell said. "The women had to run from window to window for air. Sister Pascaline, in charge of the floor, who remained at her post until all were saved, made them stick their heads out and breathe before going on. There were no lights and the heat on the floor was intense. I felt too weak to go on. I sank back on a bed and a fireman carried me out."

As soon as the ruins began to cool officials from the coroner's office and the police searched for bodies. One body taken from the ruins appeared to be that of a nun.

Unable to Establish Fire Lines.

Police were unable to establish fire lines, as a vast crowd of thousands swarmed into the district, filling the streets for blocks around.

So many aged were injured or burned that ambulances were insufficient to carry them to hospitals, and 40 to 50 taxicabs were pressed into service.

Two of the inmates were dead when admitted to a hospital. A dozen more, overcome by smoke and burned slightly, were unconscious.

The home houses upwards of 600, including numerous cripples. Many were taken from windows by laddermen and several jumped from upper stories into life nets.

The fire was not detected by persons at the home, but was first sighted by neighbors who turned in an alarm.

Scream at Windows for Help.

As the flames spread many of the aged inmates could be seen standing at windows screaming for help. Most of those taken to hospitals were persons overcome by smoke or injured when they jumped into life nets. Because of their advanced age the condition of many of the smoke cases was serious.

As the fire ate through the roof of the structure, it created a gigantic torch which could be seen from all surrounding sections.

CONRAD SPENS, RAIL OFFICIAL, ILL IN LONDON

Conrad E. Spens, 57 years old, executive vice president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad and prominent in federal fuel and food administrations, is seriously ill in London, according to information received here yesterday. Mrs. Spens, who was vacationing in Colorado, arrived in Chicago last night and will hurry to London.

The nature of the railway official's illness was not disclosed. He and his son, Keeline, have been spending a vacation in Europe.

In 1918 Mr. Spens was appointed director of transportation for the United States food administration. At the same time he was named a member of the traffic board on the staff of Director General McAdoo. After the federal fuel distribution bill was signed by President Harding in 1922 he was appointed federal fuel distributor.

Mr. Spens entered the employ of the Burlington railroad as a stenographer in 1892. He became an assistant general freight agent in 1903, and later general freight agent. He was named vice president in charge of traffic in 1920 and executive vice president in 1929.

The Spens' home is at 3500 Sheridan road.

NAVY PIER JOB CONTEST MAY GO TO COURTS

A contest in the courts over the position of superintendent of Navy pier may take place, according to reports yesterday in the city hall, as a result of the ouster last week of Hugo Krause, a former alderman. The position then was given by Mayor Cermak to John J. Meyers, who was sponsored by County Commissioner Weber.

Krause held the job by civil service appointment until he resigned during the Dever administration. Last February he was placed back in the merit service after the civil service commission in December, 1930, canceled his resignation at the request of the last mayor.

Before Krause was ousted by the new administration an opinion was obtained from Francis J. Vurpillat, assistant corporation counsel, who is regarded as an authority on civil service law. The opinion held that the cancellation of Krause's seven year old resignation was illegal and that he has no civil service standing. The position pays $5,500 a year.

FRUIT DEALER, ROBBED, HURLS KNIFE INTO BOY

A knife hurled by an indignant fruit merchant whose stand had been robbed by small boys last night struck Eugene O'Hern, 9 years old, 4225 Harrison street, in the back, inflicting a serious wound. Policemen rescued the merchant, Otto Polosolo, 37 years old, from a crowd which was threatening him after the incident, and charged him with assault with intent to kill.

Polosolo told the police that he had been annoyed on several occasions recently by boys stealing fruit from his stand at 629 South Kilbourn avenue. Last night, he charged, he saw the O'Hern boy and two older companions snatch some fruit.

He ran after them with a banana knife in his hand and hurled it, striking the O'Hern boy. The boy will recover, it was said at the Frances Willard hospital.

SUSPENDED COP QUITS AT GARY; RECALL RUMORS

Reports that Lieut. Jake Thixtun, night commander of police of Gary, had resigned were confirmed last night by Mayor R. O. Johnson of Gary. Thixtun, reached at Tippecanoe Lake, Ind., refused to discuss his resignation.

Five weeks ago Lieut. Thixtun was suspended by Police Chief Stanley Buckland. Rumors at the time hinted the action followed the lieutenant's cooperation with county prosecuting officials in the investigation of alleged graft.

Subsequently it was made known that the suspension was based on an unsigned letter, purported to have been written by Thixtun and sent to Prosecutor Robert G. Estill, criticizing the mayor and chief for laxity in the enforcement of the law. Both Thixtun and Estill denied such a missive.

Name Capt. Delaney Head of National Hibernians

Capt. Michael Delaney, commanding the Stockyards police station, was elected president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians yesterday at the order's national convention at Newport, R. I., according to a message sent to James B. Scanlan, deputy police commissioner. Capt. Delaney had served previously as treasurer and vice president of the society.

Boy Killed by Fall Down Smokestack 137 Feet High

York, Neb., July 24.—(AP)—William Burnham, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burnham, was killed this afternoon when he fell down the inside of a 137 foot smokestack at the yards of the York Brick and Tile company, owned by his father. He climbed up a ladder on the inside. When near the top he fell.

STIMSON OFF FOR BERLIN TO STUDY FINANCIAL CRISIS

Arranges for Private Talk with Von Hindenburg.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—The seven power conference for the relief of Germany over, the delegates today left for their respective capitals—all but the Americans. Secretary of State Stimson tonight left London for Berlin, where he will remain three days, discussing the possibility of concrete measures to save Germany from bankruptcy, on which the London conference failed to agree.

Mr. Stimson, when he boarded the boat train for Harwich tonight, said his visit to Berlin had no greater significance than that he was just visiting one more European capital so that he might "become better acquainted with the heads of the several governments." He denied that he would discuss financial matters.

Will See Von Hindenburg.

Well informed circles here, however, pointed out that Mr. Stimson in Berlin will meet with all the important leaders in the German capital, and that in such circumstances it will be extremely difficult for him to avoid discussions of measures to relieve the crisis in that country.

In addition to seeing Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius and other members of the German cabinet, it has been arranged for Mr. Stimson to have a private audience with President Von Hindenburg. Mr. Stimson expects to return to London Tuesday and from here he will go to Scotland for the grouse shooting.

The other delegates to the London conference left earlier in the day. Foreign Minister Briand of France left this morning, intending to return from Calais to Paris by automobile. Later in the day Premier Laval, Bruening, Curtius, and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy left on the same channel boat.

British Are Optimistic.

British official circles, who are slowly recovering from the strain of the last four days of high pressure negotiations, insist that the results of those labors are not altogether nil, although the conclusion American opinion has reached regarding the results is negative. While the British are at least partly optimistic, they believe, however, that they would have reason to be more so if Uncle Sam had been firmer with the French. They also believe that the next move must come from across the Atlantic.

The withdrawal of French gold from the Bank of England is receiving considerable criticism in Labor party circles, where the belief is held that, despite the cordial expressions exchanged at the conference, a new political alignment in Europe is in the offing unless France does a quick change act shortly. A new record was set today when $36,455,750 was withdrawn by the French.

Reacts on Germany.

France, some weeks ago, decided to call in credits which had been granted to British capitalists, and in order to meet the French demand the British were forced to withdraw their money from Germany, thus contributing to the latter's crisis.

In this connection the Daily Telegraph publishes a sensational attack on Foreign Secretary Henderson, blaming him for the French distrust of British finances. The Telegraph says that while trying to induce the French last week to attend the conference on Germany in London, Mr. Henderson painted a "sensational description of the financial and economic plight in which, according to him, Great Britain found herself." The paper charges that Henderson hinted at the possibility of Britain having to declare a moratorium, whereupon the French bankers became alarmed and began their withdrawals.

GERMANY TO GET NO U. S. CASH NOW, IT IS ANNOUNCED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Contrary to reports from abroad, Germany cannot expect any new financial aid from the United States at this time, it was stated here authoritatively today.

Secretary of State Stimson is going to Berlin because he said he would go, and not in order to talk over the question of further American loans or to discuss how America can help further in solving Germany's financial difficulties, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. announced today.

Mr. Castle's statement was made immediately following a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with Secretary Stimson, and shortly before Mr. Stimson left London for Berlin.

With world economic matters temporarily settled, therefore, official Washington is beginning to resume its consideration of the disarmament problem, with an eye to the Geneva conference next February.

Though virtually alone in wanting the conference to proceed on schedule, the United States will insist that it be held. This at least is the present view of the White House and the state department. The navy department, remembering the Washington and London conferences and what happened to the fleet thereafter, does not care if the conference is never held.

President Hoover left for his Rapidan camp immediately after luncheon today, the first time since consideration of the European situation began that he has got away so early.

West Orange, N. J., July 24.—(AP)—Denial that Thomas A. Edison, the inventor, in taking a rest from his labors is contemplating retirement, was made today at the Edison laboratories.

John V. Miller, the inventor's brother-in-law, and vice president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., said:

"The reports are bunk. It is true Mr. Edison is recuperating from a winter of strenuous work in Florida, but he has no intention of retiring and he will return to his laboratories as soon as his health permits."

He said the inventor was confining himself to his Llewellyn Park estate.

on trial as a bootlegger and that such evidence was prejudicial.

In this respect the Appellate court's opinion says:

"Appellant stated in his offer of compromise and in his various efforts to secure a settlement of the taxes due the government for a sum less than the full amount that he was a professional gambler whose property had all been lost; that his only assets were a couple of broken down race horses, and that he was not able to train them for races wherein he might recoup his fortune. He also stated that he had to borrow the $1,000 with which to make the offer in compromise.

"To disprove these facts, to show that the accused made false and fraudulent representations and to show that his failure to pay his taxes was willful, it was permissible for the government to show that the appellant's principal business was trafficking in beer; that the proceeds from the beer business in five or six years exceeded a million and a half dollars, and that at all times he had to his credit, under fictitious names, in various banks, sums far in excess of the amount required to pay his taxes."

Defense Attorney George N. Murdock said he would apply to the Appellate court for a rehearing and that, failing in this move, he would ask for a stay of execution to permit an appeal to the Supreme court. The defense has twenty days in which to seek a rehearing before the Appellate court issues a mandate. Meanwhile, Capone is at liberty on bonds of $35,000.

To date Frank Nitti, Sam Guzik, and Al Capone have entered unconditional pleas of guilty to tax evasion charges. Nitti and Guzik are in the penitentiary. Al Capone is to be sentenced next Thursday.

GERMANY MUST PAY 423 MILLION; NO CASH TO PAY IT

Nation Faces New Crisis on July 31.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 24.—While all Germany is hoping that Secretary of State Stimson, who arrives in Berlin tomorrow afternoon, will offer some new help to avert the crisis, panicky feeling is spreading further as July 31 approaches, when the government and industry are expected to pay their internal bills. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, and Finance Minister Dietrich admitted at a cabinet meeting tonight that they do not know where they will get the cash needed to take care of these payments.

Authentic figures reveal clearly the desperate situation which Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius must face when they return from London tomorrow.

Faces $423,000,000 Payments.

To take care of all the payments due on July 31 the Reichsbank and other banks must hand out $423,000,000, $150,000,000 for the weekly pay rolls of labor, $143,000,000 for monthly salaries of private concerns, $100,000,000 for state officials' salaries, and $30,000,000 for pensions.

The Reichsbank has not enough bills and coins for these payments, which amount to about one-third of all the notes and coins in circulation in Germany on July 15. The total circulation was then $1,327,000,000. The cabinet had hoped that by paying out one-half of the state salaries and allowing industry to pay only half of their pay rolls they could surmount the shortage of cash. Tonight they admit this would not solve the problem. According to Reichsbank officials, one reason the bank cannot pay out these sums is because millions of Germans have hoarded coins and bills amounting to about $200,000,000.

The bankers and press are beginning to clamor for the removal of Dr. Luther as president of the Reichsbank. They pay tribute to his willingness to work 16 or 18 hours a day, but they declare that the financial difficulties from which Germany is now suffering are due to a great extent to "Luther's lack of real banking instinct and knowledge of the banking trade."

Big Program Awaits Stimson.

Although Mr. Stimson's visit is labelled as unofficial in diplomatic language, a big official program is awaiting him. On his arrival tomorrow he will be received in the former imperial rooms at the railroad station. He will then proceed to the home of Ambassador Sackett, where he will reside. Tomorrow evening Germany's statesmen will be the guests of Ambassador Sackett at a banquet in honor of Mr. Stimson.

Sunday noon Foreign Minister Curtius has invited prominent Germans to a banquet for Mr. Stimson and Ambassador Sackett in his villa on Wilhelmstrasse, which was formerly the home of the late Gustav Stresemann. Sunday evening the chancellery will be the scene of another banquet in Mr. Stimson's honor.

Monday noon President von Hindenburg will receive Mr. Stimson in private audience, after which the American secretary will leave for London.

Two More Banks Crash.

BERLIN, July 24.—(AP)—The Berlin banking firm of A. Hirte suspended payments. The bank, established in 1875, had connections with various industrial interests. The Munich banking firm of Ruederer und Lang, founded in 1883, also suspended payments today.

Emil Weiller, senior partner of the banking firm of J. J. Weiller & Sons, at Frankfort on Main, established 136 years ago, died today. Police said he had taken poison and attributed the act to his bank's difficulties.

The chemist's report on the ice and water taken from the Cook County School for Nurses on July 12, after nearly a score had become ill, was placed in the hands of Emmett Wheelan, president of the county board, yesterday. The report stated that neither the ice nor water had caused the illness and officials expressed the belief that food probably was the cause. No samples of food were obtained.

COL. M'CORMICK PESSIMISTIC ON GERMAN RELIEF

Back from Brief Visit to Europe.

New York, July 25.—[Special.]—The New York Times prints the following:

"Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, returned yesterday on the Cunarder Aquitania from a brief visit to London and Paris, and appeared to be very pessimistic about the results of the financial conferences in the British capital.

"'I think these conferences are a waste of time and that nothing that will help the present crisis in Europe has been achieved,' Col. McCormick said. 'The idea of a number of ministers sitting down solemnly for hours and discussing how much money should be loaned to Germany is absurd and is only a wasted effort.'

Extravagance Real Issue.

"'What Germany has to learn how to do,' continued Col. McCormick, 'is to live within her income. If I were to live beyond my income I wonder who would step forward and suggest that I should have a year's moratorium?

"'Germany is taking in far more gold than she sends out and is spending a great deal more than the reparations. If Germany does not immediately take steps to curtail her expenditure, she will go bankrupt. England, too, I am sorry to say, is also living beyond her revenue and must cut down her expenditure or she will also go bankrupt, the same as Australia has done.

"'France is on top of the world, financially, industrially, physically and in every way. She owes her strong position to Raymond Poincare, when as premier he put through the financial system which saved the panic in 1926, for which he has never had the credit that he deserved.

Youths Well Disciplined.

"'The young Frenchmen I saw in Paris are smart and very well set up, which is the result of their military training, and they look better than the young men of the same age in England. Discipline is a good thing for every one and I wish we had some kind of a system here that would benefit our young men in the big cities.

"'The verging of these European nations toward bankruptcy should be a warning to the United States to take notice in time to prevent this country following the same course. This requires something stronger than conferences between ministers in London or any other city in Europe.'

"Col. McCormick said he was leaving for Chicago today. He has been abroad a month."

Files His Divorce Bill Two Minutes After Wife

When Stephen Orth appeared at the office of the clerk of the Superior court yesterday to file a bill for divorce against Mrs. Lena Orth, 5240 South Mozart street, he discovered that Attorney Victor Frohlich had filed a bill on her behalf only two minutes before. He was served with formal notice of her suit at the office. The Orths made identical charges of cruelty. He charged that she hurled a can of tomatoes at him on July 4, the day they separated, and she made the same charge against him.

GRAF ZEPPELIN STARTS FLIGHT TO NORTH POLE

Will Stop at Leningrad for Supplies.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 25 [Saturday].—The Graf Zeppelin took off at 4:43 a. m. today [10:40 p. m. Friday, Chicago time] on its flight over the north pole. Three airplanes were escorting the huge airship as it turned toward Leningrad, where it will stop for fuel, supplies, and the latest weather reports.

The Graf Zeppelin had spent the night here, where it was visited by hundreds of journalists, scientists, and curious as it made ready for the attempt to explore the arctic regions from the air.

All the fancy decorations, which delighted the Graf's passengers on their flight around the world, have been ripped out to make space for scientific apparatus and supplies.

Carry Ice Equipment.

Instead of canary birds, which it carried on its last trip to America, the Graf is carrying in its hold 12 tents, of traditional red color, 23 sledges strong enough to carry 400 pounds each, four rubber boats, two kayaks, or canoes, two short wave radio transmitters which would enable a land party to keep in touch with the outer world, skils, guns, an ample supply of ammunition and fishing tackle.

Lots of pemmican food is stored in the Graf, but the scientific chief of the trip, Prof. Paul Motschanow, a Russian, has barred all liquor.

To Test Upper Air.

The scientific equipment boasts several stratosphere balloons, 7.5 feet in diameter, which will sail high into the ether, take measurements of air pressure, humidity, and temperature, and communicate the result to the Zeppelin by "robot" radio apparatus.

Two American arctic experts, Commander Edward H. Smith of the coast guard and Lincoln Ellsworth, are representing the American Geographical society on the arctic flight.

"Scientific pioneering was always the strength of the Germans, and to prove that this brave spirit is not dead, I am taking the Graf for an exploration flight into Arctic regions," said Commander Hugo Eckener while in Berlin. He revealed that part of the expense of the flight will be paid by stamp collectors.

"Some blame me for starting this costly trip in hard times," he said. "Three-fourths of the flight has been financed by foreign, mostly Russian and American capital, and the last fourth by stamp collectors in all parts of the world.

"It always was a dream of Count Zeppelin, when working out his plans, that some day one of his airships would be strong enough to go on a big scientific expedition. This flight of ours is a fulfillment of the count's dream.

"I know we will make it and I am sure we will find the right hole and break through the clouds. I have always found it before, and why not now, when we know more about flying than ever we did before in our lives."

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

MOSCOW, July 24.—The wife of Dmitri Krynin, Yale professor, was found today by a correspondent who conveyed to her the first news that her husband had invoked the aid of Lady Astor and George Bernard Shaw in efforts to obtain permission for her to join her family in the United States.

She grasped eagerly the hope something may be done in her behalf after two years of separation from her family.

Prof. Krynin, whose cablegrams from New Haven to Lady Astor and the Irish dramatist furnished a dramatic climax to a British embassy reception in their honor yesterday, asked that both help his wife in Moscow "in the name of humanitarian principles." He said she had been refused permission to leave Russia.

Wants to Join Family.

Mme. Krynin, a plump, motherly woman of 48, was found living in a large, bleak lodging house. Speaking excellent French, she said at the outset that she had no complaint beyond the fact that she was not allowed to rejoin her family.

"Life is very difficult here, of course, but I want you to know that I complain about nothing except that I am not allowed to go to my husband and son," she said. "Never have I been molested by any one.

"I am not a counter-revolutionary. I am liberal minded. Any one can see I am not the type to mix in politics. But I have applied three times for permission to go to America and each time there has been refusal without explanation.

"Has Lady Astor any children? Then she will understand my sentiments after two years' isolation from my family.

Knew Nothing of Move.

"I receive letters from them every two or three days, but I knew nothing of this move by my husband until you came. He did not inform me of his intention to communicate with Lady Astor and Mr. Shaw, but because something may now be done I can find no words to express my sentiments."

The family lived together in Moscow from 1917, through war and revolution, until 1925, when the son left for America and was followed in 1929 by his father. Mme. Krynin said her son, who is 29 years old, recently was graduated with high honors from the University of California and now is at Yale preparing for a doctor's degree in geology.

"As for food," Mme. Krynin said, "I get along very well. I receive a month from my son and that equ 97 rubles. I have a food parcel my son and husband also sent various foods from America."

Mme. Krynin is unemployed and spends most of her time at home studying English. Indicating a book of English grammars on a table, she said in halting English, "You see, I am already beginning to learn."

Lady Astor and Mr. Shaw left last night for a two day visit to Leningrad, after the former had failed in an effort to see high officials of the secret police in the interest of Mme. Krynin. Lady Astor indicated she would pursue her plan on return home and also seek to interview the professor's wife.

Mme. Krynin seemed hesitant about the proposed visit, waving an arm deprecatingly at the interior of the severely plain little room which she knows as home.

"She would not be used to my surroundings," she said, but she saw evidence of eagerness at the idea induced by the interest the American born member of the British parliament had manifested in her.

Lives in Single Room.

She was found living on the fourth floor of a shabby six story stone building in the heart of Moscow, formerly a hotel, but long since converted into a typical lodging house where whole families occupy single rooms barely large enough to accommodate a few simple articles of furniture.

Mme. Krynin was more fortunate than many of her neighbors, since she was alone in one room.

Two Are Slain as Troops Battle Students.

BY JOHN LIVINGSTONE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 24.—After four separate attacks on the University of Chile by soldiers, in which more than 3,000 shots were fired from rifles and machine guns, rebellious students left the university buildings under a truce late today. Two were killed and many were wounded in the battle.

CARLOS IBANEZ.

The students, who had barricaded themselves within the university for two days as a protest against the government of President Ibanez, filed from the buildings as the troops stood ready to renew the firing in the event the angry students attempted a demonstration.

The list of wounded included several women, who were struck by bullets fired by student snipers.

All Business Suspended.

In the downtown area of the capital troops and police clashed with rioters. All business was suspended. Steel shutters were put up on stores, offices, and banks. Telephone lines were cut by the rioters in the business section, and 1,000 military police surrounded the Moneda palace to prevent any attack there. Some of the policemen took positions on the roof, training machine guns into the streets.

Troops were still firing into mobs which milled about the streets of Santiago late tonight. The soldiers swept the streets with rifle fire from behind lamp posts and automobiles. Cavalry troops, wielding lances and sabers, also charged the crowds. Similar disturbances occurred in other sections of Chile, it is reported here.

Lawyers and judges today went on strike as a protest against the rule of President Ibanez and the law courts were closed. Physicians met today and agreed to take a larger part in the drive against the government. They had previously warned authorities they would do no medical work if any student was wounded at the university.

Ibanez Defies Enemies.

During the day of rioting and student agitation, President Carlos Ibanez issued a statement in which he declared that he was determined to retain his power "in order to see it established as a basis of conquering economic difficulties and restoring prosperity."

"I would like to be freed from my official anxieties, but I am convinced that my departure would be interpreted by malcontents as a signal for an anarchical rush," he said. "I am determined to place order before everything else.

"After six years I am again sorry to see the red flag flying in the capital and displacing the national banner. The communist Internationale has also been sung instead of the national anthem, and the whole fabric of law and order is menaced. I will not stand for it."

The third change in the government in one week was effected today when the cabinet headed by Miguel G. Letelier resigned, and President Ibanez turned to Naval Commander Carlos Froedden, who organized a new ministry. Rigid censorship was clamped on the press.

LABORITES RUSH FROM CHURCH TO SAVE THE PARTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 24.—The hard working members of the Labor party in parliament today decided that it is useless to try to fulfill social obligations while the house of commons is in session. When the meeting was opened today the Labor benches were only scarcely filled, for a twofold reason—the subjects were not important and the daughter of the minister of health, Arthur Greenwood, was getting married.

The Labor members of parliament who did not attend the ceremony felt sorry as they regarded the almost full Conservative benches across the hall, especially since the Conservatives looked particularly energetic. The Laborites began asking each other why so many Conservatives were present to discuss such unimportant measures as minor amendments to the agricultural land bill.

The Tory benches were getting set for the end of the debate to call for a division vote which was certain to defeat the government when the Laborites got wise. A couple of young Labor members immediately ordered a new filibuster. They talked with vengeance while their party whip sent out an SOS call to the church. In a few minutes immaculately dressed Laborites streamed in, just in time to vote. When the result in favor of their party was announced the Laborites shouted "foiled again" across the hall and cheered, while the Tories groaned.

3 COPS PROTECT AN EX-ALDERMAN FROM THE DOGS

They Have Done Just That for a Year.

John R. Scully, the former alderman, was hailed as a hero in his youth when he risked his life to clear Chicago's only water intake of the ice which threatened the city's water supply. Even today, at the age of 83, he is an apostle of physical culture and holds card No. 1 in the Central Y. M. C. A.

But when it comes to shooing vagrant dogs off the lawn and away from the well groomed shrubbery of the Scully mansion at 647 Junior terrace Mr. Scully demands the aid of the police—and gets it. Orders on file at the Town Hall station last night disclosed that three out of the thirty men available for patrol duty in that district have been guarding the Scully lawn for a year.

Captain's Order Explains.

Recently when Mayor Cermak started a drive to eliminate nonessential details in the police department the rose bush vigil was interrupted for a few days. But it was shortly renewed, and an order to lieutenants from Capt. Luke J. Garrick, commanding the Town Hall district, explains why. It reads:

"Mr. Scully, of 647 Junior terrace, called at the commissioner's office on July 11, 1931, and complained that we are not complying with previous order of maintaining a small post in that vicinity.

"I would suggest that that post be from Montrose to Junior terrace, east to Clarendon. The officer on the 12 o'clock [midnight shift] to see Mr. Scully at 6:30 a. m. each day until such time as his complaint concerning unlicensed and unmuzzled dogs running at large is remedied."

One Man on Each Shift.

The Town Hall district now has ten men available for patrol duty on the day shift. One of them, for approximately a year, has been seeing that no vagrant Airedale runs unchecked on Junior terrace. The middle watch has twelve men for street duty in an area of more than two square miles, with a population of several hundred thousand. One of the twelve guards the Scully premises and one of the men out of the eight on patrol on the late shift has the same duty.

But frequently, desk sergeants said yesterday, there are no men available to answer calls from other citizens—often alarms of burglary or hoodlumism.

About Visit to Police.

Mr. Scully last night denied knowing about the special detail near his home until he was asked about his visit to the police commissioner, mentioned in Capt. Garrick's order.

"I didn't see the commissioner," he said. "I saw the captain of the district."

Asked about the order to the late watch patrolman to report to him, he replied that he knew of no such order, but said he was generally working on his lawn at 6:30 a. m. and usually spoke to the man on the beat.

"Yes," commented a veteran sergeant, "and if that fellow doesn't show up there at 6:30 o'clock there's the devil to pay."

COUNTY TO BUY RIGHTS OF WAY FOR NEW ROADS

Seeking to avoid the expense and delay of condemnation proceedings, the county in the future will pay cash for all rights of way for road building which in the past have been sought from property owners without cost, County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd, chairman of the roads and bridges committee, declared yesterday. Difficulty in court actions when property owners refused to part with their land caused the change in policy. The saving effected by diminishing condemnation proceedings will offset the cost of the rights of way, Byrd said.

The new policy was made known to property owners of Elk Grove and Palatine townships yesterday when tentative offers for rights of way for state route 53 were made. The road will begin at the Indiana state line and skirt Chicago for eighty miles to a point near Libertyville.

For the second time within three months the roads and bridges committee yesterday recommended that Barrett Brothers, south side realty concern, be given the job of appraising the rights of way, which estimates place in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

DIME TAKES A LOAD ANY PLACE IN TAXI WAR IN WASHINGTON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Only the very rich can afford the luxury of a street car ride in this town these days. A price cutting war has brought the price of a taxi, as many passengers as can squeeze in, as many stops as you please, anywhere in the city, down to a slim dime.

And it costs a dime for just one person to ride in a street car; seven and a half cents if he buys tokens. A taxi for a dime has put beggars on horseback, or something like it. A fat Negro woman loads seven pickaninnies, all her groceries, a go-cart and a hound dog into a cab and orders, "Home, James."

Clerks from the five and ten; waitresses from the one-armed eating houses; lovely ladies at the matinee; state department boys in spats and postoffice department clerks in shirt sleeves pile themselves into taxis. The drivers cruise along the car track streets, picking fares at every corner.

The war began several days ago, when some of the independents slashed from 35 cents to a quarter. Next came a cut to twenty cents. Yesterday it was fifteen. And today it's a dime.

Tomorrow! Some of the independents threaten to give away rides. But the public utilities commission says nothing doing, so they predict they may reduce to a penny.

5 DIE IN PLANE FALL ON SHORE OF MINNESOTA LAKE

St. Mary's College Official Is a Victim.

Cass Lake, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—Five persons were killed when their airplane crashed on the shore of Cass lake, just before dark tonight.

The dead:

Dr. Charles C. Gault, 38, of Owatonna; Father Lawrence J. McHugh, 35, of St. Mary's college, Winona; Father J. J. Stapleton, 34, of St. Mary's parish, Waseca; A. B. Conrad, 24, of Winona, and Ralph "Bud" Ausk, of Cass Lake.

The crash occurred directly in front of a cottage at the Sha-Kay-Tay resort on Cass lake in which Mr. and Mrs. Gault and their two children and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Blodgett of Owatonna and their two children had been staying the last week.

The plane, piloted by Conrad, had arrived here Thursday with Father McHugh and Father Stapleton. They had intended returning to their homes in southern Minnesota tonight, but decided at the last moment to remain over.

Mr. Gault and the three visitors wanted to take a short plane ride tonight and asked the Ausk boy, who was near by watching their preparations to go aloft, to accompany them.

After being in the air a short time Conrad dipped the plane low over the cottage on his way to the landing field about a mile and a half away. The wing suddenly crumpled when the plane was 100 feet in the air and crashed on the lawn close to the cottage.

POST AND GATTY HERE TODAY FOR AIR EXHIBITION

Planes to Escort Winnie Mae Over Loop.

The Post-Gatty Program

11:14 A. M.—Arrive at Lansing airport to meet escort of planes.
2:00 P. M.—Fly over loop.
2:15 P. M.—Land at Curtiss airport to participate in air meet.
8:00 P. M.—Guests at dinner at Midland club, where Senator Lewis, Mayor Cermak and others will speak.

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, who girdled the world in the fastest time ever made, will arrive here this afternoon to participate in a two day aviation meet at Curtiss airport. Yesterday they were on their way from Schenectady, N. Y., stopping at various points en route to exhibit the Winnie Mae, the big white Lockheed-Vega in which they circumnavigated the globe in less than nine days.

The last time Post landed a plane in Chicago he arrived as the winner of the Los Angeles-Chicago air Derby, a feature of the national air races at the same airport a year ago.

Flight Over Loop.

An escort of National Guard and private planes will meet the Winnie Mae at Lansing airport about 11:30 this morning. An hour or more will elapse before the escort takes off to lead the way over the loop, which will be circled about 2 p. m. Continuing on to Curtiss field the party will land fifteen minutes later, according to schedule.

City Greeter Gaw and officials of Aviation post 651, American Legion, sponsors of the meet, will welcome the flyers and later in the afternoon they will make an exhibition flight in the Winnie Mae.

Post and Gatty will be guests at a banquet in the Midland club at 8 p. m. where United States Senator Lewis, Mayor Cermak, County Clerk Sweitzer and others have promised to speak.

Other Attractions Listed.

The two globe flyers are the star attractions at the Curtiss field meet, but other well known aviators are to engage in the series of races and stunt contests today, this evening, and tomorrow. These include Tex Rankin and Dorothy Hester, better known for spectacular flying in the southwest than here. With others they will make dead stick landings and compete in closed course racing and balloon busting.

Tonight's program will include illuminated flying and parachute jumpings—some of the latter with the aid of the special army searchlight. Attempts will be made by the jumpers to land on marked spots.

The Sunday program also features Post and Gatty in the Winnie Mae during the afternoon. In the morning the two flyers will be taken to visit the disabled veterans in the Edward Hines Memorial hospital at Maywood.

Expect Flying Missionary.

Father Feltes, the Alaskan flying missionary who is en route from New York to Los Angeles and thence Alaska from New York with a new plane, is expected at the air meet if repairs are completed on his ship at the Buffalo airport. It was slightly damaged landing there Thursday. A committee of Catholic clergy led by Father Garrity of St. Ignatius' church will meet him.

AIRPORTS IN U. S. SHOW INCREASE OF 206 IN YEAR

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—The number of airports in the United States has increased from 1,657 in 1930 to 1,863 in 1931, the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce made public today. This included municipal, commercial, intermedite, auxiliary, army, navy, private, and state airports, and landing fields. The greatest increases were in municipal and commercial fields.

California led all of the other states in the number of fields, with 169; Illinois has a total of 82 fields, of which 13 are municipal, 41 commercial, 19 intermediate [fields maintained by the department of commerce on the federal airways], 6 auxiliary, 2 army, while the navy maintains one field. Illinois stood sixth among the states in the number of airports.

Alaska was sixth in the number of airports, although but six of these are classed only as auxiliary fields.

Auto Kills Infant, Injures Mother as They Wait at Curb

Holding her child, Edmund, 22 months old, in her arms, Mrs. Mary Mielke, 28 years old, 2732 West 23d street, waited last night on the southwest corner of 22d street and Marshall boulevard for the traffic lights to change.

Two machines approached south in the boulevard. The first made a sudden turn into 22d street. The second, driven by Harry J. Parker, 45 years old, 2332 East 70th place, was veered sharply to avoid a crash with the car ahead. The turn was too sharp. The heavy automobile ran onto the sidewalk. It struck the waiting mother and child and hurled them to the concrete, and then continued on until it ran into a street pole.

Witnesses picked up Mrs. Mielke and Edmund. The baby was dead. Both, however, were taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where physicians said Mrs. Mielke was suffering from a possible skull fracture, a broken right leg, and other injuries. Her condition is serious. Parker and his wife, Clara, were slightly bruised. They drove their damaged car to a nearby garage for repairs, stopped at a physician's office, and proceeded home, where Parker telephoned the Lawndale police. Police by that time were on their way to his home. He was taken into technical custody.

Another child, Calvin Morton, 6 years old, son of Joseph Morton, a teller at the First National Bank of Chicago, was killed earlier by an automobile in front of his home at 1100 Washington street, Glenview. Charles Mueller, 49 years old, 6147 Lincoln avenue, Morton Grove, a greenhouse superintendent, was held by police as the driver of the car. He said the accident was unavoidable.

These deaths and two others increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 636.

A man, about 50 years old, tentatively identified as S. Yuswick, was the other victim. He died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered early in the morning when hit by the machine of Walter Baron, 22 years old, 2034 North Winchester avenue, at Augusta street and Ashland avenue. Baron was later ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Testimony was given that he attempted to escape after the accident, and was caught by A. L. Neynes, 348 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, a civilian.

Guadalupe Barcia, 50 years old, a Mexican whose address is unknown, was killed late last night by the car of a hit and run driver in the 2700 block on Washington boulevard.

Mrs. Sarah Schollenberger, 73 years old, of 1340 North Clark street, died yesterday in Akron, O., of injuries received in an automobile accident near there on July 20.

William D. Washburn Jr., 25 years old, 705 Michigan avenue, Evanston, was seriously injured yesterday when his automobile was crushed by a Chicago and North Western train at the Main street crossing in Evanston. He is the midwest representative for Doubleday-Doran, publishers. He was taken to St. Francis hospital.

GET POLICE AID TO CASH 4 U. S. CHECKS FOR $13

Four members of the Minnesota naval militia, who arrived in Chicago at noon on the naval training ship Paducah and were given shore leave a little later, entered the South State street police station last evening and made a complaint. They had been to 200 places in and near the loop, they said, and had not found any one who would cash their government pay checks of $13.20 each. Sergt. William Murphy sent them to a restaurant whose proprietor was willing to take a chance.

HUSBAND COOKS ALL MEALS; SHE WANTS TO LEAVE

Trenton, N. J., July 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Isabella Sayre deposes that her husband, William, won't let her cook any meals.

For the past four months, she said in her suit for separate maintenance filed today, Sayre has done all the cooking. This, she pointed out, gave her no choice in the matter of what she ate. She had to accept her husband's cooking, whatever its merits.

"They're Off!"

Our employes are off for the afternoon every Saturday during July and August. It has been our custom for many years.

Saturday afternoon in summer is a logical playtime. No other afternoon quite takes its place. It's the one half-holiday in the week when the legion of inside workers of the city may enjoy outdoor life at its best.

We know that our own organization is better off for it. We also know that we have the approval of our customers, who are quite willing to do their shopping earlier in the week or on Saturday morning.

SIMPSON JR. ENTERS FIGHT FOR CONGRESS

Seeks G. O. P. Nomination in 13th District.

James Simpson Jr., son of James Simpson, chairman of the board of Marshall Field & Co. and head of the Chicago plan commission, announced himself last night as a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the new 13th district. He holds that politics offers young men a great opening for a serious career and that today opportunities were never greater for public service.

Mr. Simpson's entry betokens a headliner battle in the north shore suburbs reaching from Evanston to the Wisconsin line. For weeks already, unusual campaigning has been in progress in the district which embraces Lake county and the two northern tiers of townships in Cook county, 15 of them. Half a dozen candidates, some avowed, some possible, have been making the fur fly nine months ahead of the April primaries.

26 Year Old Candidate.

The new candidate is 26 years of age and was reared in the district. He studied in Winnetka and Lake Forest and at Harvard university, where he specialized in political science and social and economic subjects. In sports he is known as a horseman and a steeplechase rider, and he was one of the developers of Arlington Park.

Candidate Simpson announced himself in an open letter to the citizens of the district last night. Among the ideas he expounded was one that may sound like heresy to some of the professional politicians, namely a theory that an officeholder should attend to his job strictly instead of spending his time building fences and pulling wires for another office. His letter said:

"I believe that every citizen should exercise his political prerogative as a citizen and give time and thought to our governmental affairs.

Wants to Serve Public.

"My study of social and economic subjects and political science leads me to the conclusion that nothing would give me greater satisfaction than to give all my time, all my attention, and all the energy I am capable of giving, to the interest and well being of the men, women, and children of the 13th congressional district of Illinois, as their representative in the house of representatives.

"I therefore announce my candidacy and shall immediately begin an active campaign in every precinct in the district. As the campaign progresses I shall present to the voters my views on the questions that confront the people for solution and shall make my stand known on these questions without equivocation.

"If nominated and elected, I shall maintain an office in the 13th congressional district as well as in Washington, in order to be readily accessible to those whom I am serving."

SERVICE TO OPEN TOMORROW ON 3 TROLLEY ROUTES

The Chicago Surface lines will inaugurate service tomorrow on two car line extensions and one trolley bus extension. Extension of street car service on Western avenue from 79th street south to 95th street will make that the longest carline in the city, officials said. It is 20.59 miles from 95th street to Howard avenue, the northern terminal of the line.

A neighborhood celebration of the opening of the Western avenue extension will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at 79th street and Western avenue. A similar celebration will be held at 7 o'clock this evening at Irving Park boulevard and Harlem avenue, in anticipation of the extention tomorrow of trolley bus service on the boulevard west from Harlem avenue to Pacific avenue.

Service will also start tomorrow on the Lincoln avenue car line from its present terminal at California avenue north to Peterson avenue.

PAL OF FACTOR SPENDS HIS 'JAIL TIME' IN HOTEL

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—[Special.]—Harry Geen, an alleged confederate of John (Jake the Barber) Factor of Chicago, who was arrested here two months ago for Scotland Yard on charges of swindling British business men out of huge sums, has been living in a luxurious suite of rooms in the Benjamin Franklin hotel here, it was learned tonight, despite the fact he was denied bail by Federal Judge Dickinson and was supposed to be occupying a cell in Moyamensing prison.

Two deputy United States marshals have been occupying the suite with Geen, who faces an extradition hearing on Aug. 19. United States Marshal Potters admitted that the prisoner had been staying at the hotel in custody of the deputies, but said the concession was granted for reasons of health.

ROSENWALD AND A. T. ALDIS UNDER CARE OF DOCTORS

Two prominent Chicagoans were in bed and under physicians' care last night. They are Julius Rosenwald and Arthur T. Aldis, broker and art patron. The condition of neither was regarded as serious.

Mr. Rosenwald was sent to bed in his home at Ravinia for a rest, it was announced. Last April he was also ordered to bed after too strenuous activity in his varied interests.

Mr. Aldis was in the Alice Home hospital at Lake Forest. He was operated upon July 14 for an intestinal trouble and his condition since then has been regarded as good.

Fellowship Foundation Show Set for Tonight

The dramatic department of the Universal Fellowship Foundation is to present "In the Garden of the Shah" at the Congress hotel this evening. Miss Mary Beatrice von Colln is to play the part of Princess Zohdah, and Thomas Arthur Fletcher will play opposite her as an American mining engineer.

INQUIRY INTO DEATH REOPENED

STARR FAITHFULL.

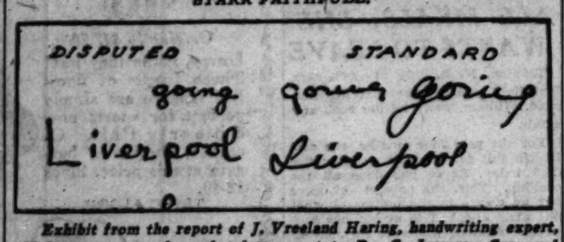

Exhibit from the report of J. Vreeland Haring, handwriting expert, which purports to show that letter sent to Dr. G. Jameson Carr and signed by Starr Faithfull was a forgery. Haring says the handwriting on the left from the letter in question is crude and stilted compared to the free and flowing writing from notes known to have been written by Starr, excerpts from which are shown on the right.

BUCK DISCLOSES HIS REJECTION OF CUSTOMS POST

Offered a Job with Eastern Concern.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Clarence F. Buck lulled to rest a tempest in a teapot yesterday by declaring that he was the man who registered objections at the White House to his own appointment by President Hoover to succeed Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge as collector of internal revenue for the Chicago district. At his home in Monmouth Mr. Buck reiterated what he openly said for quotation in Springfield months ago: that he did not want the post. A finance corporation of New York has offered him the chairmanship of its board of directors.

CLARENCE F. BUCK.

Mr. Buck, who managed the preconvention campaign of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden in 1928, was defeated for state treasurer in the Democratic landslide last November. He is a close friend of Senator Otis F. Glenn, who said he would recommend Mr. Buck for the revenue collectorship following the retirement of Mrs. Blackledge after the celebrated faro game episode at Springfield in which she and Edward R. Litsinger, member of the board of review, were involved. Buck said he did not care for the post, but Glenn went ahead with the recommendation.

No Mystery, He Asserts.

"There's no mystery about it," said Mr. Buck yesterday. "I told my old friend Senator Glenn I didn't want the position. In the kindness of his heart he presented my name to the President just before he sailed for Europe after congress adjourned. As he was on the ship, just before it left the dock, the President's secretary telephoned him from Washington that it was O. K. and I would be appointed.

"When I was informed, I asked the White House, through Senator Glenn's secretary, that the appointment be held up until Mr. Glenn returned from Europe. The appointment was not made, for no commission was ever issued to me. So far as I am informed, these objections spoken of were merely my own request that it be held in abeyance until Senator Glenn's return."

Announce Rally for Malone.

Campaign managers of William H. Malone, former head of the state tax commission, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, last night sent out notices of a rally to be held on July 30 on the lawn of the Malone home in Park Ridge. William A. McKee is chairman of "the committee of 1,000."

A boom was sprung yesterday by friends of James McAndrews, former congressman from the west side, for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

Forgery Charged

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Investigation into the mysterious death of 25 year old Starr Faithful, Greenwich Village beauty whose body was found in the surf at Long Beach, is to be reopened.

DIST. ATTY. EDWARDS. [Acme Photo.]

District Attorney E. N. Edwards of Nassau county announced he had agreed to have the grand jury hear John Vreeland Haring, a handwriting expert retained by Stanley E. Faithfull, stepfather of the dead girl, to make a study of the so-called "suicide" notes left by her.

Haring is convinced that at least one of the letters, reputedly mailed to Dr. G. Jameson Carr, surgeon of the Cunard liner Franconia, is a forgery and believes he can convince the jury of it. He will be called next Tuesday.

The prosecutor's decision to reopen the case was announced after Faithfull had given out a statement charging that Edwards had been "scared off" the case.

"There is only one man who had a motive for putting Starr out of the way," declared Faithfull. "District Attorney Edwards knows who that man is and what the motive was, but the man is so powerful, financially, socially and politically, that the district attorney of Nassau county has been scared off."

ADD HEALTH TO HOT BREADS

Hot breads are tempting. But often they lack roughage. The absence of bulk from foods often results in constipation.

But now you can have hot breads with roughage. Simply add a cupful of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN to the recipe. This delicious cereal furnishes the bulk needed to assure proper elimination. You will find many appetizing recipes on the red-and-green ALL-BRAN package.

Equally tempting as a ready-to-eat cereal with milk or cream. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, use with each meal.

ALL-BRAN also furnishes needed iron for the body. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ISOLATION DAYS FOR U. S. ENDED, RITCHIE THINKS

Governor Willing to Back Debt Reductions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—International economics has forced the United States into international politics, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, potential candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, insisted tonight in an address, directed, he said, principally to the south.

GOV. A. C. RITCHIE. [Harris & Ewing.]

The prudent thing for this country to do, he counseled, is to stop looking back, Republican fashion, at George Washington's warnings against entangling alliances, and to step forth boldly, as Wilson wanted, onto the world stage.

Inevitably, he declared, the conferences over the salvation of Europe which the United States entered at the instance of President Hoover would impel us into a world rôle.

Assails Republicans.

But wisely, said the Democratic governor, the country would discard a party which had equivocated on prosperity and prohibition, strangled trade with a high tariff, and sidetracked state rights in favor of bureaucracy. The country, he explained, would therefore call upon democracy for forthright, fact facing leadership.

Should he have a chance to lead democracy into the White House, he indicated, he would have no compunction about seeing a downward revision of the debts owed us by European nations.

"We cannot escape considering the future and the fate of other nations," Gov. Ritchie maintained, "because their future and fate may involve our own. Whether we like it or not, whether it is a departure from American traditions, or not, whether it violates Washington's warning or not, the fact remains that we are in the maelstrom of world economics. Our era of isolation is over.

Cannot Separate Questions.

"In the conferences relating to foreign credits for Germany, and surveying the financial and economic conditions of Europe it may be well enough for our government to essay the rôle of being present on economic questions only, and not on political questions. But the two cannot be kept separate.

"It may be that our stake in European affairs is already too great and too direct for us to keep out of them. At any rate we are not out of them. We are in them and nothing is to be gained by trying to make believe we are not. We can solve our problems better by recognizing that we are."

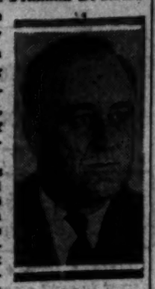
He blamed prohibition for making "cowards and hypocrites of men in high places" and chided American citizens for permitting their "statesmen to go on with the farce" instead of demanding that the question be solved by the traditional American principle of home rule.

With the present foreign debt situation, he said, the important thing for the American people to do is, not so much worry over possible readjustments in payments, but to recognize that such readjustments will doubtless have to be made. He added:

"If future developments show that a readjustment of the debts is necessary for the ultimate welfare of our country, then we will be courageous enough and forseeing enough to consent to their readjustment."

ROOSEVELT'S PLACE IN PARTY INTERESTS DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—The position that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt holds in the Democratic party is becoming both more interesting and more pertinent every day, in the opinion of political observers.



GOV. F. D. ROOSEVELT. [(C.) A. P. Photo.]

There appears to be a new trend in the attitude taken by certain supporters of the New York governor, namely, that it must be emphasized that the governor himself is not seeking the nomination and that there is no one authorized to act for him in this capacity.

A second trend—and one of a more delicate nature—is that former Gov. Alfred E. Smith should be looked upon as the head of the Democratic party, a position that Mr. Smith holds, not alone because he was presidential candidate in 1928 but because Mr. Smith still commands a great many personal followers throughout the country.

While Gov. Roosevelt and his immediate associates are scrupulously careful not to say anything that would give any opponent an opportunity to capitalize, the fact appears to remain that some of the governor's independent adherents realize that Mr. Smith, if he wished, could make it embarrassing for Mr. Roosevelt. Whether Mr. Smith could block the governor's nomination is another matter.

'L' Line Workers Approve Six Day Week Proposal

A compulsory six day week in place of the present seven day schedule is being considered by officials of the elevated lines as a means to alleviate unemployment. Such a system has been approved by a referendum vote of the employés. Final arrangements may be made next week. The six day schedule was inaugurated on July 13 on the surface lines. The new schedule does not affect the basic hourly pay rate, the men receiving six days' pay for six days' work.

U. S. INJUNCTION BLOCKS ILLINOIS' NEW TRUCK LAW

Big Carting Company Gets Restraining Order.

Danville, Ill., July 24.—(AP)—A sweeping injunction restraining all law enforcement officers of the state from interfering in any way with the motor trucks of 12 companies doing an interstate transportation business through Illinois was issued by Judge Walter C. Lindley in United States District court here today.

JUDGE WALTER C. LINDLEY.

The injunction specifically prevents police and automobile investigators from enforcing recently enacted laws, limiting the length and trailers, providing for certain safety lights, and increasing license fees.

A petition for the restraining order was filed by the Contract Cartage company of Lansing, Mich., following the arrest of one of the company's drivers by a state highway patrolman. Seventeen other highway transportation companies then filed intervening petitions, asking to be made parties with the plaintiff.

Those named in the petition for injunction were Robert Morris, state highway patrolman, Hoopeston; William J. Stratton, secretary of state; Harry M. Cleaveland, director of public works; Frank Sheets, chief highway engineer; C. E. Huff, automobile investigator, Danville; Frank Culp, commissioner of highways, Danville township, and William S. Dillon, superintendent of highways, Vermilion county.

In asking the injunction, the trucking companies contended the new Illinois highway code is unconstitutional, unreasonable and an improper restraint on interstate commerce.

A hearing to decide whether the injunction shall be made permanent will be held here in September with three federal judges sitting in banc.

MA SHOUTS HER LOVE AS RECENT HUSBAND IS BOOKED FOR BIGAMY

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Guy Edward Hudson surrendered to police today, bringing to an end a two day search for the former husband of Mrs. Minnie [Ma] Kennedy, mother of the evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson.

Hudson is charged in Chehalis county, Wash., with committing bigamy by marrying Mrs. Kennedy. The marriage was annulled here yesterday.

Flanked by an attorney and a bail bondsman he walked into the sheriff's office.

After being booked, Hudson was taken to a Municipal court room and arranged for $1,500 bail. As he entered the chamber Mrs. Kennedy appeared unexpectedly, ready to provide bail, but it was not needed. She confessed her love "for my man" and as he walked past her she called out "Good luck, Guy." He turned and smiled.

TODAY has been proclaimed Governor's Day at Arlington in honor of the Hon. Louis L. Emmerson, an ardent friend of racing. The Governor encourages the type of racing held at Arlington, in which not one cent of income is set aside for personal use. Arlington is a civic project for sport's sake and the breeding of the thoroughbred.

To make this day a gala one, most of the distance champions of America have gathered at Arlington to compete for the rich Arlington Cup Sweepstakes and the valuable Gold Cup which will be presented to the winning owner by the Governor. Such distinguished thoroughbreds as Gallant Knight, winner of the Grainger and Peabody Memorials and holder of the American record for six and a half furlongs; Sun Beau, which has won more than $280,000, and a leading contender; Spanish Play, which nosed out Twenty Grand in The Classic last Saturday; The Nut, winner of the Lawrence Realization and Latonia Championships, and other great ones.

Don't miss this thrilling race and the excitement, color and gaiety which will make this such a marvelous occasion. Come to Arlington and enjoy a glorious afternoon. Come by train, motor coach or drive.

No increase in admission prices. No charge for parking.

INCENDIARY BOMB FOUND IN SEARCH OF JOLIET PRISON

A search of the Stateville penitentiary, near Joliet, for convict weapons and concealed explosives, which was begun by Warden Henry C. Hill following recurrent rumors of prison escape plots, resulted yesterday in the discovery in cell-house C of a gasoline incendiary bomb. Warden Hill has ordered all the prisoners kept in their cells for ten days while the search proceeds.

WARDEN HILL. [A. P. Photo.]

The bomb, improvised from a large oil can fitted with coils and copper tubes that would have spread fire for a considerable distance upon its exploding, was tossed into a cell on an upper tier when guards began their systematic inspection of the entire prison grounds. By throwing the bomb out of the cell the convict who made it escaped being caught with it and Warden Hill said he had been unable to tell from which cell it came.

Demonstration Believed Object.

"I am going to have an expert opinion given on what damage the bomb could have caused," Warden Hill said. "It could not have made an opening in the prison walls and it is my belief that its maker had no such purpose in mind. Damage and demonstration is the thought of the convicts right now.

"Propaganda is being spread among the prisoners by the more unruly ones. They are saying to the others: 'Nothing was ever won in any American prison by one riot. We must have another to show the authorities we mean business.' The last riot and fire, in which property valued at $500,000 was destroyed, gained them nothing but a curtailment of privileges."

The warden said he believed 99 per cent of the convicts want to behave and shorten their sentences and will not take part in any rioting. He issued instructions that in the event of an insurrection all convicts wishing to be held blameless must immediately lie down wherever they may be and not arise until ordered to do so by a prison officer. Statutory good time allowances of sentences will be canceled in the case of any convict taking part in a revolt, he said.

Radio to Be Kept in Use.

Warden Hill talked to the men over the prison radio, which is to be continued in use during the time the men are locked up. Other privileges, such as visits and mail, are to be denied the convicts, Warden Hill said.

Besides the bomb many other weapons were found in the material thrown away by the convicts when the search began. More weapons are expected to be uncovered when the searchers reach the shops and piles of material in the prison grounds.

Judge Joseph Sabath and Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks of Chicago were visitors at the prison yesterday, but because of the unrest did not go through it on a tour of inspection. Judge Sabath wanted to study prison conditions before he decided on the sentence to be imposed on Verner Carey, 15 years old, for the murder of a policeman in the John Marshall High school on Memorial

OFF FOR TURKEY, AVIATORS DUMP GASOLINE, LAND

Flyers Nearly Crash Over Brooklyn.

RUSSELL BOARDMAN. [Acme Photo.]

The plane took off from Floyd Bennett field at 5:42 a. m. in an attempt to cross the Atlantic for a long distance record. It carried 723 gallons of gasoline. The plane hugged the ground for the entire length of the long runway before it rose humpily into the air. The flyers could not get it higher than sixty feet.

Narrowly Misses Dredge.

With Boardman at the controls the plane swooped out over Jamaica bay, dipping and rising abruptly. It barely missed a dredge and several boats. Making a flat turn northward, Boardman swung the plane around at an altitude of fifty feet and headed toward the city. Over the Flatbush avenue section the pilot told Polando to dump the gasoline.

The dumping valves were pulled and 450 gallons of the fuel went spattering on the roofs. The gasoline struck on roofs of many houses. A few minutes later rain began to fall and washed the gasoline away.

Relieved of the load, the Cape Cod gained altitude, and Boardman was able to land at the Barren Island field.

Both men were badly shaken by their narrow escape and for the time being were too unnerved to decide when they would make a second attempt.

A couple of hours after Boardman and Polando failed in their takeoff, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., who plan to fly around the world with Moscow as the first stop, made a second test flight which also verged on disaster, nearly duplicating their hazardous experience of last week.

With Pangborn at the controls, the plane left the 4,100 foot runway, dropped down, rebounded, and rose sluggishly. Laboring in futile attempt to gain altitude, Pangborn, too, valved off about 400 gallons of fuel and landed safely.

He insisted, however, he would take off tomorrow if weather conditions favored.

They Enjoy It

There are experts in most every kind of sport, but few who had a better time than those yesterday morning who competed in the annual bean bag tossing contest at Garfield park. More than 150 contestants, the pick of the bean baggers of the west parks, tried their skill in scoring bull's-eyes, and when the tossing was all over three youngsters found themselves with first prizes. In the division for boys under 11 years, Edward Wilson of Dvorak park was first with 235 points. Genevieve Krasowski, Shedd park, was first in the division for girls under 11 years, with 200 points, and Loretta Baranowski, Eckhart park, won the contest for girls 11 to 15 years, with her 215 score.

ACTOR-DRUGGIST BLACKS EYES AT BARONESS' PARTY

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Explanations to the judge differed as to why Count Analda Cassella Tamburini, 46, and his wife, Countess Dahla Tamburini, 34, received black eyes in a midnight fracas at the apartments of a woman styling herself Baroness Enid Von Krupp, 40.

Edward V. Brown, 26, who is part time a druggist at Palm Springs, Cal., and part time a Hollywood movie actor under the name of Eddie Brownell, was blamed by the Italian count and countess for attacking both of them. Brownell pleaded guilty to intoxication and was fined $50, which he paid.

Count and Countess Tamburini pleaded not guilty to intoxication, were released on $150 bail each, as was Mrs. Sally McGowan, 25, scenario writer, and their trials set for July 27. Baroness Krupp, who said she is the divorced wife of a German magnate, posted $400 bail, being charged with illegal possession of a gallon of whisky and considerable beer, as well as intoxication.

Brown said he hit the count when the latter "pushed me away as I was making a grand gesture and kissing the countess' hand." Count Tamburini, who is a painter, said, "He tried to make love to my wife, and I stopped him. He kicked me as I fell, and then punched my wife when she tried to aid me." The three women still wore the pajamas they wore at the party when in court.

SLAYING IS LAID TO VENGEANCE OF LIQUOR GANG

Two Held for Questioning on Balkovatz Murder.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Otis Smith and Howard Tee, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Edward Barry, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Sylvester McEachern, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; James Kimberlin, attempted larceny, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary; Brady White and Christ Baldwin, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary, by Judge Charles A. Williams.

The slaying of John Balkovatz, 22 years old, who was shot to death in his bed Thursday night, was laid to the vengeance of an alcohol gang by police investigators yesterday after they had questioned friends and former associates of the murdered man.

The Balkovatz home is at 10649 Bensley avenue. Two small children were sleeping in the room at the time of the murder.

Balkovatz, the police say, may have turned informer against alcohol cookers with whom he at one time operated. Nick Lask, 39 years old, of 10538 Ewing avenue, and his brother James, 32 years old, 10522 Avenue L, were taken into custody for questioning shortly after the shooting.

Police Question Widow.

Balkovatz's widow, Mildred, who was visiting a neighbor, Mrs. Cora Lenti, 10631 Bensley avenue, at the time her husband was killed, was also questioned.

"John used to be an alky cooker," Mrs. Balkovatz told the police. "Four or five months ago he started to open a speakeasy at 102d street and Torrence avenue, but he was forced to close."

"One night three weeks ago we were out riding together. At 92d street and Buffalo avenue some men pulled alongside of us in another car and fired several shots at us. Since then John has never told me much about where he went or what he did."

Brother-in-Law Finds Body.

George Leka, 10639 Bensley avenue, brother-in-law of Balkovatz, who discovered his body, was also questioned by the police. He told of hearing the shot, followed by the screaming of the two children.

"I ran in," Leka said, "and found John on the floor. He was dead. His own pistol was under him, fully loaded, but unfired."

Balkovats, according to the police, had been associated with Frank Lasku, alleged gang leader of the district, who is now in Europe. Last Tuesday he obtained employment with a cleaners and dyers company at 5537 Commercial avenue.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MORE TAXES AS A REMEDY.

The representative of union labor on the governor's revenue committee, Mr. Victor Olander, has rightly deplored proposed economies which would lower the standards of instruction in the schools. Those are the last economies which should be considered. Most threatening of all suggestions along this line are the proposals in one form or another for increasing the size of classes. As every experienced educator knows, an inferior teacher will achieve better results with a small class than a superior teacher can accomplish with a large one. Broadly speaking, the rule can be laid down that school systems improve as the size of classes diminishes.

To the extent that Mr. Olander speaks this doctrine he has the support, we venture to say, of all genuine friends of public education in this city. Unfortunately he does not stop there. He will resist economies which have no bearing on the educative value of the schools simply because those economies would result in the dismissal of some employés or the reduction of some salaries. In this position, it appears, he has won some support among the teachers.

Mr. Olander refuses to face the fact that the school board's present budget is considerably in excess of any reliable estimate of what the school board's income will be. He refuses to recognize the necessity for reduced expenditures. It is therefore easy for him to oppose any considerable economies. He refuses to consider whether janitorial and maintenance costs are excessive in relation to similar costs in other cities and in relation to prevailing wage standards in Chicago. He shows no interest in examining the costs of supplies and buildings for which the school board has contracted. If a deficit results, he says, it can be met with a bond issue.

"The remedy," as he puts it, "lies not in a cutting of expenditures, but in a raising of more revenues." This is easily said, but where are the additional revenues to be found? The delinquencies in tax collections do not suggest that real estate can bear any additional burden. Under present constitutional, not to say political, limitations, an income tax offers no hope. Attempts to collect a larger personal property tax are destined to fail. A more vigorous assessment of personal property, incidentally, will find relatively few stocks and bonds, but the household furnishings of the workingman will not escape the assessor's eye.

Mr. Olander speaks for labor, but he is not voicing the interest of the workingman who pays taxes either directly as the owner of his home or indirectly in his rent and other necessities. Mr. Olander is asking all workingmen to shoulder an additional burden to maintain a relatively small number of unnecessary and overpaid employés on the school board's pay roll. He is not insisting upon an inquiry into the school board's contracts, although there is reason to believe that millions are being wasted. In order to maintain a political pay roll in the school system he is willing to let 14,000 teachers suffer.

No tory, stubbornly resisting any change just because it is a change, could rival Mr. Olander's obscurantism in the face of an emergency. Although the teachers have not been paid in cash since May, Mr. Olander persists in the view that no emergency exists.

THE OKLAHOMA-TEXAS WAR.

Texas rangers are guarding one side of the Red river and Oklahoma troops the other, one to prevent the use of a free bridge and the other to close a toll bridge. By orders of Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray the Oklahoma approach to the toll bridge has been made impassable and martial law has been declared in the zone. By orders of Gov. Sterling the Texas end of the free bridge has been barricaded. It looks like a good little war bristling up where the Kellogg pact is of no effect or force.

The private owners of the toll bridge are, at this writing, contemplating an approach to the federal courts for an injunction to restrain Oklahoma from interfering with the use of their property. It is in defense against such action that Alfalfa Bill has declared the suspension of civil law in a zone covering the bridge approach. He may be mistaken as to the applicability of martial law in the circumstances, but the Oklahoma governor is a man of decision and he will try anything once.

It is to be hoped that the United States can stay out of this. The federal government should declare a benevolent neutrality and allow the sale of supplies to both sides in a war to make the world unsafe for democracy. Both states are dominated by hard liquor drys who shoot and drink straight. Regardless of the winner, democracy will be equally insecure, but the United States may be able to do a bit of business under a profitable neutrality without getting involved in the freedom of the seas, a war to end war, self-determination, peace without victory or debts without repayment.

Many fanciers will prefer Texas in this scrap, but the outcome may largely depend on which side is able to enlist Alabama as an ally. That fighting state, mother of some of the best troops which got into France, liked the other war so well that it is likely to inquire whether this new one is a private scrap and then substitute it for the fall football season.

States have beaten the drums at each other before — Vermont at Pennsylvania, Michigan against Ohio, and Maine against its Canadian neighbor, New Brunswick, to mention a few—but this is the most promising beginning known in years. The governor of Oklahoma has his alfalfa up and the Texas rangers are shooting each other's gold fillings out by way of target practice. Happy days may be here again, with the Bethlehem steel mills working three shifts and wheat at $2.50.

A "CZECHO-SLOVAKIAN MAYOR."

A New York dispatch refers to Mr. Cermak as the Czecho-Slovakian mayor of Chicago. Mr. Cermak went east to see the Walker-Sharkey fight (getting done on the location of his prepaid seats) and later made news by looking over Al Smith and Franklin Roosevelt as Democratic presidential prospects.

A town in old Bohemia celebrated the election of Anton as mayor of Chicago because it was his birthplace. By nativity the mayor of the newest great city of the new world is linked to an old region of the old world, but Cermak not only superficially but essentially is American. He is no more alien in a Democratic national convention than Carter Glass of Virginia, Joe Robinson of Arkansas, Jim Reed of Missouri, Roosevelt of New York, or Walsh of Montana. If he were to put on a Czech national costume, could speak the language of the old land, and appeared in native dances at a festival it would all be superficial. He has absorbed all the intangibles of an Endicott, Winthrop, or Bradford. If he and Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, sat down to discuss ways and means of getting the frigate Constitution over the waterway impossibilities and into the port of Chicago there would be little difference in national imponderables between the man of America's oldest family and the man born in a Bohemian town.

It would not be remarkable that they both could talk the same tongue with ease and understanding. That could be acquired on either side without requiring the changes, essential and subtle, which produce the temperament, savvy, loyalties, and ideology common to nationality. Of course, Mr. Cermak is not an isolated case. He merely went through the process which takes the foreign born and makes the American. The Constitution is in reality Cermak's ship as it is Adams'. If this were not so the United States would be a congeries of dissimilar groups of centrifugal instead of centripetal tendency.

The Roman system had some of this assimilability. Otherwise it would not have lived as it did, its law outlasting its legions. The older stock of the English language hasn't it at all. A Cornishman isn't a Yorkshireman even in language. For one thing, it is not necessary that he should be, and law and conditions of transportation forbade the fusing. The laborer's statutes and the poor laws kept the man to his parish or county. The Roman roads were not kept in use and water transportation did not interlock all the regions of Britain. The Englishman developed as a sturdy parishioner and lived and died at home. He was in a land of strange tongues if he strayed from one county to another.

The United States could not have survived such conditions and have been made or maintained as a nation.

TAG DAYS.

The city council has under committee consideration a number of supplemental tag day orders which flowed in when a serious effort was made to add two days, one for a milk fund and the other for a veterans' organization. Possibly the other requests were not serious, being for such causes as the Abyssinian Wool Carders' Orphans' fund, the Green River ferrymen's five day week, the Nutmeg Carvers' Deaf and Dumb association, the Federal Income Tax Dodgers' Penitentiary Reading club, and the Farm Board Wheat Relief. However, if the requests are granted by the council the collectors representing these organizations will be on the corners on any day allotted to them.

Almost any alderman is found with open pores when almost any request for a tag day privilege is made. The petitioners have him on his soft side. He gets in bad if he refuses to sponsor the application and he finds it hard to explain a discrimination in favor of the audited charities to which street collections are valuable. Under regulation which prevents abuses, the tag day is a means of taking up contributions gladly given by people who do not put themselves annually on the subscription lists of the charitable organization. It is the easy and in many cases the only way in which this money can be collected, but its use must be protected against misuse. It is the experience of collectors that as tag days are multiplied the response diminishes. An orderly system is required. If the council takes down the necessary restrictions the people will soon turn all the collectors down.

Editorial of the Day

FREEDOM OF TRADE.

[The Peoria Transcript.]

President Hoover's attack on "a limited number of speculators" who, he said, were selling short in the commodities market, particularly wheat, has put into the minds of Senator Fletcher of Florida and Senator George of Georgia the idea of calling for an investigation of short selling.

Although bear selling must be exceedingly irritating to vast numbers of people, including their President, the bears of today are causing less damage than was caused by the bulls of 1929. The freedom of trade, like the freedom of speech or of the press, cannot suffer unreasonable restrictions. Many economists are of the expressed belief that trade barriers are chiefly responsible for current world depression. As for operators on the grain exchanges, they do not pretend to function as patriots. They are seekers after profits, precisely as the international bankers who hailed the moratorium, are seekers after profits. The bankers welcomed the suspension of intergovernmental debts as the most promising means of protecting the private investments of their clients.

In his address before the United States Chamber of Commerce six months after the stock market crash, President Hoover said: "I do not accept the fatalistic view that the discovery of the means to restrain destructive speculation is beyond the genius of the American people." This was a good platitude, yet events have demonstrated that the market is self-corrective and that prices cannot be maintained when commodities are produced in increasing quantities.

No unpatriotic bear can reasonably be held responsible for the low price of wheat.

ECZEMA DUE TO PERFUME.

Has any one a queer, mild, pigmented eruption on the neck? The one spoken of is not so much an eruption as it is a yellowish brown discoloration, but close examination will show that the skin is mildly inflamed and the pores are large and irritated. The vertical streaks are lightly pigmented at the top and more deeply so at the bottom. The appearance suggests that it is caused by some fluid which was put on with up and down strokes, but the liquid flowed downward and exerted most of its effect on the lower stretch.

Any person who has such an eruption or pigmentation probably has perfume dermatitis. This discoloration may appear on any part of the body to which perfume is applied. It is most frequently observed on the neck, and that is because so many people apply perfume there. Other locations where it has been found are on the face, around the ears, under the arms, around the breasts, and on the thighs. Since exposure of the perfumed area to sunlight seems to be a necessity, most of the cases reported have had the pigmentation on the neck, ears, and face. The disorder is more prevalent among women, and among adults, and in the bathing season.

The first case of it was reported fifteen years ago, but for ten years the physicians who saw the cases and wrote about them did not know what the trouble was, nor what caused it, nor what to do about it. In the last five years it has been proved to be pigmentation with some irritation, due to the habitual application of perfume to skin, followed by exposure to light. Some people have skins that can be harmed by such applications, while most people are so constructed that they can use perfume and escape the kickback.

Having found this much out, physicians are now trying to discover what is the harmful ingredient in the miscellaneous mixtures called perfumes. Some hold it to be bergamot, but then the question comes up, is it the natural or the synthetic oil that does the harm? Others think it is the alcohol, but that raises the question, is it the alcohol itself or some impurity? Some think it an essential oil other than bergamot.

Meanwhile, a few physicians have reported curing patches of vitiligo by painting them with perfume and then exposing the painted spot to bright sunlight. Others have failed to cure vitiligo that way.

DIET FOR BABY.

Mrs. A. L. W. writes: I have read with interest your article, "To Make Baby Grow Tall."

I would like to know what kind of foods, vegetables, etc., have the vitamin B necessary to be effective. As I understand it, the lack of vitamin B will sometimes cause rheumatism. As I am suffering with this trouble I would like you to give me an idea of what kind of food to eat.

REPLY.

I can see no relation between rheumatism and the growth of babies. There is no reason for thinking that eating yeast will cure rheumatism, though the word "rheumatism" covers a multitude of disorders. I never heard of "debittered brewer's yeast." Any genuine yeast is a rich source of vitamin B complex. The same holds true of any wheat germ, or any flour, cereal or meal genuinely made from whole grain. The germ is that part of the grain that develops into the sprouting plant.

HONEY AND HEART.

Mrs. J. M. G. writes: Would eating honey have any beneficial effect on one who has heart disease?

REPLY.

Honey is a very good form of sugar, but it has no beneficial effects in heart trouble, or any other disease for that matter.

REAL ESTATE BONDS.

Chicago, July 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a first mortgage on my home in the form of real estate bonds held by various individuals. Interest was due on July 2, but having the cash, I paid the interest three weeks in advance, on June 17th, at the bond and mortgage company handling the papers, obtaining their receipt. Since paying this the company went into receivership. The people who hold the bonds now demand payment from me under threat of foreclosure. Do I have to pay again or is it up to them to get their interest money from the bond company? M. S.

You will have to pay again unless they had, in some way not covered by your letter, authorized you to pay as you are doing. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ALLEY NOW CLEAN.

Chicago, July 23.—[Friend of the People.]—I wonder if it is possible to prohibit the gas station and other neighbors in our block from throwing rubbish and refuse in the alleys. This has been an eyesore and disgrace to the neighborhood of Lawrence avenue, between Albany avenue and Troy street, for some time. E. A. S.

Report is made that the alley has been thoroughly cleaned. A survey has also been made and notices served to stop further dumping and, where necessary, to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output. This location will be kept under observation.

Superintendent of Streets.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGES.

Chicago, July 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a woman lives with a man as his "common law wife" for five years, with the exception of a few months when he left her because of her bad temper, has she any claim on him or can she do anything to prevent his marriage to some one else? There was no promise of marriage and there are no children. B. D.

In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal, as distinguished from an illicit relationship, and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriages. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere.

WHAT THE CONFERENCE GIVES GERMANY.

To Germany the conference gives,
To save her from despair,
The sun, the moon, the twinkling stars,
The sky, the clouds and air.

They give her all four seasons,
Winter, Summer, Spring and Fall,
They give them to her freely,
There'll be no charge at all.

And Germany may have the tides,
That pound upon her shore,
And rain and snow and the gentle dew,
Could any one ask more?

And Germany should be happy,
So happy in the knowing,
That the London conference will permit
The Rhine to keep on flowing.

They give her the dawn and twilight,
Day, noon and night as well,
And if she wants any more than that
She can go plumb to hell.

AN AMERICAN DRESS DESIGNER in Paris says: "The United States is rapidly replacing France as supreme ruler of what can and cannot be worn." MORE NEW YORK NOTES.

R. H. L.: While in New York I, of course, went to the top of the Empire State building. It is 1,250 feet high, was erected on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria, and financed, presumably, with the tips garnered by bell boys and hat girls from tourists in times gone by. From its observatory the city looks small and the horizon lifts to reveal the expanding ocean and the hills of New Jersey that whisper of the great west beyond—to all but native New Yorkers.

I also loitered along the classic old Fifth avenue a good deal. Few people live there any more, however, except the penthouse gang. Business has taken it over, and Park avenue has become the popular residence street of the liveried butler elite—plutocrats, columnists, such as O. O. McIntyre, raconteur and enfant trouvé from Ohio, etc. Park avenue is so handy to the depot. In fact, it runs plump into the Grand Central station, and it is quite interesting of evenings to watch the villagers hastening down to see number 20 come in.

But Fifth avenue is still the grand boulevard, teeming always with humid humanity and steaming with the stench of burnt gas. From a bus top one gets it best in the rough—the stream that surges and stops and surges on again all day long, ceaselessly, insensately, out of Space, out of Time, toward some great indefinite goal, or, perhaps, annihilation. Neither joyous nor sad, scarcely human at all, endowed with no quality but resistless motion, the chaotic mass that is poured down the street. But an individual arrests the attention now and then. A sudden glimpse is caught of a couple seated on the Library step, indelibly, miserably human. A young man whose face is old and contorted with abject hopelessness and desperation. He clenches his hands and writhes, while the slim girl at his side tries to comfort him. Just a glimpse in passing; but a story, a drama, nearing its sordid climax . . . down and out . . . the river, perhaps . . . the morgue, then curtains! Where, O Bagdad, where, pray, roves your Haroun Al Raschid today?

We move on and are intrigued by a leashed bull terrier, out exercising his English-tweeded, monocled imitation of a master. Lucky dogs.

The wind is fresher here,

My heart is safe and sealed,
Though only cowards leave
The battlefield.

FIRST ADAMS.

PATIENT PRUE, commenting on our few and faltering remarks the other day regarding the mad frenzy of Americans, even in bathing suits, to get out of the rain, says it's probably because this is a dry country. Aye, Patient Prue, this is a dry country, theoretically, but if our people love water so, why should they hate it with such ferocity when it comes in the form of the gentle rain? For rain is water, rainwater if you will, but nevertheless water. So the problem still remains.

GOVERNMENT HELP

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 25, 1915.

CHICAGO.—"Somebody made a big mistake!" Five words serve to epitomize the official summing up of the Eastland tragedy of yesterday morning as a half dozen investigating agencies close in on the mistaken somebody. "Somebody made a big mistake"—what will take rank as one of the big mistakes of history—and the placid, shallow, narrow, utilitarian Chicago river folded to its bosom perhaps as many human beings as ever were caught in any ocean tragedy of modern times. At midnight there had been taken from the overturned excursion boat and from the river near the scene of the disaster—the familiar old Clark street bridge—919 dead bodies of children, women and men who had boarded the vessel at 7:30 a. m. for a Western Electric gala Saturday excursion to Michigan City. Of the bodies recovered, approximately 200 have been identified. The others lie unclaimed and tagged with numbers in the Second Regiment armory, Curtis street and Washington boulevard. The armory was open through the night for the admission of people looking for their dead and missing friends. Twenty at a time, the anxious seekers were admitted to the great death chamber. In less than a minute the line of those waiting their turn was stretched the length of an entire block and as the night passed it grew longer and longer. Estimates of the total number of dead are still uncertain. Of the passengers and crew, reported to be a few less than 2,500, 700 had reported as safe. This would mean that 900 bodies are still in the hull of the vessel or in the river, with a total of 1,800 dead. It is supposed, however, that many of the passengers got off the ill-fated boat without reporting the fact. The better part of the victims, with women and children outnumbering the men four to one, died without a chance for life. Packed mostly between decks aboard the cranky craft, they got no warning from officers and crew until the water was upon them. Then it was too late. Last night under the glare of a row of great flaming lights the workers were still taking bodies from the death ship while the police fought back the crowd which had lingered all day about the scene of the disaster. The old Eastland lay wearily on its port side, less than fifty feet from where it started. More than half the boat was submerged.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 25, 1901.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An investigation of a most thorough character will be made into the facts of the Schley-Sampson controversy, to be presided over by Admiral Dewey. This was announced by Secretary Long when he replied to Rear Admiral Schley's appeal for a court of inquiry to look into the charges made in Maclay's "History of the Navy."

NEW YORK.—There was a break today in the structural steel work of the Brooklyn bridge. Just at the evening rush hour, a little after 6 o'clock, all train and trolley traffic on the bridge was stopped by the police as a precautionary measure. Brooklyn walked home in a mighty army. The trouble was caused when twelve of the suspension rods connecting the extreme north cable with the outside end of the transverse girders which support the roadway, car tracks and footway were broken because of the expansion of the bridge structure from the heat.

JULY 25, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The President was more restless than usual last night and had another rigor just before midnight. This morning at 8:15 his pulse was 98; temperature, 98.4; respiration, 18. A conference was then held with Dr. Hamilton of New York and Dr. Agnew of Philadelphia, after which a counter opening was made through the integument of the back, about three inches below the wound, which it is hoped will facilitate draining and increase the chances of recovery. President Garfield bore the operation well. For the citizens of Washington it was another anxious day, a day of waiting, of mingled hope and fear.

RELIEF.

Rockford, Ill., July 20.—Mr. Hoover was very anxious to save Germany, but neither he nor any other agency of our government seems to think it matters when several thousand of us at middle age and older have lost everything we had accumulated for old age and not even a job in sight where we can even earn enough to live on. Must we who were frugal and put faith in our national banks under the federal reserve system now ask for aid?

If we can bolster Germany, why not put up money to save frozen assets, such as loans to factories now idle, real estate, and stock in manufacturing plants of twenty-five and thirty years' standing instead of having receivers throw such collateral on a dead market? Of what use are federal bank examiners if they can't close a bank until all is lost? Don't they have to be responsible to any one higher up?

Mr. Hoover ought to come to Rockford and give one of his "soft speeches" to the depositors of the two national and one state bank closed in this city. I for one would like to hear him. W. S.

FROM A GLAZIER.

Chicago, July 20.—On Friday, July 17, THE TRIBUNE printed an article headed "School Board Heads Agree to Cut Millions."

Being a glazier and working for the school board, I think the glaziers have been done an injustice. The public should know that the glaziers only work 6 hours a day and only 4 days a week, making 24 hours in all. The average for a man is 3 lights a day.

Now, if the committee can stand on a sill of 6 inches with a heavy belt on, the job is theirs. Don't forget, when they get a light set, they must clean up all dirt and old putty. That takes time, too.

Another thing is salary. They work part time and get paid for part time, which is $10.62 for 6 hours' work.

When a cut is to be made why do the committees always pick on the working class that only makes a living? Why not cut the big bugs that really draw a salary that counts?

CULTURE IN CHICAGO.

Elgin, Ill., July 19.—Accept my appreciation and thanks for James O'Donnell Bennett's various instructive, cultural and interesting articles appearing in your Sunday paper. That's the kind of broadcasting Chicago should have! Being the garden spot of the world, by virtue of location, it also possesses great cultural advantages; so let's tell the world about them.

I am sending these articles to friends in Los Angeles, also the east, and they are already longing to visit these parts.

And why not more publicity for the "Fine Arts" at the Century of Progress? Leisure time is affording more opportunity for this as another form of entertainment. CLAUDIA ABELL.

THE VOICE OF THE MAHONEYS.

Chicago, July 19.—Allow me to resent the cutting and insinuating remark made by Probate Judge Henry Horner last Saturday when an attorney for the administrators of the estate of the late John J. Mahoney asked the judge what should be done with $20,000 worth of the old whiskies and wines included in the property. The heir to the estate, Patrick Mahoney, a brother, is in Ireland.

"We can't ship it to Ireland; it would cost too much. We can't sell it under the law. Evidently Patrick will have to come here and drink it," said the attorney.

"That shouldn't be a hardship for a Mahoney," said Judge Horner. I resent that remark about a name that is great in Ireland, great in Irish history, great in American history, and glorious in the history of the world. It is an ancient Milesian Irish name, borne by ancient bards and kings, scholars, soldiers and statesmen since time immemorial. It was the name of the brother of King Brian Boru. I resent the remark as an insult to the memory of Francis Mahoney, who gave to the world the immortal "Bells of Shandon." I resent it in behalf of Capt. James Mahoney of American Revolutionary fame; in behalf of Capt. John O'Mahoney, who distinguished himself at Gettysburg, and I resent it in behalf of hundreds of American soldiers of that great name who died on the battlefields in '61, '65, '98 and 1917. Yes, I know that others died, also, but why stigmatize the great name Mahoney?

The honorable, honored and dignified judge has cast reflection on my patronymic, and, if your honor pleas, I resent it. J. J. MAHONEY.

A 1½ PER CENT TAX.

La Grange, Ill., July 14.—The tax muddle in Cook county has many taxpayers searching for expedients to help solve the problem and as one of them I offer the following suggestion:

That all property, excluding personal, be appraised at its full value and that a tax not exceeding 1½ per cent be levied against the same. The fair market value of the property might be construed to mean the price at which the property could be purchased.

W. A. HASTINGS.

TELEPHONE COMPLAINT.

Chicago, July 14.—Recently I moved from Chicago to Niles Center. In Chicago the telephone company supplied me with a library of directories. Now that I live in the suburbs they refuse to furnish me a suburban directory unless I guarantee to spend $10 a month in tolls. I explained that a large portion of my calls were to suburban territory, as records of my Chicago phone would show, but nothing doing. Will some student of government ownership of utilities cite a more ridiculous ruling which could be thought up by a government bureaucracy? L. H. F.

ITY PAY ROLL CUT $592,338 IN THREE MONTHS

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The city pay roll expense for April, May, and June was $592,338.60 less than for the same three months of last year, according to a statement made public yesterday by City Controller M. S. Szymczak. At the average compensation for municipal employés this indicates a cut of 979 positions, as compared with last year of the same season.

M. S. SZYMCZAK. [Abbott Photo.]

If this economy program continues throughout the year, 1931 will show an aggregate savings of $1,777,015 by this method alone. In addition, the city has deducted the equivalent of four-tenths of one per cent from each one who remains on the pay roll, and this saving has been estimated by the controller at $1,000,000. So altogether there is a prospective saving on city pay roll expenditures of $4,177,015, with the savings on purchases and contracts yet to be reported.

Supports Jacobs' View.

This tends to support the representation of J. L. Jacobs to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission that $4,000,000 a year could be saved on the city's expenditures rather than the cuts of the finance committee representatives that $1,000,000 could be trimmed from the corporate budget without reducing the service. The savings in salaries and wages for the three months of this year as compared with last year are segregated by the city controller to funds as follows:

Fund	Expense cut.
Corporate	$107,906.91
Water fund	175,817.67
Public library	190,650.39
Police pensions	19,153.65
Firemen's annuities	99,088.86
Municipal annuities	89,561.62
Total	$679,937.50

This amount is reduced by an increase in wage expense of $86,698.70 for construction work. The controller explains that this increase is largely due to work on water tunnels which were not in progress at this period of 1930.

Corporate Pay Roll Holds Up.

The controller's statement shows but much less progress was made in reducing jobs on the corporate pay roll than on any of the others. The corporate pay roll spent $11,354,496 in salaries and wages in April, May and June of last year, as compared with $11,348,589 in the same months of this year. Much more was saved on the water system where the pay roll expense was not one-sixth of the corporate pay roll. The vehicle tax pay roll is only one-thirteenth of the corporate, but the vehicle tax saved 3 per cent more than the corporate fund.

A plea from ex-service men for payment of fees they have earned as veteran's jurors caused County Treasurer McDonough to announce yesterday he has gotten together enough money to pay jury fees of all classes of jurors.

Edison Co. Accepts Scrip.

The school board continued yesterday to issue scrip to its employés and creditors. The Commonwealth Edison company accepted $340,000 in participation certificates for the debts owed it.

A formal request for a hearing to explain their stand on proposed economy measures in the board of education was sent to the governor's committee yesterday by the five teacher members. At a meeting with Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois state federation of labor and member of the governor's committee, on Thursday the school unions expressed objections to any economy measures that would entail a cut in salaries or an increase in the teacher load.

FAULTY LIGHTS HEAD LIST OF AUTO DEFECTS

Only 13 per cent of the 8,124 automobiles that were tested on Thursday in the seven safety lanes located in various sections of the city were given "O.K." stickers, according to a report issued yesterday by the Chicago Safety Council. In four days 24,134 cars have been tested free.

Faulty headlights led the list of defects found on Thursday, with 52 per cent of the cars having this defect. Of the 8,124 cars, 33 per cent had defective brakes, 20 per cent had defective wheel alignment, and 9 per cent had defective steering wheel play.

The safety lanes, which were established by the Chicago Safety Council and the city council traffic committee, will remain open through today.

ORGANIZES GIRLS

FRANK B. LACY.

GIRL GREETERS' CLUB ALTERS ITS RULES TO FIT LAW

Promoter Explains Project.

Frank B. Lacy, organizer of the Convention Club of Chicago, with offices at 205 West Wacker drive, continued to go ahead yesterday with plans for the mobilization of 200 young women who will be ready to entertain men visitors from out of town.

Assistant State's Attorney James L. Henry intimated to Lacy and his attorney, Edward A. Gorenstein, that the original plans for having girls meet visitors might infringe upon the law. Later, Lacy and his lawyer announced that the club rules had been changed so that there could be no question of the legal status of the organization.

Changes Rules of Club.

Instead of charging the men for the girls' services, the men will be invited to become members of the club at a certain membership fee, to be fixed later, Lacy announced. As club members, they will have the privileges of meeting other club members, including feminine ones. Under this system the purpose of the club will be fulfilled legally, the organizer contends.

When informed of this new idea, Prosecutor Henry said he could do nothing until the club went into business and then would act only if a complaint were made.

"Lady members of the club are obligated in no way whatsoever," Lacy said. "They will attend convention parties only when invited and they accept. They will receive no compensation for attending parties with the men members other than the good times they may have. We will have girls of the highest character and intelligence."

Lacy was asked in what manner visitors to conventions would arrange for feminine companions.

Explains the Procedure.

"Say that there are twenty men who want girls to take out to dinner and perhaps to some good black and tan cabaret afterward," he explained. "They call us up and ask for twenty girls. We go over and look the men over. If they're not proper persons we turn them down.

"If they seem high class men, we enroll them as club members. Then we arrange for them to meet the twenty girls in a hotel lobby or wherever they say. A social hostess introduces the girls to the men. After that, our responsibility ends."

It was suggested to Lacy that perhaps the rule against the girl's receiving compensation might be violated by the men who would be at liberty to tip the girls any amount they wished.

"Of course that is something over which we have no control," he replied.

"But make this plain," concluded the organizer. "This is no 'love mart' as some of the papers have said. The club was formed purely for the purpose of entertaining out of town visitors attending conventions."

Man Made Beach Replaces Old Clarendon Playground

The old Clarendon beach, a summer playground of north side residents for many years, was deserted yesterday, while bathers disported themselves on the new beach which is being built up farther out in the lake in connection with the extension of the Lincoln park drives northward to Foster avenue. Sand dredges have built up a sizable peninsula extending out from the old shoreline off Lawrence avenue, and bathing was stopped several days ago on the old beach because the filling work has cut off the water there from the lake and made it stagnant.

TAXPAYERS GET DOUBLE BLOW IN COURT BATTLES

Jarecki Limits Relief for Complainants.

Taxpayers who have instituted court action seeking relief from levies which they consider excessive received a double blow yesterday in rulings by County Judge Jarecki and Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

PHILIP L. SULLIVAN. [Lavecchia Photo.]

Judge Jarecki held that complaining taxpayers who were denied hearings by the board of review on their 1928 assessments have no relief in the County court unless they institute mandamus proceedings or other appropriate legal measures to force the reviewers to hear their complaints. The same ruling will apply to objections to 1929 assessments.

18,000 Objections Filed.

The deadline for filing the latter objections, seeking to set aside judgments by the county treasurer for the sale of properties on which 1929 taxes are unpaid, fell at noon yesterday. Approximately 18,000 objections covering between 150,000 and 200,000 pieces of property were filed.

The County court, Judge Jarecki ruled, will hear objections only in those cases where the taxpayers have exhausted all other legal means of relief. Failure to take legal action against the board of review to force a hearing of protests against assessments, the judge held, puts the objections outside the jurisdiction of the County court.

To facilitate handling of the 18,000 objections against 1929 tax judgments, assistants of Judge Jarecki will separate them into seven classifications. Uniform rulings will apply, so far as is possible, to each classification.

Sustains Writ Demurrer.

Judge Sullivan sustained the demurrer filed by County Attorney Hayden N. Bell to the bill for a permanent injunction to restrain County Treasurer McDonough from selling for nonpayment of 1929 taxes 33,000 pieces of property owned by members of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers of Illinois.

He was governed in his action by the ruling of the Appellate court last week, which dismissed a temporary injunction Judge Sullivan had previously granted. The temporary injunction saved its petitioners from sales of their property for delinquent taxes this year, since the time for advertising such property for sale has already passed.

However, if they finally lose their case they will have to pay, in addition to the taxes and court costs, interest at the rate of 1 per cent a month during the period in which the matter is in litigation. Attorneys Ferre C. Watkins and Perry Ten Hoor, representing the taxpayers' association, were given 20 days to amend their bill for injunction.

COUNTY RECEIVES $1,004,705 FROM TAX ON GASOLINE

A check for $1,004,705.94, a portion of Cook county's share of the state gasoline tax, was received from Oscar Nelson, state auditor, by Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, yesterday. The check was turned over to William J. Graham, deputy county controller, and will be placed in the hands of the treasurer today. The money is the second installment of approximately $3,000,000 which the county will receive from the tax. It can be used only for the building of roads.

Traps Extortionists

CAPT. HENRY J. PORTER.

3 LAKE FOREST PLOTTERS HELD TO GRAND JURY

Father, Sons Accused of Extortion.

Three residents of Lake Bluff, charged with plotting to extort $500 from Capt. Henry James Porter, world war veteran and riding master at the Knollwood club in Lake Forest, were held to the Lake county grand jury yesterday in bonds of $4,000 each.

The arraignment of the trio was held before Magistrate Edwin Burgess of Lake Forest. The men are David McLernon, 52 years old, who was for twelve years a policeman at Lake Geneva, Wis., and his sons, David Jr., 30 years old, and Merrill, 25 years old.

Chief of Police Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest arrested the McLernons late Thursday night, when they appeared at the Knollwood clubhouse to collect from Capt. Porter.

Police Hear Demand for $500.

Accompanied by a squad of policemen the chief had concealed himself in a room near by and heard the demand for $500. Capt. Porter declared he could pay only $100. The eldest McLernon, dissatisfied with the amount and detecting that the bills were marked, tossed them on a table.

When Chief Tiffany and his men seized the alleged extortionists, David McLernon Sr. had a pistol and Merrill was carrying a small rifle. They explained that they feared an ambush might be attempted after they had collected from the riding master.

The plot against Capt. Porter was based on the belief that he could not afford to have the McLernons tell their version of an automobile accident in which he was involved on Tuesday night in North Chicago. The captain's car and another, in which two sailors from Great Lakes, Horace Smith and John Thomas, were riding, collided at 13th street and Sheridan road.

McLernons Approach Porter.

Thomas was seriously injured. Capt. Porter maintained that he was not at fault in the crash and at a hearing before Magistrate Neahaus on Wednesday he was granted a continuance on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The McLernons approached him as he was leaving the courtroom and made their demand, at first for $1,000 and later for $500, threatening to give unfavorable testimony if they were refused. They claimed, however, that Capt. Porter first offered to talk business with them. This he denied.

Two charges were placed against each of the McLernons, conspiracy and extortion. Merrill was released on bonds furnished by Joseph Oltusky of Waukegan, a professional bondsman. The others remained in custody last night.

MOTHER WEARIES OF AWAITING SON WHO NEVER CAME

Maybe After 12 Years She Has Found Him Now.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hanna Tetler made her home in Brooklyn in a dingy red apartment building not far from the water front. To her neighbors she was a little gray-haired wisp of a woman who liked to wander about the piers, gazing wistfully into the faces of those who walked down the gangplanks.

"Whenever she went to market," said Mrs. Thelma Arnstein, who lives next by, "or down to meet one of those ships, she appeared to be looking for something, and she was always looking at the faces of any young men who passed by."

Upstairs in Mrs. Tetler's bedroom there was a faded letter, and pressed between the leaves of a gold clasped Bible was a $100 bank note. Both had been there twelve years. The letter had been there a few hours longer than the bank note, for it was after the postman called that Mrs. Tetler drew her slender savings from the bank.

Written from Prison Camp.

It was a tender, wistful letter, such as any mother would cherish. Morris Tetler had written it to his mother from a prison camp in Russia in January of 1919. Morris was a world war soldier in the Austrian army and the letter informed hi mother that in another month he would be released and would sail for the United States to be with her, and that he would never go far from her side any more.

The days passed slowly before Morris' boat was due, and Mrs. Tetler fingered the $100 bill that was to be her gift to her son, while, motherlike, she daydreamed of the future. Then at last the boat was due and she went to the pier, a little old woman, all starry eyed and eager for a glimpse of her soldier son.

Son Fails to Arrive.

She watched with hungry eyes as the passengers disembarked, but she did not see Morris. He was not there. She went away, saddened, but she did not give up hope, and almost daily thereafter she went to the water front to meet the ships.

That was twelve years ago. A few days ago Mrs. Tetler was still meeting the ships and still hoping. Then last Tuesday Benjamin Tetler, another son, came home and found his supper on the kitchen table, but his mother gone. She did not return that night, and Wednesday Benjamin called the police.

A detective found the letter and the $100 bill on the dresser.

"What's the money for?" he asked.

"That's Morris," said the boy.

"Morris is my brother."

"Where is he now?"

"I don't know."

Wait Is Too Long.

"Do you think your mother is with him?" asked the detective.

"She may be," said Benjamin. And then he told the detective about his soldier, brother, the $100 bill, the letter, and his mother's refusal to believe Morris dead. "And mother has been waiting twelve years, and that is a long time," concluded the boy.

"One year is a long time," said the detective. "How old is your mother?"

"Seventy-two," replied Benjamin.

And they did find her today, hanged from a beam in the cellar. Mrs. Tetler had grown tired of waiting and had gone to seek her soldier son in other worlds.

Laborer Shoots Farmer and Wife to Death.

Evansville, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—Herman Schuline, a well to do farmer living near here, and his wife, Lillian, were shot and killed today by Henry Pannier, 60 year old farm laborer. Pannier, a friend of Schuline's for twenty-five years, had lived rent free on one of the latter's farms for the last nine months, and the shooting resulted from Schuline's request that he vacate the place.

A coroner's jury recommended this afternoon that Pannier be held without bail pending grand jury action on a double charge of murder.

Recently Schuline rented the farm, two miles east of here, on which Pannier had been living. Yesterday he and his wife went to the farm in Pannier's absence and papered two rooms in preparation for the new tenant's occupancy.

Return to Finish Work.

They returned to finish the decorating job this morning, accompanied by their son, Vernon, 12 years old; a nephew, Nicholas Schuline, of the same age, and two women neighbors, Mrs. Edith Mickel and Mrs. Florence Salder.

They found Pannier waiting on the porch of the farm house. He asked what they wanted. Schuline replied that they had come to finish the decorating.

Wife Killed in Car.

The rest of the party, outside the house, heard the shot and saw Schuline fall. Mrs. Salder, Mrs. Mickel, and the two boys ran down the road toward Evansville. Mrs. Schuline was sitting in the automobile. Before she could drive away Pannier reloaded his gun, ran out of the house, and shot her in the side. She died soon afterward.

Pannier surrendered, charging he had killed Schuline in self-defense and asserting that he shot Mrs. Schuline when she attempted to force her way into the house. He was taken to the Randolph county jail at Chester.

Homewood Wants Radio to Signal 2 Night Police

The village of Homewood, which claims a population of 3,500, has applied to the federal radio commission for permission to operate a 50 watt radio station with which to call its policemen. It was explained that the two men who are on duty at night ride constantly and a broadcasting station would permit them to learn quickly of crimes. If the permission is granted Homewood will have a slight advantage over the neighboring village of Flossmoor, which flashes a light on a water tower to notify its policemen to communicate with their station.

RICHARD LAWRENCE LEE, FILM ACTOR, DIES; LEAVES SUICIDE NOTE

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Richard Lawrence Lee, 51, who during his twenty years in motion pictures achieved modest fame, was found dead early today in a small furnished room.

By his body a suicide note was found. A medical analysis has not been completed, but the medical staff says it is virtually certain he took poison.

The note, signed with Lee's initials, read: "I am sorry, Jack, forgive me."

The actor's widow, Mrs. Louise Lee, told the officers her husband had been out of work for a long time. Some of his last work consisted of minor roles at the Paramount studios at Astoria. He has a brother, Harry Lee, who has been in the movies in Hollywood

Two pictures in which Richard Lawrence Lee made his last appearances were "The Tarnished Lady" and "Laughter." He played his most important screen roles, however, about ten years ago with the old Vitagraph company.

DRIVER DENIED CHANGE OF VENUE SUES J. P. FOR $100

Albert F. Webb, justice of the peace at Homewood, was sued for $100 yesterday by Celeste Giarrante, a truck driver employed by the Federal Electric company of Joliet. Giarrante charges Webb refused to grant a change of venue when the former was arraigned on Thursday at Homewood, charged with a parking violation.

The praecipe of the suit was filed in the County court by Attorney Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, of which Girrante is a member. The statutes provide, Attorney Braun said, that a justice of the peace who denies a change of venue is liable to forfeit $100 to the defendant who asks it.

An attorney for the motor club asked the change of venue for Giarrante on the grounds that Webb was "prejudiced and incompetent."

Study County Plan to Plant 4,000,000 Trees

A subcommittee of the public service committee of the forest preserve district was appointed yesterday by Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, chairman, to investigate the proposal of Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the Cook county forest preserves, that the district contract to buy 4,000,000 tree seedlings over a five year period, for the reforestation of part of 5,000 acres of forest preserve land.

20 PLANES BOMB CHINESE REBELS; 3,000 CASUALTIES

Manchuria Declares War on Insurgents.

SHANGHAI, July 24.—(AP)—Midsummer again finds armies throughout north China totaling at least a quarter of a million men, girding for civil war, while probably another quarter of a million of doubtful allegiances look on ready to take a hand if opportunity offers.

Official pronouncements at both Peiping and Nanking tonight discarded previous pretenses that peace reigned and sounded a clarion call to arms to suppress the rebel general, Shih Yu-san.

Manchuria Declares War.

In Peiping, Chang Hsueh-liang, governor of Manchuria and ally of the Nationalist government at Nanking, issued a ringing manifesto branding Shih as "condemned and ostracized in the eyes of the nation." Chang announced that Manchurian forces, loyally supporting Nanking and National unity, would surge southward and destroy him. He offered $20,000 in silver for Shih's head.

His Manchurians, asserted Chang, hitherto had refrained from taking the offensive, hoping Shih might see the error of his ways and repledge loyalty to Nanking. However, Shih on July 20 had occupied the important railway junction of Shihchiachuang, 160 miles south of Peiping, thereby irrevocably stamping himself an enemy of the state.

Tonight a Mukdenite communique issued at Peiping said, twenty Manchurian airplanes bombed Shih Yu-San's forces at Chengtingfu, causing 3,000 casualties.

Rebel Armies Advance.

Several Shansi province divisions were reported pouring through mountain passes to attack the Manchurian base at Paotingfu.

Coöperating with the Manchurian movement, Nanking authorities appointed Gen. Liu Chih, loyal Nationalist governor of Honan province, to command a group of three armies moving northward across the Yellow river, threatening Shih's rear. Liu's advance guard, it was announced, occupied Tzechow, southern Chihli, yesterday, being then 130 miles by railroad from the rebel base at Chengtingfu.

$1,500,000 Estate Left in Will of Andrew Lanquist

An estate estimated at $1,500,000 was disposed of by the will of Andrew Lanquist, head of the construction company bearing his name, who died a month ago, it was disclosed yesterday when the will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Mr. Lanquist left the building at 4629 Dover street to a daughter, Mrs. Alice L. Forch, and an apartment building at 115 East Delaware place to a second daughter, Mrs. Lillian L. Shirey of Beverly Hills, Cal. The remainder of the estate, after minor bequests to other relatives, was left in trust for the daughters.

Policeman Sentenced for Mailing Obscene Pictures

Policeman Ira O'Neil of the Wabash avenue station and his brother, Pete, both colored, were sentenced to two years each in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday on charges of sending obscene matter through the mails. The brothers were found guilty of sending more than 2,000 pornographic circulars and pictures to various parts of the country. Many of the pictures were sent to women's colleges.

Falls Dead in Lagoon as She Walks with Husband

Mrs. Ann Willison, 50 years old, 1741 North Mayfield avenue, died suddenly yesterday while she and her husband, Harry, were walking along a lagoon at Gage's lake in Lake county. When she was stricken with heart disease Mrs. Willison slipped down a bank into the lagoon. She was dead when her husband lifted her to the shore.

Wm. R. Williams, Federal Official Under Wilson, Dies

$100,000 LEFT TO CHARITY BY MRS. K. E. ROACH

Gifts of $100,000 are made to various charitable organizations in the will of Mrs. Kathryn E. Roach, which was filed yesterday in the Probate court. Other bequests, amounting to $150,000, are left to relatives and friends.

Mrs. Roach, 81 years old, was the widow of John M. Roach, transit executive. She died on July 10.

The Home for Destitute Children is alloted $5,000 in the will. A similar amount is left to the Lincoln Park sanitarium. Another $5,000 is to be awarded to an old people's home to be chosen by the trustees of the estate. The will also provides that $20,000 is to be spent for a set of chimes for any north shore church selected by the trustees. If the sum is insufficient, the money is to be employed to establish a memorial ward in some hospital.

FLETCHER QUITS JOB AS CHAIRMAN OF TARIFF BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(Special.)—Explaining that he had accepted appointment as chairman of the tariff commission only for a year and until the commission was organized, Henry P. Fletcher announced today that he would tender his resignation to President Hoover to be effective, Sept. 15. The work of organizing the commission had been accomplished, Mr. Fletcher declared, and all reports requested by the senate would be completed by the time congress convenes in December. He denied that he was considering running for the senate from Pennsylvania, his home state, or that he might consider another post in the diplomatic service in which he spent many years. Chief among his diplomatic assignments were ambassadorships to Mexico and to Italy.

DRYS WHO SHOT PICNICKER FACE HEARING TODAY

Detroit Rebuffs U. S. Interference.

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—[Special.]—A demand by federal authorities for the guns used by two customs guards in firing on rum runners during a chase near the excursion steamer St. Claire Tuesday night, when a passenger was shot in the arm, met with opposition from George S. Fitzgerald, assistant prosecuting attorney, today.

The two guns had been turned over to Fitzgerald, who had a ballistic expert examine them. The expert reported that the bullet which wounded the passenger on the St. Claire came from one of the guns.

William G. Comb, chief assistant district attorney, made the demand for the return of the guns, saying he wanted to send them to Washington for examination by federal ballistic experts.

Arraignment Today.

Fitzgerald told Comb that the guns would be exhibits against the customs men and that he would keep them at least until after the arraignment of the federal officers tomorrow.

Warrants against the two, Clarence E. Fish and Arthur Wesolowski, were recommended by Fitzgerald. They charge the officers with felonious assault and careless use of fire arms. Arthur Gajeski, a passenger on the St. Claire, was wounded by a bullet fired by Fish, gun experts said.

Fitzgerald said he would fight any attempt to move the case to federal jurisdiction, holding that the case properly belongs in the Wayne county courts. The men are to be arraigned in Common Pleas court.

Witnesses Tell Stories.

The warrants were recommended after three sisters who were passengers on the St. Claire made statements before Fitzgerald that they saw the firing at the rum runners when within a few yards of the excursion steamer.

This testimony contradicted the assertion of the two guards that they were a mile and a half from the St. Clair when they fired.

BAIL VOLUNTEER FREES WIDOW OF GUN VICTIM

Robert R. Smith, a Crane Technical High school teacher who said he was a stranger to Mrs. Hazel Scott, charged with manslaughter in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, Harold, in their Oak Park home a week ago, yesterday obtained the widow's release from jail. Mrs. Scott has been exonerated by a coroner's jury.

Smith, who lives at 5719 South Francisco avenue, volunteered to guarantee Mrs. Scott's bond of $1,000 when it appeared that she would have to go back to her cell until July 28 because she was unable to raise that amount. He made his offer unexpectedly from the crowded courtroom, after Justice of the Peace Frank F. Aring of Oak Park had reduced the original bond of $10,000.

The case was continued over the protest of Defense Attorney Robert Cantwell Jr.

TEXAS MOVES TO END BRIDGE ROW WITH OKLAHOMA

Durant, Okla., July 24.—(AP)—As Oklahoma national guardsmen and Texas rangers faced each other across the Red river tonight it appeared that the "war of the bridges" would be short lived and humdrum from the military standpoint, the lawmakers of Texas having acted quickly to re-establish peace.

ROSS S. STERLING.

A bill which the legislators at Austin believed would remove the cause of the war was at Austin and dispatched to Houston this afternoon for the signature of Gov Ross S. Sterling.

Legal moves were expected to follow resulting in throwing open to traffic the Denison-Durant free bridge, about which inter-state hostilities have centered.

Meanwhile, all was quiet on the battle front. A detachment of 23 Oklahoma national guardsmen patroled a small martial law zone at the Oklahoma end of the Denison toll bridge which has been barricaded by Gov. W. H Murray who wants the free bridge opened.

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and death of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of selling a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. The Rutherfords "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined theirs. Sally's milkman helps her to make the Shack a success before she discovers his identity. By that time she is receiving the court of Lowndes Jennings. Lowndes takes her to his apartment to look at ancient glass she wants to buy for a customer. Unexpected visitors come and Sally is thrust into the valet's bedroom. Lowndes' guests joke him about a rich fiancée. Sally thinks herself Lowndes' promised wife. They leave, and Sam Winstead arrives just as Sally is preparing to go. Sam determines to force Lowndes to affirm or deny his engagement to the wealthy Gertrude Reinert.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

"YOU CAN MARRY ME."

And then Sam Winstead forestalled any possible evasion on Lowndes' part. Rising from his chair and walking closer, he laid his hand compellingly upon Lowndes' arm. As the two men stood so close together, you saw that Sam was the taller, that his shoulders were broader, and his face, though perhaps less regularly beautiful, was quite as clear cut and far more purposeful, his will more masterful and vital. He breathed in Lowndes' ear:

"Tell her the truth, you hound!" came his thin, biting whisper, "or so help me God I'll do some nasty truth telling myself!" Lowndes knew what the other meant.

"It's all between friends, Jennings," he said aloud, jocosely enough, though Lowndes knew the ominous significance of his words. "If you don't want the public to know your secret, I pledge my word not to betray you. I feel sure that Miss Rutherford will keep silent, too."

But as Lowndes still remained silent, looking at Sally with distended eyes, the girl somehow realized the truth. A while since grandpapa had died by his own hand, unable to face the ruin he had brought upon himself and his. She had thought that was shame and agony enough for one lifetime. But this! How could she face this and live! Lowndes, Lowndes whom she had believed, the trusted, the perfect, was false. He was jilting her.

And then by a great effort the young thing gathered herself together and stood upright in her wrecked and ruined world. Rutherford pride had come to the rescue of the last of the name.

"He needn't say anything at all," she heard herself say, composedly enough. "I can tell by his face that the news is quite true. He is engaged to Miss Reinert. Let me be the first to offer you congratulations, Lowndes."

"Sally!" It was almost a scream. "Sally, you don't understand."

"O, but I do understand, Lowndes," said Col. Rutherford's granddaughter. "I also congratulate you, Jennings," said Sam formally.

Sam had come tonight with the fixed determination to have a straight man-to-man shoulder talk with Jennings, once assured that the rumors of Lowndes' engagement to Gertrude Reinert was true.

"I thought myself engaged to him, Mr. Winstead."

He hadn't expected to see Sally there, but instantly he perceived that her presence made the thing easier. He did not regret it, for he had been able to force Lowndes' hand in her presence. Sally knew the truth about him now, or at least some of the truth.

But he himself was called upon to suffer vicariously, intolerably, for he knew what she must be enduring at that moment. That doubled his pangs. He let him get away from here and take her with him!

"I'm ready to go now," Sally spoke, almost as though she divined his wishes. "I've seen . . . what I came to see . . . and it's quite genuine. Mr. Winstead, you said you were driving by Oakleigh and would see me home?"

The two men, both of whom loved her, watched her with very different emotions: Lowndes wildly, because he realized that the moment he had avoided, the moment of losing her, had actually come upon him. He would never love anybody else as he loved Sally now. With her went love, the glory of youth, happiness. He wanted to fling himself on his knees before her, to cry aloud that it was all a mistake, that she was indeed his one love, that his heart was true to her alone. The impulse almost overmastered him. His will and his common sense held fast.

Sam Winstead, that cold blooded young business man, watched her with a very passion of pity, pain, love, admiration. How fine she was, how game, how gallant! She took the cruel blow standing, without sign or moan. Rutherford pride was a very fine thing after all! He turned to her, forcing a smile.

"You will allow me to drive you home then?"

He would have given worlds to be able to take her into his arms. He wanted to rock her on his breast, to soothe her like a child. But . . . Sally didn't love him. She didn't think of him at all, except as a means of escape from this dreadful room, from Lowndes. A dazed horror of staying near Lowndes was creeping over her. She must get away immediately.

Bob appeared and opened the door to the veranda, and Sally fled through it, fairly hurtling herself down the steps in her mad desire to escape. Sam started to run after her. Neither said good-night to Lowndes Jennings.

Sam caught up with her as they raced downstairs, and they reached the sidewalk together. In another moment they had left the ancient house behind them and were speeding toward Oakleigh.

Both silent. She because she was too confused to speak as yet; he because he suffered the pain he felt she must endure.

Although it was very late Moses hadn't closed the Shack for the night. He was still waiting for Miss Sally. When she saw the lighted cabin some distance down the road, it was as if the sight stirred her painfully. She turned to her silent companion:

"Did—did you hear what I said when I begged Lowndes to speak, Mr. Winstead?" she asked. "You heard me beg him to tell the truth—at least you thought was the truth? That he was engaged to me. I thought myself engaged to him, Mr. Winstead! He said I was, and I never had the slightest doubt. And I wasn't, I wasn't! There was another woman all along. Lowndes has jilted me! Lowndes has jilted me! You—you heard what I said, you saw him jilt me!" Crucified pride was in that cry.

Sam Winstead's forehead grew clammy. His hands were cold. Only his heart seemed to burn, cruelly.

"Lowndes knows it. I know it, I can't deny it. You know it," said Sally miserably, twisting her hands. "I feel shamed. O God, what shall I do, what shall I do?"

He stopped the car, turning in his seat to face her. "There is a way out for you, Sally," he said quietly. "If you care to take it. It will settle everything."

"And that is—?"

"You can marry me," said Sam Winstead deliberately.

And as she struggled for speech he held up a protesting hand.

"But I don't love you!" she exclaimed, aghast.

"No, I know very well you don't; you're in love with your own idea of what Lowndes Jennings is. He looks the part, so you thought he was it. When you find out he isn't, and you think your heart is broken. It isn't. Your heart will be healed long before your pride recovers from the blow it has received. I suggest that you announce your engagement to me before Miss Reinert has time to announce hers to Jennings."

"But you don't love me! You can't!" cried Sally incredulously. Of all that had occurred this night, this was the most astounding. Dreadful things, awful things, undreamed of things can always happen; the heart shudders and sulks, but knows it must accept them, believe them, bear them, because suffering is the common lot and must be faced by all humanity. She had already been forced to accept the all but unbearable fact that Lowndes was false, that his love for her wouldn't hold fast. But she wasn't able to accept the truth that Sam Winstead loved her.

"I care enough for you to offer you my name and all that it stands for," he said sturdily. "Understand this: if I didn't care for you I shouldn't make the offer."

"But I don't love you . . . like that." She was grateful that he could not see her burning blush. "I—I don't see how I shall ever . . . love anybody else . . . now."

"I don't see how you could love anybody else now," he said coolly. "I'm not asking you to love me now, Sally, I am asking you to marry me," and he added: "Do not answer yes or no until you have thought it over carefully."

"Moses is waiting for me," said Sally finally. "You won't mind if I ask you to let me get out at the Shack and let him go home with me?"

"You'd prefer that?"

"O, please."

"All right," he said soberly. "And you do what I tell you; consider me for all it's worth before you make up your mind what to answer. Another thing, don't think I'm asking you without understanding exactly what I'm doing. You don't love me yet; knowing this, I'm asking you to marry me."

He stopped the car at the Shack and the bewildered girl got out. She felt that she could bear no more. Lowndes had been the pivot upon which her whole life moved; and now she was suddenly called upon to replace him by another of whom she had never before had to think. She had now to consider Sam Winstead.

Lowcock ..... Herman Bing
Mme. Neumann Baumbach .. Elsa Janssen

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Mr. Menjou's latest vehicle is Leo Dietrichsen's play brought up to date.

You will find "The Great Lover" a moderately entertaining screen offering. The action drags some and there's too much conversation; but the acting is excellent and the star as suave and artistic as usual.

He plays a temperamental bee of a grand opera baritone, who flits from willing flower to flower, extracting such sweetness as his whilom fancy demands and leaving what is left to waste itself on the desert air—or any heir. Paurel cares not, for he is as famous for his fickleness as for his voice.

We leave him, finished with singing, but not with women; though between the first and last reels he has, he believes, for the first time in his life really loved. He is sure he has loved because never before his affair with Diana has he proposed marriage to a woman. Diana? Well—never mind . . .! But don't forget that Mr. Neil Hamilton is in the cast. Carlo Jonedino, is the name. Back in Sticksville it was Carl Jones. He also sings baritone. In fact he understudies the great Paurel.

Ernest Torrence contributes a deft bit of character portrayal as Paurel's valet and confidential man. Potter is all-seeing, all-understanding, all-sympathizing. When he speaks he uses the editorial "we" like reporters—and kings. "Yes, she swooned when we kissed her . . .!" etc.

Olga Baclanova plays a jealous one-time sweetheart of the singer with fire and feeling. Comedy parts are fairly well handled. Direction lacks snap, but the film has considerable atmosphere, is technically commendable, and was being kindly received by the Oriental audience yesterday morning.

See you tomorrow.

Honor from Italy Recalls World War Work of N. D. Baker

Cleveland, O., July 24.—(AP)—Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker received today from the Italian government a decoration as grand officer of the Order of the Crown of Italy. It was presented to him by Count Pier Alberto B. Gradenigo, Italian consul here. It is to honor Mr. Baker for his services in fostering Italian-American military coöperation during the world war.

In the presence of only members of the immediate families, Miss Keziah Strong, daughter of Maj. Charles H. Strong, late today became the bride of Newton D. Baker III., son of the former secretary of war in the Wilson cabinet.

Following an elaborate wedding dinner, the couple left for Vanderbilt, Mich. There they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will be at home for the summer at "Tuckaway," the bride's cottage at Little Mountain. The ceremony was performed at the Church of St. Hubert in Kirtland Hills.

"BATTLE HYMN OF REPUBLIC" PLAYED IN CANTERBURY CHURCH

CANTERBURY, England, July 24.—(AP)—Canterbury's famous old cathedral was host to Americans in England today.

This was the third day of the cathedral's commemoration week, under the auspices of the Friends of Canterbury Cathedral, which is interested in preserving and restoring the beauties of the church.

The invitation to Americans was extended by the dean and chapter of the cathedral. The United States delegated Ray Atherton, counselor of the American embassy; Albert Halstead, the consul general, and the military and naval attachés as official representatives.

The archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Church of England, was the preacher at the special service program and for the first time the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was included in the music list.

Although the archbishop has a palace in London, where most of the business of the church is done, Canterbury still is the metropolis of the Anglican church.

It was to Canterbury that St. Augustine and his band of missionaries came from Rome in 597 A. D. The church he built was long in use, and finally was destroyed by fire in 1067. In 1070 another cathedral was built, but that was partially burned, and the structure was not completed until 1184.

St. Augustine was the first archbishop of Canterbury and Dr. Lang is the 97th. Between them are names such as Breogwine, Aethelhard, Wulfelm, Thomas à Becket. The site was given to the church by Aethelberht, the fourth Saxon king of Kent, whose queen, Bertha, was a Christian.

Perhaps Canterbury's chief fame to much of the modern world comes from the poet Chaucer, whose "Canterbury Tales" relate the adventures and manners of a group of pious people in the 14th century on a pilgrimage to Canterbury.

Son of Brigham Young Recalls 84 Years of History

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 24.—(AP)—On Ensign peak, overlooking the city and the state capital, a United States flag was planted today by descendants of the group that placed one there 84 years ago at the command of Brigham Young, to claim the territory for this nation.

Those participating included Ashby Snow, son of Erastus Snow, one of the band of three men detailed by President Young for the task, and Col. Willard Young, eldest living son of Brigham Young.

Detroit Recalls 230 Yrs. Since Birth of City

Building Covers Site of Cadillac's Town.

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—On a hot morning in July, just two hundred and thirty years ago today, a sunburned, perspiring Gascon from France, named Antoine Laumet de la Mothe Cadillac, beached his canoe near the junction of the Savoyard and Detroit rivers.

From that sandy beach on which Laumet landed on July 24, 1701, has grown Detroit, a city of a million and a half population which today is observing the two hundred and thirtieth year of its founding.

For years the little Savoyard river has been only a depression in the river front streets of Detroit. Beneath the narrows of the Detroit river, where Cadillac built his fort because his cannon could carry to the opposite side, runs a vehicular tunnel through which hundreds of automobiles pass daily. For many decades the high bluffs, on which the daring Gascon built his fort, because of its isolation from the opposite shore, have been smoothed down until modern docks are several squares distant from the ancient water front.

Cadillac's fort—named Fort Pontchartrain—no longer exists, and its location is known only to historians. Where once were the wide, greening banks of the river of the straits now are freighter docks and ferry landings. Further downstream a steel span extends across the river, joining the shore from which the city's founder sought isolation.

A single building covers the spot on which the entire city once was located. Only plaques on banking houses in the Griswold street financial district mark the site of St. Anne's church, begun by Father Constantine and some friendly Pottawattomies on July 26, 1701; the commandant's house, and the inner fort. In an older section of Detroit—the Descharme lawn—is an ancient pear tree, almost as high as an elm, the last known to exist of Cadillac's planting.

Several of the timbers used in the stockade are in the museum of the public library. Nothing remains to mark the site of the old flour mill, the bastions that stood at diagonal corners of the fort, the cabins built for the hundred odd newcomers who accompanied Cadillac from the north in twenty-five canoes.

Mother Wins Singing Test, Defeats Her Daughter's Efforts

Mother and daughter went into competition yesterday in the all Chicago audition being held at the Fine Arts building, and the mother won. Judges placed behind a screen to gauge the respective merits of many contralto voices selected Mrs. Caroline Encell as one of the semi-finalists in the contest, over her daughter, Rosalie. The two have studied music together for several years.

It was the richer, fuller tones of Mrs. Encell's voice as against the lighter texture of Rosalie's that gave the matron the advantage over the miss. So on Monday night, when the forty-one contestants in the public semi-finals of the J. L. Kraft audition are reduced to ten finalists—two each in the soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone and bass classes—Rosalie will stand cheering on the sidelines while her mother competes again with the pick of the original 550 entrants. Rosalie and Mrs. Encell live at 839 South 21st avenue, Maywood.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Lupe Velez returned to Hollywood quietly from New York, her arrival preceding by a few days the sailing date of her erstwhile fiancé, Gary Cooper, from Europe to New York. The continent will separate the disunited couple after Gary gets back, as he will make his next picture or two at the Paramount Long Island lot.

LUPE VELEZ.

Ruby Keeler arrived by train from New York a few days ago and expressed extreme annoyance that the presence of her husband's [Al Jolson's] business adviser, named Johnson, as a traveling companion on the cross country train ride should have occasioned speculation about a break in the Jolson family.

The operation on the left eye of Gaylord Lloyd, brother and film associate of Harold Lloyd, who was injured during a premature explosion of dynamite caps in a film scene, was held this morning at Eye and Ear hospital. Dr. Simon Jesperg said a copper splinter was found in the eye and that sight of that eye will be lost. The operation drew an audience of Los Angeles surgeons, as Dr. Jesperg used a radio appliance attached to his surgeon's knife, the radio appliance causing a buzz when it approached the metal splinters in the patient's eye. Sound magnifiers caused the buzz to be enlarged in volume. Lloyd was injured during filming of a scene in "Scarface," which was intended to recall the St. Valentine day gunman massacre in Chicago.

U. S. Farm Expert Here; Views Fair Grounds for 1933

Dr. A. F. Woods, director of the bureau of scientific research of the United States department of agriculture, was the guest yesterday of officials of the Century of Progress exposition. He discussed with them the plans for agricultural exhibits. He was escorted on a tour of the fair grounds by Harvey J. Sconce, chief of the agricultural division of the World's Fair, and later started back to Washington.

In London on Thursday, Sir Henry Coles, head of the foreign office of the exposition, presided at a luncheon meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce at which the Chicago fair was the topic of discussion by various prominent Englishmen and Americans. Among those present was Godfrey Haggard, British consul general at Chicago, who is spending some time in London. Various departments of the British government were represented.

Women of World Urged to Pray for the End of All War

A the international gesture of their international convention here, the delegates of the Women's Benefit association yesterday adopted a resolution calling on all the women of the world to spend one minute each day in prayer for no more wars. It was adopted unanimously. The convention ends today.

"Whereas," the women urged, "the governing powers of the various countries coöperating with President Hoover need the confidence and moral support of their citizens in their effort to bring together the peoples of the earth in a harmonious plan to promote peace and a normal economic condition, be it resolved, that we urge the women of the world to devote one minute a day to prayer that the countries of the earth will work in harmony and without conflict to preserve peace and the future generations."

Cannon Boom, Begin Ileana's Wedding Fetes

SINAIA, Rumania, July 24.—(AP)—Ten thousand sightseers who began pouring into this town early today massed in the boulevards this morning as cannon boomed from the royal castle announcing the beginning of festivities which will attend the wedding Sunday of Princess Ileana of Rumania and Archduke Anton of Hapsburg.

The crowds cheered the cavalcade as it drove slowly to the royal castle.

Everything was ready tonight for the wedding on Sunday. Princess Ileana had a smile and a good word for every one as she spent the morning waiting under a pavilion on the platform of the station at Sinaia to receive friends and guests.

After luncheon she invited a company of aristocrats, ministers and diplomats to the Florentine room of the royal palace of Pelesch, where the bride's trousseau was on view. Queen Maria of Jugo-Slavia, followed by members of the Hapsburg and Hohenzollern families, admired the national costume, the embroidery and the pictures and other presents given the young couple by foreign governments, ministers, friends and relatives.

Princess Ileana, who was wearing a white and gold lace dress, was cheered wildly when she appeared on a balcony at the palace, accompanied by the Rumanian royal family.

"Long live Ileana, child of the people!" shouted the crowd.

Sally Names Guests Tomorrow for Her Party at Ravinia

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

The hundred boys and girls who write winning letters to be invited to our "Army and Navy" day party at Ravinia on July 30, have been selected. Their names will appear in tomorrow's SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Invitations will be mailed to them sometime before the date of the party.

Of course, many of you will have to be disappointed but it won't be for long. Accompanying the list of winners will be an announcement of another fine party and if you don't find your name in tomorrow's list of winners, or even if you do, you can compete again for an invitation to the next party.

This should be a good time to print some of the rules which a few of you are won't to disregard with the result that even if your letter is good you cannot win an invitation. Every now and then, I find a letter with two or three names signed to it, or the writer asks for an invitation for a visitor, friend or younger brother and sister. These I cannot consider because each of you must write your own letter. Then, too, it must contain your name, address and age.

AMELIA EARHART FLIES AUTOGIRO OVER CITY TO SHOW WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart was busy as a bee today, buzzing over town in her autogiro, showing the department of commerce, if it cared to look up, that she did know how to fly it.

The girl who took an official reproof for an accident on a Texas field with the remark that women pilots could stand on their own—even to taking reprimands—was impartially instructing pilots, mechanics, and the curious press in aviation's latest plaything.

A slow spin around the peaked tip of Washington monument, an almost standstill call on newly washed Miss Freedom of Capitol dome, a low, lingering dip across the Potomac river and Arlington bridge.

Doris Dismisses This Criticism of Girls with Scant Sympathy

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Being an eligible young man, I've had the greatest respect for girls," Dave writes, "but without any apparent reason I have been several times the victim of what I call pretty low tricks that I think girls should be called to account for.

"The first is: 'Why will girls that are considered exceptionally nice girls give a man all kinds of encouragement for months in order to get 'dates' only to tell him later that they have a steady or make up some excuse? This has happened to me several times and tends to lower my opinion of women.

"Another thing: I have called girls on the phone, at their request, only to have them, after they learned it was I who was calling, have the operator report they were not at home.

"I wouldn't do tricks like that to any one and I don't like to have them done to me. I think a real hard boiled lecture on this subject through your column might make these supposed high grade girls have a little more consideration for a square shooting man when he does show up."

IS that the way you behave, girls? Do you lead the boys on, as complained, just for the mean fun of turning them down cold bloodedly? Or, perchance, is there something in the boy's manner that prompts the desire to discontinue the friendship? But, then, why give him your telephone number? Or, does he become insistent about getting the number from you and your only escape is to give it to him?

Personally, my feeling is that Dave may need the talking to. He seems so convinced that he has no faults that he almost must have a couple of them. Because dates are welcomed by girls just so they'll have something to do or some place to go.

Yeah, I'm afraid, David, you'd better look for the mote in your own eye. Anyway, it's always a good thing to do when one's popularity shows signs of waning.

New Chapeaux, Partly Off-the-Head, Demand Well Brushed Locks

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If you've been looking the new millinery over you must be impressed with the part hair is going to play in the fall hat vogue, especially if you take to one of the Empress Eugénie adaptations. Those cocky little chapeaux are going to depend absolutely on the beauty and chic of the hair style worn with them.

In one modification of the Empress Eugénie style of hat the brim curves directly from the space between the eyebrows to the nape of the neck in the back, leaving an entire head half fully exposed.

No more tucking the unruly ends away underneath the tight fitting skull cap or one of the close fitting variety. More and more is going to be asked of hair beauty as the season goes on, so that I think it timely to remind you that right now you can do a terrific amount of hair damage if you aren't careful of the treatment you are giving it.

For instance, if you get your hair salt water soaked, be sure to rinse it out in fresh water. The salt water is drying and not conducive to retaining the perfect color you will want. And, of course, you've got to keep an eye on what the old sun terror is doing to your locks.

But I wanted to remind you that you cannot correct a famished head of hair overnight. You can, on the other hand, do more in a corrective way for hair in a shorter time than you can improve almost any other feature. I plead chiefly for more brushing. It will give your hair the lovely sheen you'll want awfully for wear with the cocky new bonnet.

It maybe is trite and perhaps tiresome to you to be preached at continually about this hair brushing daily practice. But it's just like water drinking.

Food Talk.

A table loaded with hot steaming dishes has no appeal on a warm summer day. In fact, it is discouraging. The heat of the food adds to the heat and humidity of the room and makes one so uncomfortable that the small appetite one brings to the table is lost.

But a meal of cool and crisp dishes has a great appetite appeal. The latter seems more agreeable, not only to the diners, but also to the housekeeper. Standing over a hot stove to prepare a meal that is greeted with groans over the difficulty of eating such hot food in such hot weather is not at all conducive to amiability.

In warm weather we need less energy foods than in winter. Also we do not want an excess of protein, as that furnishes a large amount of heat to a body that does not need it. The thinnest slices of meat, or a salad of fish or meat furnishes enough protein to appease the appetite. Yet the actual amount of protein consumed is far less than if a hearty slice of meat had been eaten.

A cold salad and even cold vegetables add more to the meal than warm accompaniments. The trick of serving cold foods that will be enjoyed thoroughly is to have them very cold and then serve them on cold dishes. The plates and dishes may be stacked compactly in the refrigerator to get chilled several hours before the meal. Lukewarm vegetables interest nobody.

For the dessert, one can delve into the realm of frozen puddings, Bavarian creams and chilled fresh fruits. Ice cream requires no preparation and imparts a festive note that very few other desserts can equal, especially if a delicious home made sauce has been prepared. Any kind of dessert should have a garnish. It is a touch that always pleases. With a pudding or ice cream it is wise to serve some small delicious cookies or a thin slice of a good plain cake.

The beverage, too, at this cold meal should be cold. If you feel that you cannot do without your cup of coffee, a glass of iced coffee will give you the same stimulus without any of the warmth of the hot drink. Iced tea is also a standard drink for the hot days. Lemonade, orangeade and other fruit drinks may also be used, but be sure they harmonize, at least with the dessert. With any cold beverage the important factor is to have them as cold as possible or they lose their potency as cold beverages. And always have them garnished attractively.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE.

1½ cups brown sugar
2-3 cup corn sirup
¼ cup water
¼ cup butter
2-3 cup cream

Boil the sugar, sirup, water, and butter to a thick sirup [236 degrees F.]. Cool and beat in the cream.

Yield: Ten servings.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

MILLIONS OF TREES.

Millions of small trees are getting a start through intense planting programs throughout the United States this year and last. A compilation of distribution of the young trees just completed by the United States department of agriculture shows the extent to which lands are being put back into potential forest wealth.

For reforestation of state lands 30,443,854 trees were provided this year, while planting on private lands, other than farms, increased this total by 23,039,760. Last year in 39 states and Hawaii and Porto Rico there was a distribution of 79,229,629 trees for reforestation purposes.

Of these, the government reports, 25,746,215 were distributed under the Clarke-McNary law coöperative plan to farmers for planting as windbreaks, shelter belts, and farm woodlands. Much of this stock was furnished to farmers at cost from state nurseries.

New York led planting programs of states last year, owing to what the forest service describes as a heavy planting program on privately owned timberlands. The state distributed 24,960,000 trees. Michigan set out more than 19 million, of which 16 million were planted on states lands. Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, and Wisconsin followed in order.

For farm woodland planting the greatest demand was for red and white pine for soft woods and locust for hardwood. Slash pine led in the south. The locust was popular to check erosion and to produce farm timber. In the lakes region the planting was intended for future lumber and wood production, following a tendency to put out commercial plantings in areas adjacent to factories, mines, and other wood using industries.

THE fashionable summer population dwindles and dwindles until it looks as though shortly there will be no one left in town except the husbands who are victims of temporary summer desertion by their wives and families.

Mrs. Earl Hambleton and her daughter, Miss Peggy Hambleton, of the Alexander East, who always go to Chicago Beach in the summer, have been staying here because Mrs. Hambleton hasn't been feeling up to snuff, but are departed last night to be at Charlevoix for the rest of the summer.

Mrs. Ralph C. Otis and her daughter, Miss Florence Otis, and perhaps Mr. Otis, too, plan to leave next Wednesday for California. They'll go first to visit the Otis' son-in-law and daughter, the Robert Burnses in Los Angeles, and then will take a house at Santa Barbara or some other place on the ocean to stay until mid-September. If Mr. Otis doesn't go with his wife and daughter next week, he'll join them later on.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Hibbard of the Lakeview avenue depart tomorrow for Eagle Knob lodge at Lake Geneva, Wis., to be there until late in September.

Mr. and Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell of Lake Forest went up to Mackinac Island this week—Wednesday—to visit Mr. Mitchell's brother, Richard Peabody. Mr. Peabody went up with Mr. Peabody on the train, while Mrs. Mitchell motored up, or perhaps it was vice versa.

Mrs. William H. MRS. CHARLES R. PIERCE.
[Barrett Photo.]

Mrs. Pierce, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Ann Humphrey, is on her way with her husband to Buenos Aires, Argentina. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Humphrey of 4826 Dorchester avenue. Mr. Pierce formerly was assistant to the president of the University of Chicago. They were married July 22 at St. Paul's Episcopal church, 50th street and Dorchester avenue.

Too Much Devotion to Husband Causes Child to Feel Hurt

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"I've just seen something I want to tell you about," said my caller after she had settled her little boy near the turtle tank.

"I was walking along the street this afternoon, having one of my spells of watching people and ruminating about them, when my eye settled on a man and a woman just ahead of me. They were walking at about the same pace that I was, so I had a good chance to 'take them in,' as my grandmother used to say.

"The first thing that attracted my attention was that the woman was almost hanging on the man's arm—from affection, not physical disability—and gazing adoringly into his face. The man was tall and all right looking—you know, just an ordinary man to the unprejudiced observer! The woman was smartly dressed, in a rather extreme way, with excessive makeup—sort of brittle looking.

"There was a boy walking along parallel with them and off to one side, but it wasn't until the woman turned her head away from the man and spoke to him that I realized that he was with them.

"'He looks out of it,' I thought to myself, and then found it was late and I must hurry. As I caught up with them and then passed them I recognized the boy as one who used to be a classmate of Hank's when he was eleven. Then some things the boys had told me flashed into my mind—how the lad used to take things from a big toy store nearby, and how he often lied, and was a little bit sneaky."

She stopped a minute.

"You know, I've been behind the scenes of two or three serious young behavior problems lately—and the trouble has always shown up in something the father or mother has done—or hasn't done. When I saw that family on the street today I just wondered . . . is that boy as left out by marital devotion as he looks to be? Are they so centered in each other that it leaves him hungry for affection? He's old enough now to have it hurt him badly. It bothers me."

Then she laughed.

"Do you think I'm a silly psychological Sherlock Holmes?" she asked.

I didn't.

Free Museum Lectures.

Next week's free guide lecture tours for the public at Field Museum of Natural History will begin Monday with "Boats and Fishing" at 11 a. m. and "Work of Wind and Water" at 3 p. m. On Wednesday at the same hours the subjects will be "Oriental Theatricals" and "Primitive Costumes," and on Friday "African Game Animals" and "Mexico, Past and Present."

Golf Course, Built by Kids, Aids Algonquin

There is a golf course out in Crystal Lake that operates exclusively for the sake of mothers and children at Camp Algonquin. Its proprietors are children who anticipated early in the summer that money must be forthcoming or a good many tenement families would never share the joys of the Fox river camp this summer.

Constructing a seven hole golf course is a bit of an undertaking, but Jean Hefter and Marjorie Decker, each 11 years old, and J. L. Fox Jr., 10 years old, are the kind of youngsters who aren't afraid to tackle a big job. They set to work with a will, plus hammers, nails, et cetera, and were rewarded with a good pocket size golf course.

"We charge five cents a person and we now have $4.25," the partnership wrote yesterday. "We decided to sell Kool-Ade to raise $5 for Camp Algonquin, too. Every Sunday we have a tournament and give a prize to the winner. In this way we draw more people to the golf course."

The letter ended with a request for advice, whether to give the proceeds into the general Camp Algonquin fund to "bring new children to camp," or to give the children a party at the camp.

Among the camp's best friends are the children. Larger checks may come in from richer contributors, but it is the children who spend their vacations out in the hot sun selling lemonade, rehearsing for plays, getting together neighbor children who are willing to break their necks doing circus stunts for Camp Algonquin. And it is these children who, down underneath, envy the tenement youngsters their trip to the camp.

Early this spring a group of children from Algonquin, Ill., made an inspection tour of the camp, guided by Mrs. Astrid Save, camp superintendent. The tenement children had not yet come out from the city. These small visitors, used to the openness and glories of the country as they are, envied the city children for their two weeks at Algonquin.

"Gee, why can't we live in the tenements and get to come out here?" a ten year old lad was heard to remark as he scrambled over the wooded slopes on the search for the first spring blossoms.

Each benefit given by children helps roll up the few thousand dollars necessary to finance vacations for 1,800 mothers or children. Ten dollars gives an individual two weeks at Algonquin.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—The Japanese ambassador who has spent several days at the embassy, returned this afternoon to Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., to join his family established there for the summer.

The Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak have as their guest in their country home, "Notre Nid," in Virginia, the secretary's sister, Mrs. Lulu Doak McCarty of Bristol, Va., who arrived this morning. She will remain until the end of the month when she will go to Europe. Secretary and Mrs. Doak will have a family reunion next week with a large house party.

Surgeon General Robert U. Patterson, U. S. A., went tonight to New York to meet Mrs. Patterson and their daughter, who will arrive on the Chateau Thierry from the Philippines tomorrow or next day. They will go at once to Virginia to spend the remainder of the summer with the general's mother at Manassas. The general will spend only the week-ends in Virginia.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly and her daughter, Miss Ruth Vanderbilt Twombly, who sailed early in July for a visit abroad, are stopping at Claridge's during their stay in London.

Mrs. T. Coleman Du Pont entertained several friends at dinner in the summer garden of the Plaza last evening.

Mrs. M. Taylor Payne and her sister, Mrs. William L. Dayton, started for Bar Harbor.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Gwennie felt it to be her duty to entertain a man who had been called in to do some carpenter work, and began by asking him if he had a papa and mama. He said yes. Then she asked if he had any brothers and sisters. He replied that he had three half-brothers and three half-sisters. After looking at him for a moment intently she said:

"Are you the only whole one there is?" P. L.

New Frock That's Both Formal and Informal

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Parisian dressmakers have been, for some time, steering styles into a new kind of formality. This piloting is being done in a desperate effort to keep evening and afternoon clothes, as is, from going shipwreck on the rocks of modern habits. Cocktail dresses, bridge frocks, and late afternoon ensembles are all attempts in this direction.

What our present day habits of living call for is something in which we can be grand as grand or simple as Simon the fisher lad. The low cut evening dress, even when tucked under a little jacket, doesn't quite fill the bill. And the elegant afternoon frock falls short of it also.

Therefore a new kind of formal frock has recently made its début in Paris. Louiseboulanger, who has done vast things for modern fashions, is responsible for this new frock, sketched today.

It looks, on first glance, like an afternoon dress, but it is too long. It looks, on second thought, like a sleeved evening frock. It's both.

The material of which it is made does practically everything to make this frock grand and formal. It is made of a black net, with stripes of flimy, spotted gold scattered about irregularly over it. The cut of the dress is simplicity itself, just a kimono blouse with elbow sleeves and a full, long skirt, joined by a wide band of black moiré ribbon from the waistline to bust. A gold belt holds the dress close just above the waistline.

That's all, but Paris believes that such a frock is appropriate for all kinds of occasions, and perhaps she is right. Anyway, it is something new to bridge the chasm between formal and informal in the same frock.

BOOKS

With 'Dermotts Rampant' as Restless Irish Clan.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

STEPHEN McKENNA, author of "Sonia," and "The Cast Iron Duke," has written a new novel called "Dermotts Rampant" [Dodd Mead]. It is a quiet, leisurely tale of three generations of an Irish family that came to England temporarily, always talked of returning to Ireland, yet remained. There is something faintly reminiscent of the Forsytes and of Galsworthy's manner in this narrative of the Dermotts.

STEPHEN McKENNA.

The title indicates the power of the members of this clan. They seemed to cover England "on their hind legs, waiting to spring, rampant as the heralds say." Far flung as British possessions, Dermotts were to be found in America, in South America, and in other spots on the globe. In fact, the sun never set on them. Aggressive, efficient, intelligent, self-disciplined, and full of ego, they lived to see the waning of the old aristocracy in England; they "held on" long after their neighbors had succumbed to the changing times. Dermotts were dominant.

Young Tony, who is the "I" of the story, represents the present generation. He it is who chronicles the family history and traces the political and social background against which his father, grandfather, and many uncles moved. Mr. McKenna then, in writing this novel, is not only creating a set of interesting characters; he is depicting epochs in English history. In short, he is humanizing two periods: that of Queen Victoria and that of the England of King Edward VII. and King George V.

Tony was born "in the twilight," the end of the Victorian era, and lived to see more changes than any of his predecessors. Brought up in an ardently patriotic Irish family, in his youth he had a feeling of impermanence.

"We were always talking, three generations of us, about the day—so near at hand!—when we should be leaving. It was hardly worth while to make friends with our neighbors when we should be bidding them good-by so soon, hardly worth while to identify ourselves with local interests."

However, Tony came to know one group of neighbors well. They were aristocrats, large landowners, typical of a certain group, and in describing them and their lives, their views, their idiosyncrasies, he is really showing the governing class of England.

Tony's grandfather was such an aggressive individualist that it made a Liberal of his son and almost a Socialist of his grandson. Tony's father had a "mild scorn for those who took more from life than they gave back," and so Tony himself was impatient of people who talked as though the present distribution of wealth and power had been divinely appointed. Unlike his ancestors, this present generation Dermott did not go in for politics, big business, the church, or diplomacy. He wanted to be a writer, and a writer he became.

As "The Edwardians" gave a picture of England in the early 1900s, "Dermotts Rampant" goes on with that picture, both before and after that period. While it is not in any sense sophisticated, chic, or clever, as was "The Edwardians," it just as surely makes the era vivid and understandable. If you enjoyed the Forsytes, too, you will, in a milder fashion, enjoy the Dermotts. Mr. McKenna's book is well worth your while.

Here's Little Homily on Fame and Book Trade

"The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," by John Fox Jr., is one of America's favorite books. It has sold many more than a million copies since publication on Sept. 12, 1903. It still sells slightly less than 10,000 copies annually. But when a traveler for Charles Scribner's Sons showed a New York bookseller an advance copy of the new gift edition with color illustrations by N. C. Wyeth, which the Scribners will publish about Oct. 1, the bookseller pushed it away, saying "We can't use any, we don't carry religious books."

Philip Van H. Weems Has New Book About Flying

Harold Gatty, navigator of the plane Winnie May in its recent record trip around the world, made air navigation his special hobby when he first came to the United States in 1927. His instructor in research work was Lieutenant Commander Philip Van H. Weems, whose book, "Air Navigation," will be published by the McGraw-Hill Book company.

Europe to Try "Sleep."

Contracts have just been signed for the publication in Sweden, Germany, and England of "Sleep," by Donald A. Laird and Charles G. Muller, and based on experiments in sleep conducted at Colgate university. It was published here last year by John Day.

WHEREIN BRITONS ARE INVITED TO TRAVEL EVEN WHILE AT HOME

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—There is to be a Travel Book week in England; and all the booksellers will be busy showing copies of new and standard works in that department. They are not to confine themselves to guides, but will have an eye to stay at home travelers as well. One of the new books of travel to which special attention will be drawn is called "The Spring Journey," by Alan Pryce-Jones. This book, which tells of the author's adventures in a journey through Egypt, Palestine, Syria, and Greece, will unquestionably attract a great deal of attention.

NAOMI MITCHISON.

The author is an accomplished practitioner in the arts, is still very young [as the book shows], and has for some time been assistant editor of the London Mercury. J. C. Squire is said to think very highly indeed of his gifts, and at least one critic has prophesied that "The Spring Journey" may be regarded as a modern "Eothen." These are brave words. But the book is notable for its author's self-confidence and his love of beauty, and it should find many readers among those to whom his personality is attractive.

Some months ago I spoke here of the linguistic exercises of Yoshio Markino, Japanese artist, who taught himself Latin and Greek in the intervals of painting pictures of London, Paris, Rome, and other great cities. For the last two years Mr. Markino has been working in oils, which he finds altogether superior for his purposes to water color. And he has completed a collection of paintings of London and various literary shrines in England—such as Stratford-on-Avon, Chalfont St. Giles, where Milton lived for a time, and Stoke Poges, where the poet Gray is buried.

I now hear that he has sent a number of these pictures to his friend, Glen Buck, and that there is a prospect that an exhibition of them may be held at Marshall Field's in Chicago.

One of the English magazines has been asking various publishers to name the authors of first novels [recently published by them] whom they regard as the most promising of all. Chatto & Windus, who are the English publishers of Aldous Huxley, David Garnett, Lytton Strachey, Richard Aldington, and other writers of repute, nominated as their choice Adrian Alington, who wrote a first novel last year called "Slowbags and Arethusa." I believe that the publishers expected a wide sale for this book among those who welcomed the return to long and cheerful books such as "The Good Companions," and they are particularly hopeful about Mr. Alington's new—and even longer—second novel, "The Career of Julian Stanley-Williams." This is enormously long. It contains nearly 450 large pages, and it deals with theatrical life and the adventures of "an entirely dislikable hero."

Still longer is an extraordinary new work by Mrs. Naomi Mitchison. Nobody can re-create the world of the ancients with quite the same freshness and convincingness as Mrs. Mitchison, and this new book is described as history and philosophy and adventures! No bad mixture! It is called "The Corn King and the Spring Queen," and has over seven hundred pages. And it reads, as far as I have gone, like a fairy tale, in spite of the fact that it opens with a genealogical tree of the kings of Sparta.

British Money Expert Lauds Hoover Plan; Warns of Its Perils

As soon as he learned that President Hoover had recommended a year's moratorium on international obligation, Sir George Paish sent by radio to his publishers a special foreword to be included in his book, "The Way to Recovery" [Putnam]. Sir George expresses hearty approval of the President's plan, but gave the following warning:

"It should, however, be clearly understood that this is only the first of many steps which need to be taken to adjust the situation. Indeed, were no further steps to be taken, the position of Europe, of the United States, and of the world in general would be even graver at the end of twelve months than it is at present. A still greater amount of credit would have been created which the nations would be unable to honor."

Sir George was Lloyd George's financial adviser during the war and now is governor of the London School of Economics. He recently returned to England from a visit to America. He conferred with officials and financial leaders.

In 1927 Sir George published "The Road to Prosperity." He clearly predicted the present worldwide financial depression unless the corrective measures he then suggested were adopted.

Poems of Catullus.

The first complete unexpurgated translation of the Latin poems of Catullus to be issued in America, is published by Covici, Friede. Horace Gregory, poet, has made a wholly new translation from the Latin. For the benefit of the student, the Latin text is printed in juxtaposition to the English translation.

Lions Quickly Learn to Act for the Movies

Free Meals Teach Them, Author Reveals.

BY AL CHASE.

Paul L. Hoefler, the first explorer to cross central equatorial Africa from the Indian ocean to the Atlantic by motor, tells of that 13,282 mile jaunt in two automobile trucks over trackless veldt, swamp, jungle, mountain, and desert, in "Africa Speaks" [Winston], one of the most gorgeous travel books, both as to format and contents, we've ever read.

This was the author's second experience on the dark continent. In this instance he was leader of the Colorado-African expedition, organized to film wild animals to use in the picture called "Africa Speaks."

Most of the animal pictures were obtained at Camp Simba, which he established in Tanganyika, and where he made friends with a pack of lions and through this singular acquaintanceship secured some of the most unusual glimpses of the intimate home life of Mr. and Mrs. Lion ever filmed.

A dead animal was dragged behind the truck for a few miles to establish a scent and then left on the ground near the hiding place of the author and his camera. The lions followed. They ate their gift meal with relish and appreciated it. This was done daily until they learned that the truck meant a good dinner and the men on it meant no harm.

Then filming was easy. The lions threw off all restraint and fought, played, and petted like any two legged modern. Oftentimes they were within a few feet of the camera. At one time when the author had left his truck for a short time he returned to find his six lion friends gamboling about the car, playing with a spare tire and some oil cans.

Later on Hoefler secured the services of a group of natives who did some magnificent and daring lion killing single handed with only a spear and shield. It was bravery of the kind that won the keenest admiration of the author and his party. It also enabled Hoefler to secure some splendid films.

Later on the party traversed Kenya, Uganda and the Belgian Congo; gradually working up into French territory where they saw the grotesque saucer lipped ladies of Kiya Be. His trip from there through Nigeria to the Atlantic coast was a nightmare of motor troubles. And yet, in all of the more than thirteen thousand miles of jungle, rock, swamp, and desert he never had a flat tire! You couldn't equal that record in America.

Hoefler spent fourteen thrilling months in Africa. Apparently he never had a dull moment. At any rate there isn't a dull paragraph in the book. It plunges along, from adventure to adventure, at breathless speed, and is told with a good natured sincerity that makes it an exceptionally enjoyable book of travel. And we believe any youngster will enjoy it as well as a grownup.

The publishers deserve a word of praise. In these days when so many firms print volumes of travel without a map of any sort—oftentimes without even a photograph or other illustration—"Africa Speaks" stands out as a volume of distinction. Not only is the jacket striking but the cover is equally good. There are unusually attractive end paper maps and 146 really splendid photographs taken by the author.

In addition there's a glossary of native terms, giving the meaning, pronunciations and dialect from which the words came. A dictionary of African animals gives the common name, the scientific name, the native name and a description. A comprehensive index is included, and it has 442 pages of reading matter. Altogether it's one of the outstanding travel books of 1931.

Women Voters of Illinois Explain Ways of Government

Of much interest to women voters are several small handbooks published by the Illinois League of Women Voters. "The Illinois Voters' Handbook" is a valuable little pamphlet that is full of information about primary and general elections; the government of Illinois; the national government; revenues, and that gives specimen ballots, maps of Illinois divided into senatorial districts, etc. It has been prepared by Mrs. L. Belle Goodman.

"The First Ten Years of the Illinois League of Women Voters" is the name of a booklet written by Miss Edith Rockwood explaining what has been accomplished by the group in that period. Other informative articles are listed in an annual list of publications issued by the league and may be had by writing to the national headquarters, 532 17th street, Washington, D. C.

Your money's worth!

On Sunday you can lay plans to see that you get your money's worth in practically every major purchase you make the following week.

Sunday brings your Sunday Tribune—and plenty of time to read it.

Your Sunday Tribune brings you descriptions and prices of nearly every conceivable kind of merchandise. Merchants and manufacturers alike display their wares attractively in the columns of the Sunday Tribune.

You can be sure of the values they offer. They cannot afford to come into this great market place with shoddy merchandise or with prices that are out of line. They must offer the best—at the lowest prices consistent with quality. Otherwise their advertising would simply defeat itself. If they didn't have the best the market affords, they wouldn't dare place it under the critical gaze of more than 990,000 Sunday Tribune families.

That's why the Sunday Tribune for years has been Chicagoland's guide book of buying ideas. Here, week after week, are attractive merchandise, helpful suggestions, compelling prices. Informed shoppers, careful shoppers, study these pages. They know it's a profitable, as well as an interesting, way to spend their Sunday leisure.

Interesting—because running through the columns of advertising are the news and features which have won for the Chicago Sunday Tribune the largest city circulation among the standard size newspapers of America. Up-to-the-minute news of city, state, nation, and world . . . fiction by world-famous authors . . . features on subjects that every one wants to know more about . . . comics by world-famous cartoonists —all to make your Sunday a day to look forward to!

Read your Sunday Tribune thoroughly. Let its news columns keep you informed. Let its features entertain you. Let its advertising columns help you get your money's worth in everything you buy!

CUBS WHIP BRAVES, 3-1; REGAIN THIRD PLACE

ARLINGTON CUP TODAY DRAWS 7 HANDICAP STARS

SUN BEAU AND GALLANT KNIGHT DOMINATE RACE

Gov. Emmerson to Present Trophy.

Arlington Cup Field

Post.	Weight.	Jockey.	Odds.
Sun Beau	126	R. Finnerty	.80 to 1
Gallant Knight	126	C. Phillips	6 to 5
Spanish Play	126	G. Ellis	6 to 1
Bel Bunyan	126	J. Gianelloni	20 to 1
Scotch Play	114	C. Landolt	5 to 1
Silent Knight	126	H. Schutte	2 to 1
Elle Bell	126	L. McDermott	10 to 1

BY FRENCH LANE.

A test battle that has been awaited for several months will be decided at Arlington Park this afternoon when Sun Beau, the old champion, clashes with Gallant Knight, his most dangerous rival among the younger thoroughbred stars of the country, in the running of the Arlington Cup. The race will have a gross value of $28,-

The race will meet at a mile and a quarter in a weight for age struggle, each will carry 126 pounds on his back. There will be five others trying for the purse, but it's the result of the fight between old Sun Beau and Gallant Knight which every race goer in America will be anxious to hear.

With Billie Hall, Spinach, The Nut and Paul Bunyan also are in the event, the horse which most people think might beat the old champion or his younger rival is Spanish Play, the only 3 year old in the race.

Spanish Play in Light.

In being a weight for age race, Spanish Play gets into the tussle with a handicap of 114 pounds, 12 less than all the others will carry. Many turf horsemen contend that a good 3 year old with this advantage in the weights will beat older horses at this time of the year.

There isn't any doubt about Spanish Play being a good 3 year old. He won the Latonia Derby and the Louisville Derby prizes stuffed away in his trophy chest. He was second in the Kentucky Classic a week ago, beating the mighty Twenty Grand. He is a crashing races in the Kentucky Derby and in the American Derby and has a second to his credit in the Miami Derby. He's come to be known as a real iron horse, having been jogging along steadily at his job since last December without a let up in racing.

Sun Beau 6-5 Choice.

The fellow who begin to speculate early on the outcome of important turf events discovered last night that Sun Beau is held in just as high esteem as ever. He was made the 6 to 5 favorite. Gallant Knight's followers rallied to his support, and he went to 2 to 1. Spanish Play was the next choice at 5 to 1, and most everybody regarded it as a three horse race.

This could just about write your own ticket on the others. Chicagoans remembering the noble deeds of Mike and in other years were taking a liberal chance that he will show 'em all in the flying heels.

It is to be Governor's day at Arlington Park with Gov. Emmerson as the guest of honor. The Jockey club officials will entertain him at a luncheon early in the afternoon and later the governor will present the trophy to the owner of the cup race winner.

All Have Good Records.

The entire field has assembled for a handicap for age race in many years, and any of the seven nominated could capture the prize on races they have run in other seasons.

Sun Beau, which has won two Hawthorne gold cups, two Maryland handicaps, a Latonia championship, and many other races over distances and earned more than $280,000, the Arlington cup has attracted the standard horses of the country. Mike Hall has won upward of $200,000. Gallant Knight has shattered many track records this season. Paul Bunyan has a long handicap to his credit and The Nut, when at his best, won a Lawrence Realization and a Latonia championship.

The Governor's day program is one of the best offerings of the year. In the Assembly purse ten youngsters which will take part in the $50,000 Hyde and Paddock club stakes a week from today, will match speed and in the Claudel purse the best sprinters in America will clash at six furlongs. Among the headliners the latter are Silver Knight's Call, No More, Laddie and Burning Up.

In the Springfield handicap Brown Jug, Dark Sea, Silverdale, Knight Commander, My Dandy, and Satin Slipper come together in a dash at a mile over the Hertz course.

Burgess, Former Maroon Football Player, to Wed

Walter Burgess, University of Chicago star back in 1927 and 1929, applied for a license yesterday to marry Miss Vivian Purcell of Oak Park. Burgess was graduated from Chicago last year. He also is a resident of Oak Park.

Refund Money on Ironsides at Arlington

The jockey was George De Peso, an Italian lad, who refused to ride Ironsides after an assistant starter had put a twitch on the horse as he acted badly at the post.

Ironsides Was 5 to 1.

Battleship, heavily backed, won; Calf Roper was second, and Minotaur third. But there had been a plunge on Ironsides, which dropped his price to 5 to 1 at post time.

Arlington Park officials issued the following statement:

"In view of the fact that the backers of the horse Ironsides did not get a run for their money through the refusal of Jockey De Peso to ride him after some time at the post, the Arlington executive committee wishes to assure its patrons that money wagered on the horse Ironsides will be refunded.

"This action is taken by the Arlington executive committee to cover an unusual situation and with a desire to keep faith with the public. It must not be accepted as establishing a precedent for the future.

Report $10,000 Returned.

The regular mutuel betting pool was paid out on the horses which finished one, two, three. But persons holding tickets on Ironsides were refunded their money on presentation of the tickets. Just how much money had been wagered on him was not announced, but it was reported unofficially to have been upward of $10,000. This was paid back out of the tracks coffers and not out of the mutuel pool.

Jockey De Peso was suspended indefinitely and his case was referred to the Illinois license committee. In all probability he will not be allowed to ride for a year or more.

Ray Miller Knocks Out Maraconda in 6th Round

WRESTLING BOUT BECOMES FIGHT; POLICE STOP IT

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—The wrestling bout between Tiny Roebuck of Oklahoma and George Zaharias of Pueblo, Colo., was halted tonight after 13 minutes, 9 seconds, by Acting Superintendent of Police La Strange, who asserted the men might start a riot through their actions in the arena.

La Strange said the contestants were not wrestling but fighting. Each had been struck and floored several times before the officer intervened. Firemen escorted Roebuck and Zaharias from the ring.

Robert Young, secretary of the state boxing commission, attempted to halt the action, but La Strange stood firm and the bout was called no contest.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 24.—It was indeed a red letter day for Charles A. Comiskey's Chicago White Sox. The reasons were manifold. First of all the boys defeated the Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1, to even the series. It was their third triumph on the current tour, they thereby surpassing their first eastern trip record by one victory. One pitcher, Vic Frasier, went all the way and allowed only five hits. Batters came through in the pinches, all the runs being batted in after two were out. Yes, sir, it was indeed a red letter day.

Thus was Manager Donie Bush saved from the swirling waters of the Charles river and Secretary Lou Barbour, Mr. Comiskey's personal observer, placed out of the reach of the straitjacket squad. One more defeat without a victory would have been fatal to these estimable gents, but Vic Frasier rescued 'em, he did, and great ecstasy abounds.

Watwood Leads the Way.

So cheered were the Chicagoans by their highly creditable performance today that they are fixing to have a big time in the Boston final tomorrow, in which Ted Lyons is to make his first start since June 7 and his first pitching appearance since June 12.

Johnny Watwood was the hero in today's contest. He scored the first Sox run in the second inning on Cissell's single after getting on by singling. His double drove in Reynolds, who had doubled, after two were out in the eighth, and he scored the third and final run immediately thereafter on a single by Kerr. In the field he made a great catch and executed a double play to stop a mean rally which had been precipitated by two of the four passes issued by Frasier.

The run the Sox made in the second gave them a 1 to 0 lead, which prevailed until the fifth, when the Bostonians tied it up on a single by Oliver, a forceout, and a single by Rhyne.

Vic in Rare Form.

Frasier had all his stuff throughout the game and was making the Bostonians hit the ball high into the air. The outfielders had 14 of the 27 putouts and First Baseman Blue had only four putouts, half of them in the ninth inning.

After the game here tomorrow the Sox will go to New York, where they will play six games in four days with Joe McCarthy's third place Yankees, whom they have not defeated this year. The series will open with a double header Sunday.

2,825 to Race Tomorrow in Tribune Swim

BY WILFRID SMITH.

All contestants in the 100 yard swimming championships, which will be held tomorrow by THE TRIBUNE, must report at the Lincoln Park Boat club between 10 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. for their numbers. No exceptions will be made. All contestants' numbers must be called for between these hours or permission to compete will be denied.

The first preliminary heat in class A for boys will start promptly at 1:30 o'clock. Two thousand eight hundred and twenty-five boys and girls have entered the 100 yard races. If 60 per cent of the entry reports, more than four hours will be required to decide the champions in the ten events.

Come Prepared to Swim.

Clerks will be on duty at 10 o'clock to pass out the numbers. Swimmers may check their clothes at the boat club, or they may dress at Diversey beach. However, those who can are urged to come prepared to swim. This will relieve the congestion in the dressing rooms at the boat club.

All contestants' names, and their numbers, will be printed in tomorrow's TRIBUNE. They also will be printed in a 16 page program which will be distributed at the lagoon.

The course starts opposite the Lincoln Park Boat club and the finish is 100 yards south of the club. Twenty lanes will be laid out this afternoon by Oscar Knop, director of small parks and recreation. The boat club is just south of the stone bridge over the lagoon. It is east of the bus stops in the middle drive north of the zoo.

Race in Five Classes.

Swimmers have been classified in five age divisions. Girls and boys will race separately. Gold championship medals will be awarded in the following classes:

Class A, 11 and 12 years of age.
Class B, 13 and 14 years of age.
Class C, 15 and 16 years of age.
Class D, 17 and 18 years of age.
Class E, 19 years of age and over

A team trophy also will be awarded for the most points scored in the ten races. First, second and third places count in the scoring. Silver medals are the prizes for the runners-up and bronze medals will be awarded to the third place winners.

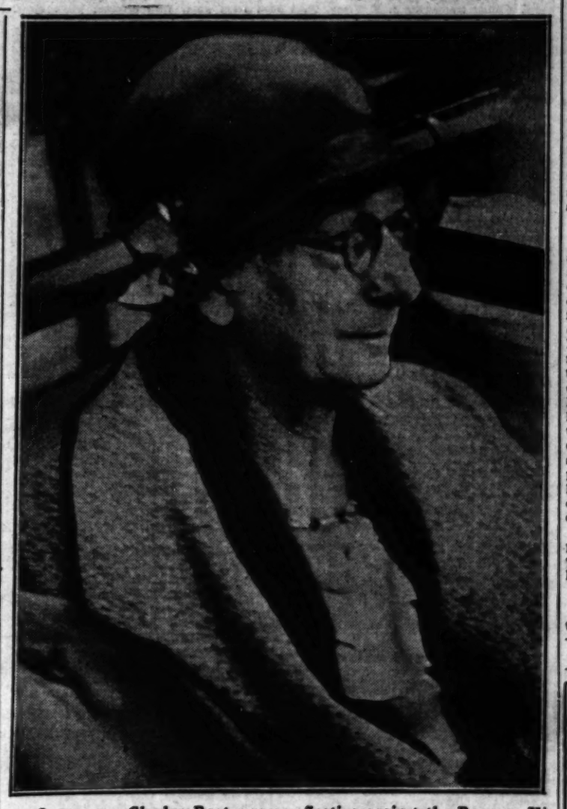
The second annual sprint championship attracted twice as many entries as the first races, which were held just one year ago tomorrow. There were 1,400 entries last year compared to 2,825 entries for tomorrow's races.



One reason Charley Root was so effective against the Braves. His mother, Mrs. Mary Root, came from Middletown, O., to see the game and Charley tried to show her how he pitches shutouts.

NURMI AGAIN BREAKS RECORD IN 2 MILE RUN

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 24.—(AP) — Paavo Nurmi, the "Phantom Finn," once more bettered the world's record for the two mile run today, covering the distance in 8 minutes 59 3-5 seconds. The listed record, 9:01 4-10, was set in 1926 by Edvin Wide of Sweden.

Not only did Nurmi shatter the record, but in running the distance under 9 minutes he accomplished a feat regarded as next to impossible.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

With the skill of the pitching master that he is, Charley Root wrote victory No. 11 into his 1931 ledger yesterday. But he had to labor strenuously to do it, for his mates did not come to his assistance until the eighth when a three run rally against Ben Cantwell ended a scoreless duel and gave the Cubs enough to win from the Braves, 3 to 1. The belated rally served to promote the Cubs back into third place.

The real significance of Root's performance was not the triumph, but the fact that he rolled up a formidable number of runless innings. He was deprived of his second straight shutout only because of a hit in the ninth. Prior to that he had surrendered only three safeties, and permitted only one Boston man to reach third and had additionally amused himself by fanning six. Then Urbanski doubled in the ninth to score on a couple of long flies and break Root's runless string at 22 innings.

Hemsley Starts Big Drive.

Root's work, as good as it was, had nothing on the effort of Cantwell. For seven innings he shaded the Cub star by holding a makeshift Cub attack to two hits, but that was the end of his effectiveness. In the eighth Rollie Hemsley touched off the signal for the big drive, Clarence Blair carried it on and a double by Ki Cuyler, who had been in a slump which limited him to three hits in 26 times at bat, completed the damage.

Hemsley was the leadoff man in the eighth, and after running the count to 2 and 1, lined one along the left field chalk mark for two bases. Root did his bit with a perfect bunt, which moved the runner to third. Blair drove him across with a single into center. Then Jurges walked and tore around to the plate behind Blair when Cuyler dented the left field bricks for two bases. Barton flied out. The rally threatened to continue when Stephenson walked, but Bell grounded into a forceout.

Taylor, Hornsby on Bench.

The Cub lineup was a makeshift affair because of Hornsby's desire to remedy the weak hitting of recent date. Stephenson was returned to his old left field pasture, Dan Taylor moving to the bench. Blair went to second, thus relieving Jurges of active labor. Hornsby also benched himself, more for rest than anything else, Bell taking over third base. Jurges, however, wasn't on the bench for long. English ripped a nail on his right hand taking a throw from Grimm in the second inning, so Jurges took over the shortstopping duties and reserved for himself the outstanding play of the battle. It was a one handed running pickup behind second on a ball hit by Cantwell in the eighth.

Bob Smith will face his old companions in the final today. Seibold will endeavor to annoy the Cubs as he has in the past.

20,000 Women Guests.

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Two long shots, with light imposts, fought it out to a nose finish in the White-stone handicap feature at Empire City this afternoon, while back of them the short priced and heavily weighted horses contended for third money. The winner was Mrs. Myrtle Shea's Sandy Ford, erstwhile winner of the Dixie at odds as generous as the 15 to 1 which was paid to the backers, if any, of the old gelding today.

M. L. Schwartz' Quarter Deck was sent out by Trainer Max Hirsch with all the confidence of a man going over Niagara Falls on a raft. Hirsch has several times thought he had a good colt in the four year old son of Man o' War, but today was not one of the times.

Quarter Deck Is Second.

Quarter Deck came through the stretch with a rush and landed second. Some thought he had won. With no backing from the stable connections, Quarter Deck was as good as 20 to 1 anywhere and was $9 to 1 or more for the asking.

Both the winner and the second horse ran under 101 pounds. James Butler's Stormy Dawn, third choice in the betting, was three lengths back of the second horse and half a length ahead of John J. Curtis' Flying Heels, the even money favorite.

Flying Heels Carries 126.

The son of Sun Briar brought up last of the eight that ran, but it should be said in extenuation that he stumbled on the turn and did not respond thereafter.

Circuit Race Card Washed Away by Rain

TORONTO, Ont., July 24.—(AP)—Rain washed out the Grand Circuit program here today after two heats of the 2:12 pace and one heat of the 2:15 pace had been run. The unfinished events will be completed tomorrow.

Arthur Mower from the Good Time stables at Goshen, N. Y., won the first heat of the 2:15 pace with Reece Howe second and Chan Hedgewood third. Short o'Cash was withdrawn when Fred Egan refused to drive because of the poor condition of the track.

Ramona Grattan, owned by Dr. B. Whitely of Goderich, Ont., won the first heat of the 2:12 pace for Canadian owned and bred horses. The second heat went to Leonora Clinch.

Winner trained by B. Creech. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:15¼. At post 3 minutes.

POMPEIA, showing good speed from the start, headed Sabina H. after going a quarter and easily led to the finish. SABINA H. was quickest to begin and raced well after being headed. BRIGHT BEAUTY held on well. DARTER was racing fast at the finish. DIXIANA made up some ground. PRECEDE tired after showing early speed.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse $2,000. Allowances. Steeplechase. Four year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,400; second, $350.

Time, 3:59 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Icicle, $8.52 straight, out place, out show; Sardaneea, out place, out show. Winner trained by T. Rodrock. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:40. At post 1¼ minutes.

ICICLE was hard held for the first mile and one-half and, going to the front when HILLOCK fell, withstood the challenge of SARDANEEA over the last jump and scored handily. SARDANEEA was also under early restraint and came fast to take the last obstacle on even terms with ICICLE, but lacked the necessary speed to keep up. HILLOCK went to the front early and was allowed to set the pace, but was tiring when he fell at the tenth jump.

FRENCH LASS, showing improvement over her last effort, soon headed the field and, drawing away from DEDICATE in the stretch, was a handy winner. DEDICATE also showed a greatly improved effort and, after racing close up throughout, held the others. NELLIE CUSTIS and PANCHIO finished fast in the middle of the track after being carried to the outside approaching the stretch. HOT SHOT, after losing ground far turn and tired in the final drive. PLAG TIME also weakened. MORSUN showed a flash of early speed.

Time, :23 2-5, :47, :59 2-5, 1:06. Two dollar mutuels paid: Morfair, $3.90 straight, $3.05 place, $2.94 show; Sun's Son, $3.14 show; Cathop, $6.40 show. Winner trained by J. F. Smith. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 3:45. At post 3 minutes.

MORFAIR soon raced into contention and, after interfering with Sun's Son at the stretch turn, drew into a long lead and was an easy winner. SUN'S SON was racing gamely on the inside approaching the stretch turn when the winner bore in, subjecting him to interference, that came to the outside in the stretch and finished gamely. CATHOP raced into contention approaching the stretch turn, but hung in the final drive. FORTHEM raced poorly. MAKING BUBBLES broke slowly.

Time, :23, :47, 1:12 2-5, 1:38 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Egypt, $6.30 straight, $3.08 place, $2.48 show; Suneros, $2.84 place, $2.40 show; Red Ronald, $3.54 show. Winner trained by J. A. Tanner. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; place driving. Went to post at 4:16. At post 4½ minutes.

EGYPT lost little time in getting to the front and, saying ground in the stretch run, held SUNEROS to win under urging. SUNEROS was close up at all stages and made up some ground in the stretch. RED RONALD finished fairly well. RADIEL made no serious effort. SKYEY was close quarters during most of the run down the back stretch, moved up to the leader when clear, but had little left for the final drive.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse $1,800. Allowances. Three year olds and up. Net value to winner, $1,300; second, $300; third, $110; fourth, $50.

BATTLESHIP came strongly on the outside after leaving the back stretch and, taking a short lead, was ridden out. CALF ROPER ran a hard stretch drive. CALF ROPER followed CULLODEN under slight restraint in the early stages and responded gamely when called upon to race in courageous fashion to the wire. MINOTAUR was in close quarters during the back stretch run and again approaching the stretch turn and could not reach the leaders. WHO WIN made up some ground. CULLODEN tired after setting the pace. IRONSIDES acted badly at the barrier and the field was started without him when his rider dismounted and refused to remount.

SWEEP PAST broke quickly and, taking a good lead after going a quarter, was never in serious trouble. SAND BELL reached a contending position during the back stretch run and made a game effort in the stretch, but could not get up. BUBOA outbroke the others and was a forward factor throughout. SMOOTH, off slowly, closed an immense gap. BROWN HILLS could not keep up. TEA GREEN was knocked back at the stretch turn.

DARSTER was put to the stretch, then came fast on the outside and, getting to the front in the last sixteenth, won easily. DUNMORE, although in close quarters on the stretch turn, closed resolutely on the inside to beat GRAND PRINCE. Latter raced gamely most of the way, but was tiring at the finish. COADY was a forward factor throughout and went wide in the stretch. MACEDON was blocked after leaving the back stretch. FORT DEARBORN tired in the final run.

Morfair Runs as if He May Win $50,000

The east uncovered a very dangerous looking candidate for the $50,000 Post and Paddock stakes in the Richmond purse run at Arlington yesterday when Morfair was an easy winner over some of our best western juveniles.

The son of Morvich, which runs in the blue and white jacket of Victor Emmanuel, galloped in front nearly all the way and was a couple of lengths ahead of the California colt, Sun's Son, at the finish, with Cathop, a highly regarded youngster from Kentucky, third. Portden, which was expected to give Morfair the most trouble, never figured in the final outcome. He ran as if his mind were not on the race.

CARDINALS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM PHILLIES

St. Louis Increases Lead to Eight Games.

St. Louis, Mo., July 24.—(AP)—The Cardinals defeated the Phillies in both ends of a double-header today, 10 to 0 and 7 to 1. The double victory, together with Pittsburgh's victory over the second place Brooklyn Robins, increased the Cardinals' lead in the National league pennant race to eight full games.

Flint Rhem pitched the opener, allowing the Phillies only four hits, while the Red Birds pounded Jumbo Jim Elliott and Stewart Bolen for 17. In the second game old Burleigh Grimes pitched steady ball, the nine hits he allowed being well scattered.

PIRATES BEAT ROBINS, 8-7.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—Heaton's batters collected 21 hits and, aided by Larry French's fine pitching, the Pirates defeated the Robins, 8 to 7. French stepped in when Brooklyn had scored three runs and had the bases full in the sixth. He forced Lombardi, a pinch hitter, to pop to Thevenow and then fanned Reed to Groskloss, who ended the rally.

The Pirates got to Watson Clark for seven hits in the first four innings to produce all their runs. Babe Herman and Lefty O'Doul got nine of the Brooklyn hits, O'Doul hitting five singles and Herman getting a homer and two four.

GIANTS, 2.

Cincinnati, O., July 24.—(AP)—The Reds gained a 2 to 1 lead in their series with the New York Giants today when Johnny Frey's steady pitching helped them to score a 5 to 2 victory. Frey limited the Giants to seven hits and Lanch's triple, which brought one in the ninth, was the only extra base hit. The Reds made the most of their distance wallops, which included four doubles and two triples. Frey, who opposed Frey, was batting for a pinch batsman in the ninth and Cincinnati landed on John Watt for two runs that put the game on ice. Score:

Rain, Macks Beat Indians in 7th, 2 to 1

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—Rain, which stopped the game in the seventh inning after Cleveland had scored the tying run and which rendered the field too muddy for further play, helped the Philadelphia Athletics to a six inning victory today, 2 to 1. The downpour came in the Indians' half of the seventh with one out and Glenn Myatt, who had doubled Vosmik over the plate, on second.

Roy Mahaffey was thus victor over Clint Brown for his tenth win of the season. It was the Athletics' eleventh straight victory. Score:

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—The Yankees got to Elon Hogsett for three runs in the ninth inning of today's game to defeat the Detroit Tigers, 6 to 5. Hogsett held the winners to a single hit in the first six innings.

The Tigers, aided by the timely hitting of most of the cast and John Stone' home run in particular, had a 5 to 3 lead as the ninth opened. Lou Gehrig opened the New York half of the final with a single and Chapman hit for two bases. Gehrig scored on Lary's long fly and Lazzeri's hit scored Chapman with the tying run. Ruffing, a pinch hitter, singled and Sammy Byrd also singled to drive Reese, who ran for Lazzeri, in with the deciding run. Score:

MOLLETTE WINS FROM DELMONT ON FOUL IN 3D

Jimmy Mollette, Chicago lightweight, won on a foul from Danny Delmont, also of Chicago, in the third round of the scheduled eight round windup at Denemark stadium last night. Referee Sammy Ford stopped the bout and named Mollette victor when Delmont continued hitting low after several warnings.

Billy Gladstone, former Central A. A. U. lightweight champion, defeated Billy Kenny in the six round semi-windup. Both scored knockdowns, Gladstone going down for a short count in the first round, and a right to the jaw sending Kenny to the canvas in the third. Other results:

Buck Everett knocked out Emil Johnson [2].

New York Ring Board Reviews Walker Fight

New York, July 24.—(AP)—Echoes of the Sharkey-Walker match filled the New York state athletic commission offices today as the commissioners met for the first time since the debatable 15 round draw in Ebbets field Wednesday night.

Jack Kearns, manager of the middleweight who renounced his 160 pound title to fight Sharkey, made no request that the decision be changed in Walker's favor, as he said immediately after the bout he would do.

The votes of Referee Arthuhr Donovan, Judges Charles F. Mathison and George Kelly, were made public at the meeting and their round counts disclosed. Donovan gave 10 rounds to Walker and five to Sharkey, Kelly eight to Sharkey and seven to Walker, and Mathison seven to each and one even. Their cards showed all three agreed on ten of the fifteen rounds. All awarded Sharkey an edge in the fifth, sixth, twelfth, thirteenth and fifteenth rounds and likewise conceded Walker the advantage in the third, fourth, eighth, eleventh, and fourteenth sessions.

Sharkey was penalized by loss of the eighth round by Mathison because of low punching, and Kelly took the eighth and ninth rounds away from him for the same reason.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In October, 1885, the McCall Light Opera company appeared in "The Black Hussar" at the Columbia theater on Monroe street, present site of the Monroe movie theater. De Wolf Hopper sang "The Burgomaster." In the company was Mathilde Cottrelly, who was a star in her day. She and Hopper sang "Read the Answer in the Stars," an interpolated topical song which made one of the big hits of that splendid show.

Back in 1879 the late Rockwell Sayre was a member of the firm of Clement & Sayre, clothiers, at Milwaukee avenue and Carpenter street. One night there was a fire in the manufacturing department. Mr. Sayre attributed it to rats gnawing matches. So he ordered an office boy, your humble Helper, to catch a rat, which order was promptly complied with.

Mr. Rat then was given a coat of green paint, a sleigh bell was attached to his neck and he was turned loose in the factory. That was the last of the rats. Eff Bee.

Fifty and sixty years ago physicians were not the specialists of today. "Old Doc" in those days wore whiskers, rode or drove a "hoss" on his calls, and covered a big territory, wherein he knew every man, woman, and child. His greatest asset was old fashioned common sense. In an emergency he could pull a tooth, cut off a leg, or bring twins into this vale of tears. He never became rich, every one loved him, and perhaps half his cures were effected by faith in his honesty and whiskers. "Old Doc" is gone except in a few isolated communities. W. B. Manny.

Golf Regalia.

While The Wake has not defaced fairways as much as usual this season, we note a trend away from the heretofore orthodox knicker with its hot woolen stockings. More and more players are returning to long trousers of cool material.

While playing at Old Mill farm, the private course of A. D. Lasker, on the same day the football coaches replaced divots, we saw our first golf "shorts." Perhaps they are common for we have been on the links only three times in 1931. But for the benefit of those who have not viewed them, may we describe?

These "shorts" were of lightweight summer linen, and reached just to or below the knee, therefore revealing the usually unbeautiful masculine nether limb. They were, of course, unclosed at the bottom, allowing air to circulate. We are told some are shorter, well above the knee, but we prefer the kind we saw. They were worn by a veteran golfer of Glen View's low handicap list so the attire is not a fad, but for comfort.

Our objection to knickers always has been the wraps just below the knee, where the knickers are fastened, and where the garters to hold up the woolen socks also are placed, making a triple layer of "uncool" clothing.

Cubs Back in 3d Place; Beat Braves, 3 to 1

that the excitement, even for the 20,000 ladies' day guests, was reduced to a minimum. The Braves were guilty of a single by Urbanski with one out in the first, but Root bowled over the next two batters. The Cubs also produced a single in their half, English being the author, but Cuyler bounced into a double play. That was the Cubs' lone hit until the fifth. However, Grimm walked to start the third and Jurges to open the fourth, but neither received any assistance.

Sheely tried to cause Root some trouble when he led off in the second with a single over short. The force play in which English's hand was injured and a double play followed. Sheely banged another single into left to start the fifth and, because of an error being linked up with the hit, Root actually had to concentrate on a way out. Moore bunted and Hemsley pegged to second, but the ball shot into center field. Sheely, being slow afoot, was content to stay at second. Cronin also bunted, but Root picked up the ball and tossed it to Bell to force Sheely at third. The remainder of the inning was simple. Root fanned both Maguire and Cantwell.

Grimm Hits Double.

The second Cub hit was made by Charley Grimm, who will be away from his work today to attend the burial of a relative at St. Louis. With one out Grimm slashed a two bagger into the left field corner, but his stay on the base line was brief. Hemsley grounded to short and Urbanski threw to Moore to nail Grimm sliding into third. Root fouled out, and that was all for the time being.

Root walked Richbourg to open the sixth and the lad reached third on a sacrifice and a steal, but Root coaxed Berger and Worthington into popping to Blair. The next break away from the monotonous routine of outs was a pass to Stephenson after Barton had flied out in the home seventh. It didn't help any because Bell hoisted to left and Grimm to deep right. The only happenings after this were that rousing Cub splurge in the eighth, and the Braves' one run peep in the ninth.

50 CARS ENTER SPEED RACES AT ROBY TOMORROW

Starting with 24 entries when the race was originally scheduled two weeks ago, last week found 37 cars on the ground ready to go when a rainstorm descended. Now nearly 50 cars are definitely entered for tomorrow's races. Al Faeh, Chicago representative on the A. A. A. contest board, will take a poll of the drivers in case of a wet track again.

Entries in the Ash Can Derby, the event for amateur pilots with cars values at less than $50, have kept pace with those in the big races. Beam expects from 75 to 100 of the reclaimed junk cars to start.

FORT SHERIDAN ORDERS TWO POLO FOURS IN ACTION

Two Fort Sheridan polo teams will take the field tomorrow in games at Fort Sheridan and Milwaukee. A team from Onwentsia is scheduled to meet one army team on the Fort Sheridan field, while a second army team plays the Meadowbrook four at Milwaukee.

Maj. Frank B. Parker, Maj. C. C. Smith, Maj. Reinhardt, and Lieut. Bethel will be the probable lineup here, with Capt. McKay as substitute, while Capt. Branson, Lieut. Horton, Lieut. Reed, and Lieut. C. S. Smith will play at Milwaukee.

Heydler Bans Quick Pitch; Defends Umps

New York, July 24.—(AP)—The National league chief executive, John Arnold Heydler, on his return today from a somewhat stormy trip around the western half of his circuit, announced a new ruling abolishing the quick pitch, gave the less lively ball his unqualified approval and came staunchly to the defense of the umpire staff.

Conditions brought about by the advantages the new ball gives to the pitcher prompted the league president to send the following instructions to his umpires and managers:

What Pitcher Must Do.

Strictly speaking, Heydler pointed out, the league rules previously had barred the quick pitch. The regulations require a pitcher, before making his delivery, to take a position facing the batsman with both feet squarely on the ground and both hands holding the ball in front of him. However, in the absence of a more specific rule, several pitchers have practised the quick return, among them Burleigh Grimes of the Cardinals and Tom Zachary of the Braves.

The new National league ruling recalls the conflict that arose in the 1928 world's series, when Bill Sherdel of the Cardinals slipped a quick third strike over on Babe Ruth, only to have it disallowed. The Babe then propelled the next pitch out of the park. The American league has barred the quick pitch for some time, and by mutual agreement it has not been allowed in the world series.

Heydler declined to discuss his run-in at St. Louis with John McGraw, following upon the suspension of the Giants' manager, but he praised the manner in which his staff of umpires has handled a succession of hard fought, close games involving the leading pennant contenders.

Umpire's Job More Difficult.

"The umpires have been more lenient than ever before in taking criticism from players or managers," said Heydler. "They have leaned backward to avoid ejecting any one from the game or the park, but there are well defined limits that must be observed.

"People do not realize that the umpire's job has become much more difficult with the advent of the less lively ball. It has speeded up the defensive play and resulted in more close decisions. It has stimulated pitchers who are now using floaters, knucklers and other deceptive deliveries, instead of just a curve and a fast ball. This makes the job of calling them behind the plate tougher."

The absence from the field this week of R. M. Clarke of Washington, D. C., the umpire who figured in McGraw's banishment, was explained at the National league office as due to his illness. Clarke contracted tonsilitis. He will report back for duty probably next week.

PHILADELPHIANS WIN FIVE TITLES IN U. S. REGATTA

Philadelphia, Pa., July 24.—(AP)—Five of the six championships decided in the fifty-ninth regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen here today were won by Philadelphia crews. New York A. C. intermediate eight oared shell was the only out of town visitor.

Bachelors' Barge club of Philadelphia led with three titles. Emanuel J. McGreal beat out Wesley Bevan of Undine Barge by two lengths in the senior singles sculls, with Al Vogt of Penn A. C. third.

Tommy Clark of Undine Barge won the senior 145 pound single sculls for the third straight year. Undine Barge easily retained its senior 145 pound four oared title, beating Penn A. C. by two full lengths.

Barr Eliminates Hammer in Michigan Tennis Meet

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 24.—(AP)—Ed Hammer, University of Michigan star, was eliminated in the semi-final round of the western Michigan tennis tournament today by Doc Barr of Dallas, Tex., 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. Gene Mako, Glendale, Cal., defeated Jack Lynch, Taft, Cal., 6-3, 9-7, and Jay Cohn, Santa Monica, Cal., defeated Stanley Weitz, Grand Rapids, 6-2, 6-2, in the junior semi-finals.

Sarazen and Farrell Plan Argentine Tour

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, two of America's leading golfers, plan an exhibition and selling tour of the Argentine next winter. Sarazen, here for the St. Paul open, today said all plans were tentative but that if they were fulfilled he and Farrell would leave next Dec. 1 to play in numerous exhibitions.

Andereggen and Mathisen Reach Park Golf Final

Mathisen piled up an early lead against Roy Garland, Lincoln park, and won, 5 to 4. Mathisen entered the semi-final round by triumphing over H. Millis, 4 and 3.

Five Tie for St. Paul Open Tourney Lead

St. Paul, Minn., July 24.—(AP)—The first 18 hole skirmish for the $10,000 St. Paul open golf championship today found five of the 170 starters—Percy Alliss of Germany, Aubrey Boomer of France, George von Elm of Los Angeles, Horton Smith of Detroit, and Julius Ackerbloom of Little Rock, Ark.—tied for first with 69's, three shots under par for the Keller club course.

Smith, Ackerbloom Alike.

Smith and Ackerbloom shot identical, consistent rounds today. Both went out in 34, two shots under par, and strolled in with 35's, one under par. Boomer carded just the reverse, a 35 out and a 34 back. Von Elm shot even par 36 on the outward journey and rushed back with a brilliant 33, while Alliss bagged a 33 out and a 36 in.

Trailing the leaders by one shot came another quartet of sharpshooters—Tommy Armour of Detroit, British open champion; Tony Manero of Long Branch, N. J.; Clarence Gambor of Detroit, and Johnny Vavotta, outsider from Chippewa Falls, Wis.

Cooper Starts Slowly.

Cooper got off to a shaky start with a 38 but came back with a 33 to post a 71 to stay close to the lead and was joined by 10 others, including some of the biggest money winners of the game. One of them was Densmore Shute, Hudson, O., pro, whose finish was the tragedy of the opening round. Shute came to the final tee with a 64 and needed only a par 5 to tie the leaders. He was just off the green in two shots but got tangled up with some gallery ropes and wound up with a disastrous 7 and a 71 total. Gene Sarazen of New York, one of the big favorites, started with a 33 but finished with a 38 for a 71.

Other 71 shooters were Ed Dudley of Wilmington, Del., western open champion; Bill Mehlhorn, New York; Paul Runyan, Bloomfield, N. J.; Joe Ezar, St. Louis; Joe Belfore, Duluth, Minn.; Olin Dutra, Los Angeles; Oscar Oman, Alexandria, Minn., and Jimmy Foulis of Chicago. Walter Hagen of Detroit, recent winner of the Canadian open, and Johnny Goodman of Omaha tied at 72.

PRINCE OF WALES GETS HOLE IN 1 AND HE'S HAPPY

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, England, July 24.—[Special.]—The prince of Wales joined the elite of the golf world today when he made a hole in one on the royal Wimbledon golf course.

The prince, who was captain of the club two years ago, was playing in a match with Lord Ednam and Col. Hon. Piers Legh, when he did the 6th hole in one stroke. The hole measures 220 yards, and the prince's tee shot carried the ridge guarding the green and the ball, which was perfectly struck, went through the bottleneck entrance, trickling into the hole.

Upsets Mark Play in Best Ball Tourney

Upsets marked the first and second rounds of the best ball championships at Mid-City yesterday. William Lorimer and Ed Stephen, the medalists in Thursday's qualifying round, succumbed in the first round of match play yesterday to C. Gross and Ray Fredericks, 2 and 1.

Pick Weageant and Cap Allcoate of Mid-City, last year's champions, won their opening match, but lost in the second round to A. L. Quigley and A. Peterson, 3 and 2.

Quigley and Peterson will meet Gross and Fredericks in the finals today. The match will start at 1:30 o'clock. Results of yesterday's matches were:

MINUS SIGNS PREVALENT IN CHICAGO MART

Public Service Shares Down 3 Points.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Minus signts and fractions tell the story of yesterday's trading results on the Chicago exchange. Speculative enthusiasm found expression in guesses as to the probable outcome of the U. S. Steel dividend meeting rather than in share commitments. In all only 56,000 shares were involved in the day's transactions and these, for the most part, represented the casual operations of the professional element.

The recession failed to bring out any important volume of liquidation and the only issue among the active shares to lose over a point net was U. S. Radio. The stock was traded in comparatively heavy volume, with sellers making concessions throughout the day despite the fact that the current reports on the company's business are decidedly favorable. In the higher priced bracket Public Service ne par brought only 260¼ at one pered, but on later transactions was quoted at 267, off 3 points from the previous quotation.

Accessory Report Due Soon.

The forthcoming report of the automotive accessory companies which are due in the next week or so failed to inspire interest in these issues. Among the companies which will report shortly are Houdaille Hershey corporation, Bendix Aviation and Borg-Warner. The Houdaille statement, scheduled for release early next week, is expected to show the dividend requirements on the A stock covered during the second quarter. The other reports are expected to reflect the general fair record hung up by the automobile industry in the period.

Among the reports made yesterday was the second quarter statement of the Illinois Northern Utilities company and the June 30 balance sheet of Abbott Laboratories.

Earnings Advance.

The utility firm, a part of the Middle West Utilities system, showed earnings available for retirement and dividends of $346,272 for the three months ended June 30 as compared with $317,-189 in the corresponding period last year. The balance available for interest was $536,108 as contrasted with $489,871 in the comparable quarter of 1930.

The Abbott balance sheet disclosed current assets of $2,894,220, including cash of $357,792, compared with current liabilities of $31,203. On Dec. 31, last, the quick assets of the corporation amounted to $2,525,680, with cash of $191,602 and current liabilities of $440,944. Surplus at midyear was $1,-150,755 compared with $1,070,521 at the close of 1930.

JUNE INCOME OF 15 ROADS OFF LESS THAN IN MAY; SO. PACIFIC UP

The June earnings figures of the railroads reporting yesterday reflect the upturn in traffic volume experienced by many of the carriers last month. June net operating income of the first 15 roads to report showed a smaller decline in June from the corresponding month last year than the decline reported in May.

June operating income of the 15 roads was $9,118,000, a decrease of 19.9 per cent from $11,389,000 in the same month of 1930. In May the same carriers reported net operating income of $8,554,000, a reduction of 27.7 per cent from May, 1930.

Southern Pacific made a notable showing among the lines reporting. This system ended June with operating income of $3,822,513, the largest monthly revenue this year and an increase of 13.6 per cent over the $3,352,-530 reported for June, 1930. The June increase over May was approximately 30 per cent.

Other roads reporting yesterday, with comparisons with last year, included:

BOULEVARD DEAL RECALLS DAYS OF GAY NINETIES

Flats Built by Wealthy Gambler Sold.

BY AL CHASE.

Memories of the gay nineties, when Chicago was a wide open town, and George V. Hankins, millionaire gambler and race track owner, was the Al Capone of his day, were revived yesterday through the prosaic transfer of the block long flat building at the northwest corner of Michigan avenue and East 36th place. Title was transferred by Joseph I. Hollander of Los Angeles to Alex Weinberg, and that was that, for Mr. Hollander couldn't be reached and even his attorneys, Altheimer & Mayer, had never heard of Mr. Weinberg.

GEORGE V. HANKINS.

A visit to the property disclosed the once de luxe apartment building into which Hankins put $275,000 and which for a time was considered one of Chicago's finest structures of its kind and the home of wealthy families, is now completely filled with colored tenants. The once spacious ten and eleven room suites in the Michigan avenue section, and even the apartments in the Wabash avenue building, some of which were as small as four rooms, have all been converted into tiny kitchenette flats. Thomas W. Wing was architect. It was built in the fall of 1895.

Opposite Gunther Residence.

The building is directly across the boulevard from what was once the residence of Gunther, a name associated with Chicago candy all over the nation. It has a frontage on Michigan avenue of 130 feet and runs through to Wabash nearly four hundred feet, with 130 feet of frontage on Wabash avenue. It is three stories. It was once owned by the University of Chicago, which later traded it for some west side property.

Hankins in his heyday was reported to be worth in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. He operated two gorgeous gambling establishments, one on Clark street, just north of the northwest corner of Madison, on part of the site of the present H. O. Stone & Co. building. The other was just west of of the southwest corner of Madison and La Salle, on part of the site of the present Otis building.

Builds Boulevard Mansion.

He built himself a palatial gray stone mansion on Michigan avenue, near 14th street, where he and Mrs. Hankins, who often appeared in public with her famous $200,000 diamonds, lived for several years.

At one time Hankins owned the old Garfield Park race track and later, in 1894, he built the Harlem race track. His horse, Macbeth II., won the Kentucky Derby in 1888. He also won the American Derby later at the old Washington Park track at Cottage Grove avenue and 61st street. He died in comparative poverty.

DIVIDEND CUTS ARE REPORTED BY SEVERAL FIRMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Crown Zellerbach corporation has declared dividends of 75 cents each on the preference A and preference B stocks, both payable Sept. 1 to stock of record Aug. 13.

The dividends represent the balance of the regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 which were due on June 1. On May 4, 1931, directors declared 75 cents each on the preference A and preference B stocks in lieu of the regular quarterly dividends of $1.50. Dividends on the preference stocks are cumulative. Unpaid dividends on the two issues amount to $1.50 each.

Pairpoint corporation declared a dividend of $1.50 a share on its common, compared with $2 previously paid quarterly.

Sterling Exchange Rises After Gold Movement

New York, July 24.—(AP)—An encouraging development in the financial markets today was a sharp advance in sterling exchange, but it did not come until after the Bank of England had lost $20,000,000 in gold, largely to France, making a depletion of its gold reserves of roughly $45,000,000 since it raised its discount rate from 2½ to 3½ per cent, in an effort to check the seepage of the metal. The pound sterling, after the closing of foreign markets, rose here to $4.85⅝ for cable transfers, a gain of nearly a cent. At that level it was 1¼ cents below gold parity.

General American Tank Car Earnings Show Gain

The General Tank Car corporation and its subsidiaries showed an increase in earnings the second quarter. Net income, after all charges, totaled $1,-271,000, compared with $1,204,000 in the first quarter of 1931. This is equivalent to $1.55 a share on the 818,833 shares of no par capital stock outstanding against $1.47 a share in the preceding quarter. The first half of 1931 net earnings amounted to $2,-475,000, or $3.02 a share. This is over 50 per cent in excess of the dividend requirements for this period.

GILLETTE AND UNITED CIGAR DROP SUITS AGAINST EACH OTHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—Large counter-damage suits filed against each other by the Gillette Safety Razor company and the United Cigar Store company have been settled. The Gillette company will pay United Cigar $1,900,000 and all contracts will be canceled.

The Gillette Safety Razor company last May filed a suit in the Supreme court here against the United for $10,-000,000 damages, alleging misrepresentation by the United in connection with a contract expiring in 1937 between the two companies, covering the marketing of Gillette razors and blades.

A counter-suit was filed in the United States District court in Newark asking $7,000,000 damages for alleged breach of contract. The complaint in this charged that Gillette had defaulted on a payment of $312,-500 due under the contract to the United on May 1 for advertising displays and services and that Gillette had repudiated its entire contract with United, aggregating $7,000,000 over the next six years.

Continue Boston Suit.

Boston, Mass., July 24.—(AP)—Hearings before Judge William M. Prest, master in the $21,000,000 suit of minority stockholders of the Gillette Safety Razor company against certain former directors, were adjourned today until Oct. 5. The stockholders charge alleged unlawful acts of the directors caused a $21,000,000 loss to the company.

L PRODUCERS' 'STRIKE' BRINGS QUICK RESULTS

BY O. A. MATHER.

There have been consumers' "strikes" against high prices of commodities in former periods of depression, but a producers' "strike" because of low prices is a rarity. However, such a movement appears to have been successfully inaugurated by Oklahoma oil producers, who voted to shut down their wells a week ago last until crude oil prices advanced. It would appear that this "strike" brought speedy results, as several of the purchasing companies almost immediately practically doubled their bids for oil. Several of the Mid Continent Oil group fell in line yesterday with the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company, subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana, offering a new price schedule ranging from 30 cents a barrel for oil in the Kansas and north and central Texas fields and the Ohio Oil company, subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, offering prices of 37 to 43 cents a barrel.

Movement May Spread.

These new maximum prices represent a two cent advance over the 40 cents top announced earlier in the week by several of the smaller purchasing concerns. Moreover, it is an increase of about 20 cents a barrel over the lower price imposed several weeks ago. Whether oil producers will be satisfied with the new prices remains to be seen.

Reports from Tulsa, Okla., yesterday said the shutdown movement would be further discussed by midcontinent producers at a massmeeting set for today, with independent operators planning to spread the movement until all crude oil reaches $1 a barrel. They also are urging Gov. Murray of Oklahoma to order an indefinite suspension of production in all flush fields in the state until prices become stabilized.

ECONOMICAL FINANCING

The United States has set another record for economical financing. Investors, chiefly banks and insurance companies, were willing to accept a yield of less than one-half of 1 per cent on the latest offering of short term treasury bills, which were offered this week.

The treasury offered around $50,000,000 of 91 day bills, which bear no interest but are sold on a discount basis. The total amount applied for was $73,318,000 and the amount allotted was $51,000,000. The highest bid was 99.908, equivalent to an interest rate of about 60-100 of 1 per cent on an annual basis, and the lowest bid accepted was 99.883, equivalent to an interest rate of about 52-100 of 1 per cent. The average price was 99.885, equivalent to an interest rate of about 46-100 of 1 per cent.

SIGNS OF RECOVERY

Encouraging signs of a slow recovery in trade, with promise of its continuance, were dwelt upon yesterday in the weekly trade reviews. R. G. Dun & Co. reporting definite gains in several lines of wholesale business and no letup in the buying noticeable in many weeks before. Price firmness in some major commodities brought new transactions, which was considered important for the more optimistic change it gave to public confidence.

Continued warm weather in most parts of the country, Dun's report said, favored the distribution of summer wearing apparel, electric fans, refrigerators and many labor-saving household appliances.

Vacation Season at Peak.

"The height of the vacation season stimulated the movement of luggage, sports goods and traveling accessories, the report says. "Railroads in some of the largest grain districts are having materially increased loadings, owing to the marketing of small grains, after an earlier harvest than in most years. This is particularly noticeable in the southwest.

"Wheat output is beginning to show encouraging increases in several important manufacturing centers, in some cases running ahead of the volume of last year for the comparative period. Major crude oil producers have started on their plan of allowing demand to govern supply, resulting in a sharp curtailment of output during the week. In spite of the widespread labor difficulties in the coal fields, production appears to have been maintained very well."

Report Loose-Wiles Plans to Build in Los Angeles

Wall street hears that the Loose-Wiles Biscuit company is planning the erection of a Los Angeles branch factory to cost $1,500,000. The construction of the first buildings, the report says, will begin within ten days and the plant will be completed next year.

CARROLL APPOINTED RECEIVER FOR SOUTH SIDE SAVINGS BANK

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday appointed John A. Carroll, south side banker, as receiver for the South Side Savings Bank and Trust company, 4959 Cottage Grove avenue, which closed on June 6 with resources of $4,624,321 and deposits of $3,776,226. Samuel A. Ettelson was named as attorney for the receiver.

JOHN A. CARROLL.

Mr. Carroll, who is chairman of the executive committee of the Hyde Park-Kenwood National bank, is to be paid for his services on a salary basis. Recent attempts to reorganize the South Side Savings bank, some of them participated in by depositors' committees, have proved unsuccessful.

Mr. Nelson yesterday continued his conferences with directors and depositors of closed banks. Among those he interviewed were directors of the Roseland State Savings bank, 11431 South Michigan, which closed on July 6, and members of depositors committees from the Roseland district.

Members of a depositors committee of the Boulevard State Savings bank, 3621 Irving Park boulevard, are endeavoring to have the present receiver, Emil Wentzlaff, removed and Roland W. Erickson, an investment broker, appointed in his place. Walter A. Dietze, 3755 North Kimball avenue, is secretary of the depositors' committee which is seeking to have Mr. Wentzlaff removed.

Nash Motors to Keep Plant Open All During Summer

Rate Hearings Are Scheduled in Ten Cities

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—A complete schedule of hearings throughout the country on the application of the railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates and charges was announced today by the interstate commerce commission.

In addition to the hearings already announced for Aug. 10 at Washington, D. C., Aug. 17 at San Francisco, and Aug. 31 at Chicago, the schedule provides for hearings as follows:

Portland, Me., Aug. 4; Portland, Ore., Aug. 12; Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 17; Dallas, Tex., Aug. 21; Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 24; and Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 26.

"These hearings are for the accommodation of all concerned," said the commission. "It is expected that the eastern interests, except New England, will present their evidence at the Washington hearing scheduled to begin Aug. 10. Printed briefs must be filed within ten days after the close of the final hearing."

Announcement also was made by the commission that it had denied the motion of Grenville Clark, counsel for the emergency committee on railroad investments of life insurance companies and mutual savings banks, that the hearings be continued in Washington without postponement until Aug. 15, when the hearing should conclude.

The commission's investigations into practices of railroads affecting operating revenues or expenses, which was announced just before hearings were began July 15 on the application of the railroads for an increase in rates, is entirely independent of the rate proceeding, according to George B. McGinty, secretary of the commission. Originally it was announced that the two inquiries were to be coupled.

HUDSON MOTOR JUNE QUARTER NET IS $300,597

Hudson Motor Car company reported for the June quarter net income of $300,597 after depreciation and federal taxes, or 19 cents a share on 1,596,660 shares outstanding. This compares with $226,395, or 14 cents a share, in the preceding quarter and with $1,075,067, or 67 cents a share, in the second quarter of 1930.

Net income for the first six months of this year amounted to $526,992, equal to 33 cents a share contrasted with $3,392,012 in the first half of 1930, or $2.12 a share.

Baldwin Locomotive Works, including subsidiaries, reported for the first half of this year net loss of $1,775,536 after charges, contrasted with net profit in the first six months of 1930 of $1,807,597 after charges and federal taxes, equal after 7 per cent preferred dividends to $1.31 a share on 843,000 no par shares of common.

After preferred dividends for the period the deficit amounted to $2,475,536, as against surplus of $370,287 after payments of preferred and common dividends a year ago.

U. S. Industrial Alcohol company had a net loss for the first six months of this year of $527,287 after depreciation, against net profit of $1.47 a share in the first half of 1930.

La Salle-Monroe Corp.

Will you kindly give me a report on New York Life building 6½ per cent bonds, due in 1933? I have recently been advised to dispose of the bonds, as a party who deals in bonds told me that the future prospects for it did not look very good. However, before I do this I want the facts concerning the bonds. Party advised me to sell at around $50.—J. F. N.

La Salle-Monroe corporation (New York Life Building, Chicago, Ill.) first leasehold 6½s, due to Sept. 15, 1946, are secured by a first mortgage on the leasehold in land and a fourteen story office building located thereon at the northeast corner of La Salle and Monroe streets, Chicago.

Total ground area is about 18,760 square feet. Net rentable area is about 181,250 square feet.

For the year ended April 30, 1930, gross earnings were $795,090. Net after all charges except depreciation was $322,632, which was about 2.68 times interest charges of $120,369. Based on information received from the underwriter of the issue total rent for the ten months to Feb. 28, 1931, was $530,986. For the month of February, 1931, rent received was $52,000. Gross income for the ten month period was $578,097. For February, 1931, gross income was $56,083. For the ten months to Feb. 28, 1931, net income before depreciation and bond interest was $206,463, or 2.11 times interest requirements of $97,957. For February, 1931, net income before depreciation and interest was $18,846, or about 1.95 times bond interest requirements of $9,679.

Oh Feb. 28, 1931, current assets were $140,656 and current liabilities were $357,927. Cash was $85,179. Accrued bond interest was $53,232. General taxes payable totaled $295,630 and income tax payable was $2,817. There were outstanding $1,858,000 first 6½s out of a total issue of $2,000,000 offered in March, 1926.

Commonwealth & Southern.

Will you please give me the address of Commonwealth and Southern corporation? I have some of their common stock, and two dividend periods have passed since my purchase, yet I have heard nothing from the company.—E. E. H.

The New York office of Commonwealth and Southern corporation is at 20 Pine street. Dividends totaling 25 cents per common share were paid in 1931 to June 1.

Northern States Power.

Your opinion of the 6½ per cent notes due 1933 of Northern States Power company will be appreciated.—Mrs. C. B. S.

Northern States Power company (Minnesota) 6½ per cent notes, due Nov. 1, 1933, are suitable for a business man's surplus funds.

PULLMAN TRIES OUT ALUMINUM SLEEPING CAR

Weight Saving Type Is Developed.

BY SCRUTATOR.

When the first all steel sleeping car was attempted, a quarter of a century ago, it was said to have been built with "a hacksaw, a cold chisel, and a lot of bad language."

It was an experiment, and the builders had to develop their methods and their tools as they went along.

Today, down at the Pullman works, a similar experiment is under way. A complete new sleeping car is being built entirely of aluminum, except wheels, axles, brakes, and springs. The trucks have already been started. Within a year, barring unforeseen developments, it will be on the rails. The company plans to exhibit it at the World's Fair in 1933.

Such a car, the builders believe, can be constructed to weigh from 25 to 30 or 40 per cent less than the present steel car, which runs between 160,000 and 170,000 pounds. The old wooden cars averaged about 129,000 pounds.

Insull Line Uses Aluminum.

The aluminum sleeping car is not a sudden departure. Next Monday the Indiana railroad, an Insull line, will put in operation the first of a group of thirty-five aluminum body electric cars on its line between Indianapolis and Fort Wayne. Twenty-one are being delivered by the Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation and the rest by the American Car and Foundry.

The use of aluminum reduces the weight of the car body approximately 8,000 pounds, a saving of about one-third. Besides requiring less energy for operation, the new type of car stops and starts more quickly and has a lower center of gravity. Its advertised speed is seventy or more miles per hour.

New Magnetic Brakes.

Each truck is equipped with two 100 horsepower motors, clasp brakes and magnetic brakes. The latter, a recent development for electric railway service, comprise a cast steel shoe located immediately over the rail and between the wheels on each side of the truck. This shoe is magnetized and attracted to the rail when an emergency application of the air brakes is made, or the broke may be applied separately by the motorman.

The aluminum industry has made great strides in the last year or two. A method of making the large castings required in car building has been developed. Etching, welding, and enameling processes have been perfected. The cost of producing the metal itself has been reduced.

All aluminum railroad cars offer some interesting possibilities. The same locomotive could haul a longer train. Or perhaps light electric or gas-electric locomotives might be developed to travel at a higher speed or haul shorter trains, but running at more frequent intervals.

Less Weight to Carry.

Last year the average sleeping car carried ten passengers. It weighed around 80 tons. For every passenger the railroads had to haul about 16,000 pounds of metal. Had the cars weighed a third less, the railroads could have transported each Pullman passenger with 5,000 fewer pounds of equipment.

Several years may elapse before the car builders will be ready to go in for aluminum in a big way. In the meantime other important improvements in passenger and sleeping car equipment are under consideration. The passenger trains of the future are likely to be more comfortable and speedier, although there may be fewer of them.

For more than a decade the railway passenger business has been steadily slipping in competition with the motorbus and the private automobile. In 1920 the class I railways carried 1,234,862,048 passengers; in 1930 only 704,053,000.

Live Stock Rate Boost Is Attacked by Farm Bureau

BY PAUL POTTER.

The boost of approximately 10 per cent in railroad live stock rates, effective Oct. 27, that was announced by the Interstate commerce commission on Monday, will seriously affect the transportation of farm animals from middle west and western states into Chicago's stockyards. This was the opinion expressed yesterday by O. W. Sandberg, transportation expert of the American farm bureau federation.

O. W. SANDBERG.

"The commission endeavored to make a uniform rate basis," declared Sandberg, "but the attempt is a sad blow to agriculture, and the live stock industry in particular."

Based on 1928 Figures.

The ruling is based on data obtained by the commission in 1928, and is the result of rate adjustments requested by railroads more than six years ago, Sandberg said. Since the hearings, he pointed out, the live stock industry has suffered a blow as a result of the general depression.

In order to make a uniform shipping charge based on mileage for all areas west of Chicago, the commission is said to have raised the rates 10 per cent between the Mississippi river and the Rockies, and lowered them more than 6 per cent in Texas and the southwest areas.

Farmers between 60 and 300 miles from Chicago are affected, the federation's analysis shows. Iowa supplies 51 per cent of the hogs shipped to Chicago, while Illinois, Wisconsin and Missouri supply 77 per cent of the cattle receipts. Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Illinois supply 93 per cent of the hogs shipped to the stockyards.

Predict Increase in Trucking.

If railroads accept the authorized increase, Sandberg, together with C. A. Stewart of the National Live Stock Marketing association, predict there will be an increase in the amount of live stock shipped into Chicago by trucks, or some of the present Chicago business will go to St. Louis, Omaha, St. Paul, Indianapolis or other markets. Seven farm organizations, including the National Grange, have joined the federation in opposing the boost.

"When we come to western trunk line territory, where is produced about 40 per cent of al cattle and 60 per cent of all hogs in the entire country, the majority by this report for the first time since 1925 raise the rates on agricultural products about 10 per cent."

"Coming at a time when the live stock industry is prostrate, it is most inopportune and unfortunate, to say the least," he added. Commissioner Porter also declared the commission "is prescribing a rate relationship which will create rather than remove preferences."

Oppose Request for New Boost.

The Farm Bureau federation also announced yesterday plans to oppose the railroads' request for a 15 per cent boost in freight rates. The hearing is scheduled for Aug. 31 at the Hotel Sherman.

Using figures for the farmers' freight bill in 1929 as a yardstick, the federation will show that the increase would add $130,000,000 to this bill annually.

The federation will review the depressed condition of agriculture for ten years, whereas the railroads and industry have been affected for only some 12 months.

Sandberg will also cite records of the commerce commission showing that with the exception of fruits and vegetables, the greater portion of farm crops move less than 300 miles. He predicts a rate increase will increase competition from trucks.

GREAT WESTERN REPORTS GAIN IN JUNE NET INCOME

Showing an increase of 90 per cent in net for June and 72 per cent for the first six months of this year, the latter representing the largest net for any similar period since 1917, Chicago Great Western Railroad company reports net income after interest and all charges for June of $45,643, against $23,942 last ear. Net income, after interest and all charges, for the six months ended June 30 amounted to $412,467, as compared with $239,201, an increase of $173,266, or 72 per cent, which is equal to 39 cents per share on the preferred stock.

Total operating revenues for June declined $188,362, or to $1,673,804 from $1,862,166 in the same month last year, while operating expenses were reduced $288,558, or to $1,215,969 from $1,144,527. Net railway operating income totaled $186,600, as against $154,145.

Total operating revenues for the first six months showed a decrease of $1,291,934, or to $9,792,207 from $11,083,241 in the same period of 1930. Operating expenses, however, were reduced $1,635,644, or to $6,918,200 from $8,553,844. Net railway operating income totaled $1,231,692, as against $1,008,507, an increase of $223,185.

Stock Having Two Names Dealt in on N. Y. Exchange

The unusual spectacle of a stock with two names and transactions taking place in the shares sold under both names simultaneously was witnessed on the New York stock exchange yesterday. American Brown Boveri changed its title to New York Shipbuilding. The latter has been admitted to trading, but the stock under the old name will not be stricken from the list until Aug. 3. Meanwhile stockholders will be given a further opportunity to exchange their certificates.

Manufacturers Operate at Lower Unit Costs

Despite the reduced volume of production manufacturers have found it possible to operate at lower unit costs than those of a year ago, chiefly because of a decline in prices for most of the materials entering into their products, a survey of the clothing trade by Standard Statistics company says.

"During the first half of the current year," the survey says, "prices for cotton cloth were reduced by 4.5 per cent on the average, while reductions of 12 per cent and 7 per cent were experienced in the cases of silk and rayon fabrics, and woolen and worsted goods, respectively."

Announce Consolidation of N. Y. Exchange Houses

New York, June 24.—(AP)—Consolidation of the New York stock exchange firms of Jenks, Gwynne & Co. and Reinhart & Bennet, effective Aug. 1, was announced today. The new firm will be named Jenks, Gwynne & Co. In addition to its membership in the leading New York exchanges, the company will have memberships in the Dallas cotton exchange, Montreal curb market, Chicago Board of Trade, New Orleans cotton exchange, and the Quebec stock exchange, and an associate membership in the Liverpool Cotton association.

Railroads Putting Cars in Order for Better Times

Indications that manufacturers and users of chemicals are preparing for business recovery by putting their railroad equipment in order are evident from the large number of special freight cars now undergoing repairs. The General American Tank Car corporation, prominent in the development of special cars for the chemical industry, reports exceptional activity during the past three months at its ten repair plants in various parts of the United States.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 24.—With the foreign financial situation apparently sidetracked for the time being, speculative interest turned once more to home fields today. Talk of a cut in the $7 dividend rate of the United States Steel corporation at the forthcoming meeting was revived, with the tone a bit more pessimistic than ever. Publication of the June railway earnings did not help matters any and the oil industry picture did not look so engaging at is did a day or two ago, being marred among other things by rumors of probable dividend reductions notably in Standard of Indiana. The trade reviews offered little beyond their perennial hopes.

Stock prices slipped steadily downward. The volume of business was slim, reflecting the restricted operation of many of the leading operators and the absence of many more and there was little sign of any aggressive bear pressure against any part of the list. Nevertheless, scattered losses ranged as high as 5 points, with some of the highest grade issues of the roster numbered among the outstanding victims. United States Steel was sold steadily, for instance, and the close of trading found it off more than 3 points from yesterday. Peoples Gas of Chicago took a tumble of more than 6 points, but later recovered somewhat.

Auburn Off 6 Points.

Auburn Auto broke more than 6 points, Atchison gave up 5, Eastman Kodak 5¼, Ingersoll Rand 3½, Case Threshing Machine, Allied Chemical and McKeesport Tin, 3 each, and American Power and Light 2½ points. Interborough Rapid Transit was a weak feature and Liggett & Myers slid off about 3 points on two transactions.

Amusements were mostly lower and so were the chemicals. What looked like a renewal of dribbling liquidation developed in the carrier group, making for recessions of 1 to 3 points in most of the active descriptions. This selling undoubtedly was influenced by the poor comparative showing of June opening results. Figures for last month, except in a few instances, where marked operating economies were suggested, as, for example, in the case of Southern Pacific, disclosed continued drop in both gross revenues and net operating income. Southern Pacific and Chicago Great Western were able to show some improvement in net operating income despite falling off in gross, while New York, Ontario and Western, which has been a notable exception to date this year, revealed improvement in its position well sustained.

Other Rails Decline.

Besides Atchison, the chief losers of the group today included Union Pacific, with a loss of more than 3 points, New York Central off about as much, Baltimore and Ohio, Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific off from 2 to 4 points each.

Bethlehem Steel followed the group leader of the industry to lower levels. Selling of the stock of this corporation was due not only to talk of a cut in United Steel's dividend, but also in some measure undoubtedly to the pessimistic remarks on the outlook for the industry recently made by E. G. Grace, head of Bethlehem.

Motor shares held fairly firm due to the encouraging nature of the second quarter earnings statements.

A few issues were able to score moderate gains on the day. Among these were Alaska Juneau, Gillette Safety Razor, the first named being prodded ahead by the pool working on its interest and the razor stock making capital out of the news that the corporation's suit against the United Cigar stores had been settled, ostensibly in the razor company's favor.

A higher set of live stock markets resulted from abbreviated supplies at leading centers yesterday. Light weight hogs and top cattle of lambs scored the sharpest gains.

Combined receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at the twenty leading markets at 138,000 showed a reduction of 14,000 compared with last Friday and were below any corresponding day since 1927. The five day total at the 20 points shows a decrease of 44,000 head, or 7 per cent, compared with a week ago.

Hogs were erratic on the bulge, light and light butchers selling readily at the 26@35c advance, while medium and heavy hogs closed barely steady, holding the general average price down to $4.80, only 10c above Thursday's average. The extreme top for load lots soared to $8.00 and a part load reached $8.10, highest since early in April.

Demand shows a decided preference for lighter weight hogs and the range of prices keeps widening out. Hogs of equal weight and very similar in quality are selling as much as 50@75c apart lately and a slight difference in quality makes a difference of as much as $1.00 in many instances. Outsiders bought 24 per cent of Chicago receipts the first five days of this week against 20 per cent a year ago and 18 per cent two years ago.

August Hogs Bid $7.75.

Light weight hogs for next month's delivery were offered at $8.50 and carried bids of $7.75 on the futures market yesterday, while September light and mediums were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.50. Heavy grades for September were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.25. December medium and heavy grades were offered at $6.90.

Good steers and yearlings held the week's 50c advance on yesterday's session, but hardly enough stock arrived to put the market to a test. The best cattle available, a load of mixed yearling steers and heifers, average 831 lbs and sold at $8.60. The same price was paid for 35 baby beef heifers averaging 765 lbs. Most cattle sold at $7.00@8.00 and poorest grades of steers ranged downwards to $6.00.

Medium grades of butcher stock weakened yesterday, but corn fed cows and heifers are closing higher than a week ago. Calves are steady to 50c higher for the week, while bulls are closing 25@35c lower than a week ago. Grass cattle are coming on the market in greater numbers lately, but demand for feeding stock has been slack and is not expected to improve until after the first of next month. More than 40 per cent of the year's shipments of stockers and feeders from Chicago are made during September and October.

Lamb Market Active.

Activity featured the lamb market yesterday and the clearance was earlier than usual. Top natives swung up to $8.00, city butchers paying the price for sorted natives, while tops from the supply of western range lambs brought $7.65@7.90. Matured stock and yearlings were scarce and quoted steady. There has been little demand for feeding lambs lately, although traders look for a brisk trade in feeders at $5.00@5.75 soon after the harvest. Good feeding lambs are reported moving direct from the range to Colorado and Nebraska feed lots at $4.50@5.00 lately. The government report places the 1931 lamb crop in the United States at 31,684,000 head, or 5 per cent below a year ago, a decrease of 2,800,000 head. In 1929 the crop was 36,837,000 head.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 30,000 to 42,000. S. Keating marked 39,000; A. G. Welhener, 35,000; J. M. Waters and W. T. Reneker, 36,000; F. S. Waterbery and O. C. Egan, 37,000; C. Southwick and G. W. Chandler, 38,000; P. M. Sherwood, 39,000; R. Trullinger, J. T. Brown and M. J. Berkery, 40,000, and F. Kuntzen, 42,000.

HOGS GAIN, LARD EASES

Hogs sold at 8c in Chicago yesterday, the highest since last April. At the same time, trading in lard and bellies was extremely light and it took only a little selling by local to carry prices down, with a close on lard 21@25c lower, with September the most active month. Bellies were 3½c lower on September, the only month traded in. Cash trade was fair. Liverpool lard was 3d lower. Export clearances were 644,330 lbs. of lard and of bacon, 7,500 lbs. Hog receipts were small at Chicago and decidedly less at outside markets, as compared with a week and a year ago. There were deliveries on July sales of 250,000 lbs. of lard and 150,000 lbs. of bellies. Prices follow:

SUPPORT FAILS AND PRICES OF GRAINS DECLINE

Farmers' National Bro- ers Sell December Wheat

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lack of buying support yesterday in the last thirty minutes of trading, combined with an increase in hedging pressure and stop order selling brought a crash in all the grain markets.

Nearly all prices closed around the lowest. Weakness in the stock and bond markets contributed toward the weakness in grains and made a distressful feeling all around. Wintry weather was largely responsible for the sharp rise in wheat. Reports from the Kansas market said selling on orders from Chicago had forced the market to stop limits, with the close at 1¢@1½¢ lower, July being 55¾¢ and September 63¢. At Chicago July was 1@1¾c lower, July being 53¾@52¾c, and December, 57¼@57c.

The selling of December wheat by the Farmers' National brokers also contributed to the late weakness and was followed by general selling in Minneapolis, where losses were ½@¾c.

Corn and other grains weakened with wheat, corn being off ¼c on July, with September off 1¼c at 47@46¾c, and December off ¾c at 46@45¾c. Oats were off ¾@¾c and rye ¾c for the day.

Soviet Russian News.

Latest Liverpool cables, with bearish news from Russia, started moderate selling early, offsetting the report of Broomhall's estimate of a cut of 200,000,000 bu in the Argentine acreage and of 5,000,000 bu in Australia. The latter country is said to have had most unfortunate experience in the year as a result of the government's striking farmers to increase their acreage.

A report from New York early in the day that a syndicate was negotiating with the federal farm board for 100,000,000 bu of cash wheat, failing to agree on a price being the only hitch to closing the deal, was promptly denied by George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation at Chicago. He said there were no negotiations under way. The deal brought a little selling, but almost the entire morning prices held within a narrow range. Export business was limited. Shipments from North America for the week were 10,000,000 bu of wheat and flour, compared with 4,150,000 bu the previous week and 9,357,000 bu last year.

Sound on Flour Sales.

Millers are said to continue buying corn against flour sales and are constantly taking off hedges sold against their cash wheat. In some quarters they are said to be carrying corn without hedges, depending on sales of flour.

Final receipts at leading markets for the week ended Friday were 21,-000 cars, compared with 30,607 cars in previous week and since July 1 amounted to 25,059 cars, a good increase over last year. There were sales of 600 bu of wheat to go to store and export business was small.

On traders were in the main bearish on deferred futures, and there was pressure from sellers nearly all day, the market declining below the close. The selling against them was a factor in depressing prices. It was difficult to trade in July at times as the price early touched 53¾c and the low 47¾c, with the close at 55c.

Report Crop Damage.

Crop reports were more mixed, with many sections needing rain, and while here were showers reported in numerous instances, more rain is needed. Then the reports of damage to the crop in northwestern Iowa, South Dakota, and Nebraska, but none of the crop reports were accompanied by selling orders. Receipts were liberal, and public elevator operators the principal buyers of the contract grain, failed to go to store were not with No. 2 yellow in the cash market ½@¾c under July.

Trading was on in oats by commission houses, with cash interests the best buyers on the break. There were reports of damage to the Illinois crop by the recent heat, but they failed to bring buying orders, leaving little support to the cash interests. Rye was under pressure from local interests and had a little support from shorts of bids, but trade was limited.

COTTON PRICES DECLINE

With trade sentiment dominated by disappointing news from abroad due to the unsettlement in Germany's affairs, lack of hedging business, uncertainty as to whether the government will make an announcement as to its intentions regarding its large holdings of cotton, speculators, and the trade in general, hesitate to become aggressive in either direction. Opening prices were lower in all American markets. Spinners takings for the week were 152,000 bales, according to Hester, compared with 176,000 bales the previous week and 108,000 last year.

Liverpool cables were 4@5 points up, but were not as high as expected. That market closed with losses of 4@9 points and spot sales were only 3,000 bales.

Cotton futures closed 21@29 points net lower in New York, 25@26 points down at Chicago and at New Orleans were 24@26 points off. Spot trade was light with the close at New York 8c off 20 points; New Orleans 8.85c, 15 points lower; Houston, 8.80c, Galveston 8.85c, the latter two 30 points lower. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS EASY

Butter news carried a bearish tone yesterday and the futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange dropped off ½c before active selling. Liquidation entered in egrs and the November delivery reacted ¼c. Potatoes were unsettled. Idahos holding without change, round whites gaining 1c and Green Mountains losing the same. Storage of butter in the four markets was heavier than a year ago by nearly 43,000 lbs. New selling and liquidation on the news promptly started the price lower, the wave continuing to the close. Uncertainty over the futures storage rate was an important factor in the easiness. While the trade news was considered good, 12,800 cases less going in than last year, selling was prominent. Short covering also was an important item, but failed to revive any enough interest to hold the market. Sales: Butter, 92 cars; eggs, 97 cars; potatoes, 15 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car. ILLINOIS CROP NEWS

"From Chicago to Streator, La Salle to Sterling, Ill., harvesting of oats is being finished and besides the early reports being damaged late in June, last week's hot spell damaged some of the late portion," says a wire from H. C. Donovan, crop expert of Logan & Bryan. Corn is in splendid shape all through northern Illinois with not a stalk showing serious damage from recent hot spell which was favorable for rushing growth just previous to tasseling period. Soil still has plenty of moisture."

A Waterloo, Ia., wire to Beach Wickam & Co. says many reliable farmers in that section say corn is starting to fire and that they must have immediate rains as corn is now in critical stage. Threshing returns show out yields 25 to 40 bu testing 22 to 29 lbs. Other advices from the Dodge say unless relief comes there will be much damage to corn over northwest part of state.

The United States department of agriculture says the world wheat crop will be 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 bu less than harvested past season.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed easy today, 6 to 20 points net lower. Sales were only one contract in October. Heaviness of the stock market, easiness of cotton, grains and lard and an absence of demand accounted for the market reaction. Crude oil was nominal. Bleachable spot closed 6.90c; July, 7.10c; Sept., 6.83c; Oct., 6.35c; Dec., 6.20c, and Jan., 6.29c. Prime summer yellow contracts closed at 6.90c for spot and July, and 6.70c for Sept., 6.10c for Dec., and 6.20 for Jan., with no sales reported.
